A NEW DEALER ADMITS BROOKS IS QUITE RIGHT

Republican Stirs Up Senate Revolt

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14—Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] led a senate revolt today against permitting foreign governments to distribute American billions thruout the world in their own name.

Administration leaders rushed to the support of the administration's giving and lending. But before the debate had subsided, Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] of the foreign relations committee and leading advocate of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration and the administration's other global projects confessed the wisdom of those who opposed from the beginning, American charity controled by foreigners.

"What We Know Now"

"In the light of what we know now," Connally said, "I would favor starting this as an American relief project administered by Americans. A man knocks at your door and asks for food. On the second trip he expects it. And on the third he demands it."

Brooks opened discussion of the whole field of American charity and lending during consideration of the 2 billion dollar deficiency bill for government agencies. On request of President Truman, a 400 million dollar appropriation for UNRRA suddenly was tacked on this bill last night just before it was ready for presentation to the senate today.

Altho the bill is intended to grant extra money to agencies that have spent their appropriations and need more, the UNRRA appropriation was in actual anticipation of a second authorization of $1,350,000,000. The house has authorized the second $1,350,000,000 for UNRRA but the senate has not voted on it yet. The authorization was approved by Connally's committee only yesterday.

White House Request

When the advance appropriation came up today, Chairman McKellar [D., Tenn.] of the appropriations committee announced that the White House had just asked him to increase the amount to 750 million dollars.

But Brooks intervened.

"We are going at the foreign loan business and the UNRRA appropriations,' he shouted, "as if we were going over Niagara Falls. We cannot go over a little bit at a time. We apparently are over.

"We were told originally that $1,350,000,000 would be the end. We were given that assurance by UNRRA Director Lehman. But before they were thru, they were up here with a request for another $1,350,000,000."

Brooks protested that beneficiaries of American bounty do not even know that it comes from America.

"Can't Stop Now"

"I am sure we cannot stop this now," Brooks went on, "but I say we are passing these laws relating to our foreign dealings without insisting that the people in the foreign countries even know where the money is coming from. And we do not insist that they know where they get the food.

"I protest against giving the money to the governments and letting them do whatever they want to for their power politics with this money. I cannot conscientiously oppose an appropriation to feed the poor, but I can conscientiously oppose the way we are doing it."

Unaware of the other protests that were coming, Connally took the floor to rebuke Brooks when Brooks said the foreign relations committee should specify where the money is to go in future bills and make it plain to the recipients that American taxpayers are the givers.

Democrats then joined with Brooks. Sen. McClellan [D., Ark.] charged that Americans are paying 90 per cent of UNRRA's cost, asserting that Great Britain is paying part of its share out of American lend-lease.

Despite the protests, there were too few votes to defeat the three-quarter billion dollar appropriation.

House Passes a 'Weakened' Jobs Measure

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—Legislation aimed at assuring jobs was approved by the house today, 254 to 126.

The measure—a substitute for the so-called "full employment" bill requested by President Truman—lays down a federal policy of maintaining "a high level of employment, production, and purchasing power."

It provides for creation of a three man economic council to make recommendations toward achieving that goal.

Action on the measure came after the house rejected, 185 to 95, the original "full employment" bill and defeated a plan for an inventory of the nation's assets and liabilities.

Two Months of Controversy

The house also turned down, 243 to 136, a move to send all jobs bills back to the expenditures committee, which had drafted the measure finally adopted.

Final action came after two days of debate and more than two months of controversy in the expenditures committee.

The substitute goes to a senate-house conference committee, which will try to iron out differences between the bill and a modified version of the "full employment" bill passed by the senate in October.

If the house bill becomes law, it would call on the council to study economic trends and make suggestions to the President, starting in 1947, regarding ways to keep employment and production at "high levels."

Would Report to Congress

The President would report to congress his recommendations. There a joint senate-house committee established by the measure would act on his proposals.

The senate approved bill retains the goal of "full employment" but specifies it must be consistent with the "needs and obligations" of the federal government. It also carries the stipulation that all able bodied Americans wanting jobs are entitled to an opportunity for them.

Both bills say the government should step in only if private enterprise can't provide enough jobs.

Proponents of the original "full employment" measure still were hopeful of getting a stronger bill in conference than either the senate or house approved.

CIO CHIEFTAIN TO G.M.: 'YOU'RE IN FOR A FIGHT'

Blow by Blow Story of Parley Told

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14 [Special]—In a hot debate over issues of the 23 day old General Motors strike, Walter P. Reuther, CIO United Auto Workers vice president, hurled this challenge to Harry W. Anderson, G. M. vice president:

"You are asking for a fight, and, brother, you are going to get it, and if it is the last thing we do, brother, we are going to sweat this one out to the bitter end."

Anderson retorted, "You asked for it."

Blow by Blow Account

A blow by blow account of the debate, which took place yesterday during negotiation sessions between representatives of the company and the union, was made public today. General Motors made public a partial stenographic report on the discussions and the union later released an additional portion of the exchanges.

Present at the session, in addition to Reuther and Anderson, were S. M. Du Brul of the G. M. labor economics division; and Thomas Johnstone, Alfred Frederico, and L. G. Seaton of the union, and Hugh Dean, Chevrolet manufacturing manager.

Reuther led off in his defense of the strikers by asking "What can labor do that is right?" Du Brul shot this reply: "Work hard."

Reuther returned: "We worked damned hard at this job and I think you guys have treated General Motors workers like they weren't worth a minute's consideration."

Calls Challenge a "Stunt"

The following portion of the transcript was made public by G. M.:

REUTHER: I still will give you the proposition that when the strike is settled—when it is settled—I invite Anderson or Du Brul, either one of you fellows, or both of you, to let you, Dean, have us go over here in the Chevrolet forge or Chevrolet gear and axle plant, and you let me pick a job out for you, and you pick out one for me, and if you can last 40 hours on that job you can have my pay for the week.

ANDERSON—You would pay that much to get the kind of a publicity stunt for yourself.

"Couldn't Last Four Hours"

REUTHER—It will be the last time you would talk about labor productivity being low.

ANDERSON—I worked harder in my life than you ever knew how.

REUTHER—Steve or you couldn't last four hours and I don't claim I could last four hours. I am not saying you are lazy; you are saying these fellows are laying down on the job.

DU BRUL—We never said any such thing. You brought this up.

REUTHER—Wait a minute. This came up 'way back and it was brought up on the basis the guys were not working hard. Go over and let them wrestle with some of these banjo housings or the rear spring assembly.

ANDERSON—Don't be silly enough to sit there and think that we don't think there are hard jobs down in the plant, but that does not say all our men in the plants are working on their jobs as they might.

REUTHER—What we say is, gen-

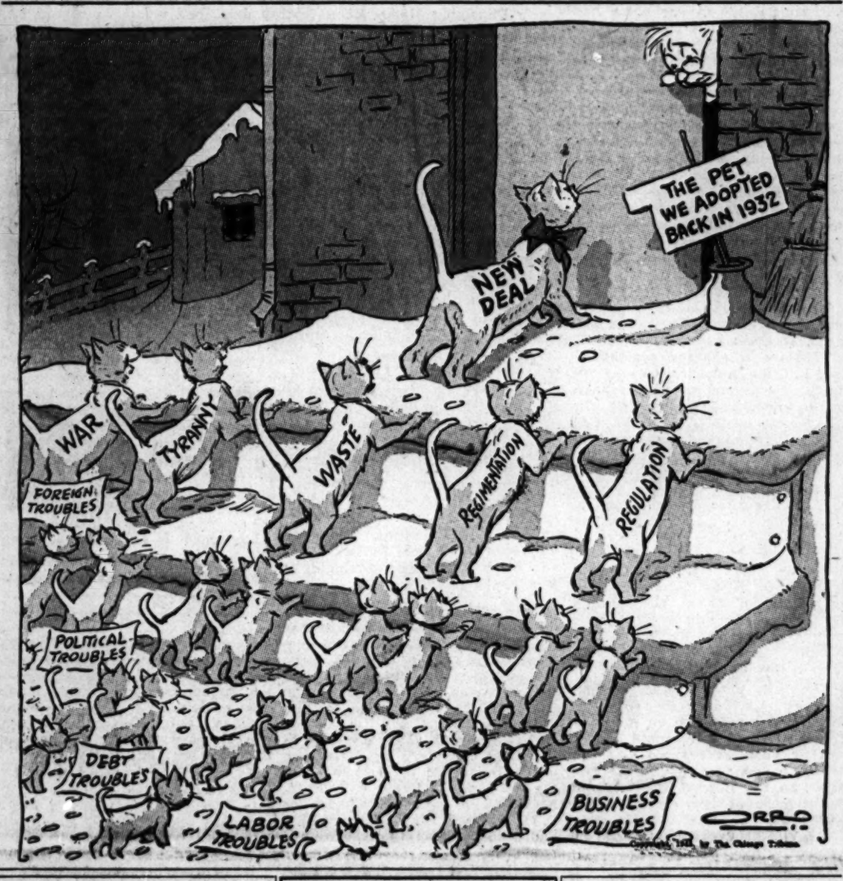
FIRST, SECOND, AND THIRD GENERATIONS



Senator Finds It's Tough Life—for Senators

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14—Senators twice declined to raise their own $10,000 a year salaries today despite a number of observations in a senate speech by Sen. Taylor [D., Idaho], sometimes called "the singing cowboy."

The first action of the day was a vote of 47 to 24 against legislation granting senators a $2,500 increase in expense money. The second was a vote of 45 to 23 against a temporary 33 per cent pay increase for both senators and representatives. This was embodied in an amendment proposed by Sen. Bankhead [D., Ala.]. It would have raised the $10,000 salary of legislators to $13,300 for the remainder of the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1946.

What Taylor Said

Sen. Taylor's futile observations were as follows:

"I've never been rich. But the most debt I ever incurred at one time was $2,500 before I came to the senate. I'm in debt $14,000 now. So help me, I ran for the senate three times before I made the grade, and two of those times I didn't know what the salary was.

"When I came here I wanted a two bedroom apartment. I could have got that kind for $250 a month, only I had children. So I decided to buy. I found the rest of the senators lived northwest and I wanted to live where the rest of the boys did. There was a brick colonial for $24,000. I said, 'I'm in the wrong neighborhood,' and went southeast.

He Tries Again

"I found a row house [one attached to others on either side] in a dark neighborhood for $10,000. When I offered to buy it, they raised it to $12,000.

"Then I found a double brick house for $15,000. We had decided we couldn't go over $10,000, but we bought it. So I put my wife on my office pay roll. Whether on the pay roll or not, she would have spent a lot of time in the office, because we enjoy each other's company.

"I see that Mr. Mayer of Loew's, Inc., made $900,000 last year. That's more than the whole senate gets. Maybe he's worth more than we are.

The Senator's Conclusions

"I'm going to vote in the senate as if I never expected to come back. [Some senators said raising their own salaries would be breaking faith with the voters back home.]

"But I'm going to work like hell to get back.

"Mind you, I'll stay here at $10,000. I'll stay at $5,000.

"If any one doesn't want a raise, he can vote for it and help us poor benighted heathen who do. He doesn't have to take it."

TAKE 10 LBS. OF TNT FROM 'HERMANN' WITH WOODEN CHISEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 14—Ten pounds of TNT were extracted today from "Hermann," the 4,000 pound German bomb embedded 40 feet in a South Croydon lumber yard since January, 1941.

The extraction was performed with a wooden chisel by Lt. G. A. Frake, head of the bomb disposal squad which has spent 198 days attempting to render "Hermann" harmless. Attempts to remove the bomb's fuse were frustrated yesterday when the fuse broke.

Experts are reported examining the TNT to decide whether to use steam to immobilize the explosive. By this method, steam would be pumped into "Hermann" at a pressure of 80 pounds in order to sterilize the TNT and end the danger of an explosion.

DISCOVER BERLIN RACKET IN CARS; YANKS BLAMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Dec. 14—A widespread auto stealing racket has been discovered in the German capital where private cars and trucks are stolen, painted, camouflaged and sold to purchasing agents of the Polish and Czechoslovak governments here to obtain automotive transport.

The Warsaw and Prague agents buy the cars in good faith and place government seals on the windshields which prevent them from being picked up by the military police. It is believed that American GIs grab cars, and turn them over to German civilians who negotiate the deals and get a rake-off on the price.

Ban Draft Inductions During Holiday Season

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—No selective service registrants will be inducted into the military services or called for pre-induction examination during the holiday season. Selective service today notified local draft boards that the ban will be in effect from Dec. 20 thru Jan. 2.

Chicago Joins Investigation of 'Bluebeard'

Chicago investigators yesterday examined thousands of dollars worth of stored possessions of Mrs. Eva Delora Krebs Cline, 73, wealthy widow who disappeared in October, 1944, six months after she married Alfred L. Cline, who has been branded a "modern Bluebeard."

While authorities poked thru trunks and boxes in a Chicago warehouse, police in Dallas, Tex., charged Cline with murder by poison in the death there of a woman believed to have been Mrs. Krebs.

Cline, 56, an ex-convict and former choir singer, had leased the Chicago storage space in the Anderson Brothers warehouse, 3141 Sheffield av., within 10 days after his marriage to Mrs. Krebs in May, 1944.

Much Furniture Found

The property examined included four rooms of furniture, a total of 142 pieces, among them a grand piano and oriental rugs, which had been removed from the former Mrs. Krebs' apartment at 3000 Sheridan rd.

There were boxes of jewelry—necklaces, pins, and a gold wedding ring. There were fur coats and many other articles of clothing. There were photographs of Mrs. Krebs Cline and of other persons not identified.

Authority for the inspection was granted by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. He not only gave permission for examination of the property but also authorized investigators to take any photographs or papers that might be of use in the far flung inquiry.

Those Conducting It

The warehouse examination was made by Jack Rubens, chief investigator of the public administrator's office, assisted by Walter Blinstrub, an appraiser. It was made in the presence of J. Homer Andreas, member of the law firm representing Mrs. Krebs Cline's estate, and police representatives.

Records showed Cline had added items to the stored stock from time to time. On Aug. 15, 1944, he brought in a package of clothing and linens. On Oct. 24, 1944, a carton supposedly containing Mrs. Krebs Cline's leopard jacket came from Portland, Ore., and on Dec. 8, 1944, a package arrived by express, supposedly from Dallas, Tex. The Oct. 24 carton was sent to Cline at Delmar, Cal., Dec. 1, 1944, on his instructions.

The Dec. 8 package was opened by Rubens. It contained black seal and Persian lamb coats, a silver fox scarf, a seal muff, other articles of

Body Has 13 Stab Wounds, Dead 2 Days

Stabbed and slashed 13 times, Lawrence A. Lange, 37, personal secretary to Charles H. Morse, 77, retired president of Fairbank, Morse & Co., was found dead last night in Lange's apartment at 3148 Wilson av.

Lawrence A. Lange

Lange had been dead nearly 48 hours. Police fixed the time of his death at between 8:30 and 9:15 p. m. Wednesday.

Finds Employe's Body

The murder was discovered by Mr. Morse who, alarmed over the absence of his secretary for two days, went with his wife and his chauffeur to the Wilson av. address to inquire after Lange. The Morses live at 45 N. Stone Gate lane, Lake Forest.

Unable to get a response at Lange's door, Morse appealed for help to the building janitor, Rudolph Purner. The janitor entered the apartment with a pass key. He and Morse came upon Lange's body, sprawled face down on the living room floor.

Lange had been slashed across the throat from ear to ear, and stabbed in the right side and thru the windpipe. He also was slashed across the back of the neck, on the back of the head, across his left wrist, and on both hands. Five other superficial wounds were found.

Believed Attacked at Piano

Detective Chief John Warren, who with District Capt. Thomas Kelly and Coroner Brodie directed the preliminary investigation, said that Lange may have been slain by an acquaintance.

"Lange, a musician, probably was playing the piano when this person struck him from behind, dragged him a few feet away, and then cut his throat," said Warren.

One detective suggested the numerous knife wounds indicated torture, but that view was disputed by others who held they showed resistance by Lange. The murder knife was not found. Police will examine scientifically all of Lange's kitchen knives. A blood stained towel in Lange's bathroom indicated the slayer cleansed his hands. A score of cigaret stubs, some tipped and some plain, indicated further there may have been two persons in Lange's apartment. Lange did not smoke.

Slain Wednesday Night

Police established that Lange was murdered Wednesday night thru Mrs. Pearl Massover, who lives below his apartment, and Mrs. Lillian Rein, 4701 N. Troy st., who was visiting her sister, Mrs. Mitchell Siegel, across the hall. Mrs. Massover said she heard sounds of a scuffle at 9:15 p. m. Mrs. Rein also heard the noise, but fixed it at 8:30 p. m.

One of the last persons to see Lange alive was a taxicab driver who drove him home at 6 p. m. Wednesday, and carried up an X-ray lamp. Purner said the driver left about 6:30 p. m. The driver is being sought.

Motive Is Missing

Police were unable to establish a motive for Lange's murder. He had lived alone in the apartment since his aunt, Mrs. Ruth Lange, died two years ago. He had supported her for years. Police said that Lange did not smoke or drink, and that he occasionally entertained mixed groups.

Music was his love, and he played nightly on the baby grand piano in his apartment. Lange had been business and personal secretary to Morse for 12 years, and was given considerable authority in handling Morse's business and private affairs, police said.

Police Capt. Thomas Kelly disclosed that he was searching for a man piano player, also in his 30's. The police also discovered that Lange was corresponding with a woman friend in Florida.

Lange's brothers, Edward, 30, and Henry, 32, both of 4424 N. Artesian av., and his sister, Mrs. Agnes Victorine, 34, of 2314 Farragut av., could not advance a motive for the murder. The brothers said the secretary told them he was thinking of quitting his job with Morse to take another position outside the city.

MOTHER HIDES CORPSE FOR 16 DAYS IN HOME

Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 14 [Special]—While her husband sobbed brokenly in an adjoining room, Mrs. Rose Carlan, 23, calmly and tearlessly told police tonight that she faked the story of her baby's kidnaping and that the 6 month old boy died four days before she brought about a 16 day search for its supposed abductor.

The baby, who never had been seen by his sailor father, died in his bed the night of Nov. 24 while his young mother was attending a party in the flat upstairs, police said. She said she hid the body because she "was afraid people would say I neglected him."

Police Discover Body

Her confession followed discovery by police of the baby's body. It was wedged under a drawer of a wall cabinet in a bedroom of the Carlan apartment, within five feet of where the infant's parents have been sleeping.

Chelsea and state police had decided to make one last search of the Carlan home, which they searched the day after the kidnaping was reported. Officer Martin J. Flaherty pulled aside a bureau from in front of the wall cabinet in the room, which once had been the dining room. He pulled out the drawer and exclaimed:

"Here's the body!"

"I didn't kill him!" Mrs. Carlan cried, running in from another room.

Husband Is Angry

Her husband, Navy Machinist's Mate James Carlan, 28, lunged toward her, shouting:

"You dirty so-and-so! I'll kill you!"

Policemen restrained him and took both parents, in separate cars, to headquarters. Carlan was near collapse. While his wife was being questioned, he sat in an anteroom, tears streaming down his face. Frequently he drank glasses of water handed to him by policemen.

"Can you imagine that?" he mumbled. "Me sleeping within five feet of him all this time?"

Wife Sends Note

About this time Mrs. Carlan wrote out a brief note and had a police matron carry it to her husband.

"Please believe me," the note read, "in everything I said. Take care of the other baby."

She was referring to their older son, James Jr., 3.

Carlan and his wife met momentarily soon after she sent the note. They embraced and Carlan said, "I'll stick by you."

Then the father was taken to Chelsea Naval hospital on the verge of collapse. Mrs. Carlan, Police Chief Charles Finn said, was booked after long questioning on a charge of "suspicion of murder" and was locked up in the headquarters detention room. Lt. John Kirby said she would be arraigned in Chelsea District court on the charge in the morning. Meanwhile, Police were awaiting an autopsy report from Medical Examiner William J. Brickley, who had taken charge of the baby's body.

Wife Tells Story

During the questioning, Mrs. Carlan exhibited the same calmness she has maintained thruout the search for the baby. Lt. Kirby said she gave this account of her actions:

At 7:30 p. m. Nov. 24 she left the baby, Ronald Edward, and James Jr. in the apartment and went to the third floor flat of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Carlan. There a party, attended by about 25 relatives, was in progress in celebration of the recent return of her husband's brother, Edward, who had been discharged from the navy.

At 10:30 she returned to her own flat to get some phonograph records. She looked at the baby and saw froth at his mouth. She picked him up and discovered he was dead. She breathed in his mouth and tried without success to revive him.

Placing him back in the carriage where he had been sleeping, she returned to the party and remained there another hour. Then she returned to her apartment and telephoned for a taxicab to come for her husband's aunt and uncle, who were leaving the party. While she phoned she made her relatives wait outside.

From then until about 5:30 a. m., she sat in her apartment trying to decide what to do about her baby's death. She finally decided to hide the body. She rearranged the baby's clothing, wrapped him in a blue blanket, and placed the little corpse under the drawer in a former dining room china closet in front of which a bedroom dresser had been placed.

It was her plan to report that the baby was kidnaped from his carriage while he was left alone outside in the sun. But for several days the sun didn't shine. On Tuesday, Nov. 27, she wheeled the empty carriage outside and left it across the street from her apartment for two hours. But no one noticed that the baby was not in it.

Reports the "Kidnaping"

The next day she wheeled the carriage out again. Finally some school children came along, looked in, and began talking about the baby being absent. Mrs. Carlan went out, appeared surprised, then walked to the Chelsea police station and reported that her baby had been kidnaped.

A widespread search began immediately. FBI agents and state police aided local police. Hundreds of school children were asked to help search for clews. The Red Cross arranged for the missing baby's father to fly home by plane from California.

Rewards totaling $3,500 in cash and $1,500 in jewelry were offered. Mrs. Carlan made three radio appeals to the "kidnapers" to be good to her baby. State authorities indicated the kidnaper might be dealt with lightly if he would return the infant unharmed.

Girl, 14, Arrested

Eight telephone calls from persons representing themselves as the kidnaper were received at the Carlan home. Police said most of these apparently were from "cranks," but some were made by persons who saw an opportunity to obtain money. At Springfield, police today took into custody a 14 year old girl who admitted she telephoned the Carlans and asked for $500.

There were many descriptions of the persons sought, but most publicized was a "tall, thin man with a woman accomplice." A school girl, Barbara Dioptt, 7, told police she saw "an old lady dressed in black with tulips in her hat" take the child from the carriage after wrapping him in a shawl and taking his nursing bottle.

As each slight clew failed, police returned to Mrs. Carlan to go over her story again.

When police went to the Carlan apartment again today they noticed four nursing bottles on a kitchen table. It was recalled that only one bottle had been in evidence when they first searched the house. Their suspicions aroused, they decided to make a most thoro hunt thru the apartment. The body was found soon afterward.

MOTHER KILLS TWO CHILDREN ENDS OWN LIFE

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 14 [Special]—Lying beside a pile of gaily wrapped Christmas presents, Mrs. Genevieve Ertl, 40, and the two youngest of her four children, Barbara Ann, 2, and William, 5 months, were found shot to death today in their home in Overland, a St. Louis county suburb.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Brieban reported Mrs. Ertl shot the children with a revolver and killed herself after writing a note saying, "I guess I am just a coward, but I can't take it any longer." The bodies were found by another daughter, Eleanor, who said her mother was wrapping gifts when she left for school. She said her mother complained of a "headache."

Mrs. Ertl's husband, Otto, employed in a soft drink bottling works, could give no reason for his wife's acts. The couple's son, James, also was in school at the time.

Search Is Delayed for 3 Missing in Hotel Fire

Glenwood Springs, Colo., Dec. 14 (AP)—Smouldering ruins delayed a search tonight for victims of a fire that destroyed the Glenwood hotel and drove nearly 125 guests into a snowstorm and near zero weather last night. Three persons were reported still missing.

NURSE'S SLAYER WEEPS AS TRIAL NEARS A CLOSE

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt wept today as Prosecutor Norman Elkington asked the jury to find her guilty of first degree murder for the shooting of Vada Martin, a nurse, whom she believed was having an affair with her husband, Dr. John H. Mansfeldt.

Following Elkington's argument, Chief Defense Counsel Vincent Hallinan started his appeal to the jury.

Mrs. Mansfeldt "worked like a slave" for her husband, Hallinan said, and then "found the husband on whom she had wasted her life was running around with another woman."

Mrs. Mansfeldt shot Mrs. Martin, former Baltimore, Md., woman and wife of a navy chief warrant officer Oct. 4. Dr. Mansfeldt later committed suicide.

MATE DIVORCES WIFE WHO SLEW THEIR CHILD, 2

Mrs. Mildred Merkel, 22, who is serving a two to three year term in the women's reformatory at Dwight for the slaying last year of her daughter, Claire, 2, yesterday was divorced in the Superior court of Judge Edwin A. Robson by her husband, Frederick, 42, of 4300 Carroll av., a mechanic. Merkel, who was represented by Atty. Charles A. Bellows, was awarded custody of a son, Ronald, 2. The Merkels were married Jan. 1, 1942, and separated March 5, 1944, the day she was convicted in Criminal court of a manslaughter charge. She confessed beating her daughter with a poker when the child did not want to go to bed.

JURORS IGNORE COURT'S ADVICE, CONVICT SLAYER

A jury of 8 women and 4 men in the Criminal court of Judge William J. Lindsay yesterday convicted Harry Rubenstein, 50, of murder and fixed his punishment at the minimum term of 14 years in prison.

Evidence show that Rubenstein shot and killed Thomas Dean, 26, of 2513 Burling st., after Dean assaulted him with an iron bar in the lobby of the Olympic hotel, 1015 N. Clark st., formerly owned by Rubenstein. Rubenstein pleaded self-defense.

Judge Lindsay had intimated earlier in the trial that a conviction would not stand. The court set Tuesday for hearing a motion for a new trial.

CHICAGO JOINS INVESTIGATION OF 'BLUEBEARD'

clothing, and a box in which were the wedding ring and jewelry.

Rubens said he would return to the warehouse Monday to make a further search.

Another development was disclosure by Andreas that Mrs. Krebs Cline's signatures on six quarterly dividend checks of the Commonwealth Edison company had been pronounced forgeries by Rudolph B. Salmon, Chicago attorney and handwriting expert.

The checks, for $1,532.40 each, a total of $9,794.40, were on 4,664 shares of stock owned by Mrs. Krebs when she was married to Cline, and of which she made him a co-owner. They were issued Aug. 1, 1944; Nov. 1, 1944; Feb. 1, 1945; May 1, 1945; Aug. 1, 1945, and Nov. 1, 1945. Signatures of both Cline and Mrs. Cline were necessary to cash them.

Her Signature Forged

Salmon said Cline's signature on each of the checks was genuine, but that Mrs. Krebs Cline's name had been forged. Who forged her signature, however, was a question Salmon said he was not prepared to answer.

Cline, silver haired, suave, and reticent, now is being held in San Francisco, Cal., on a forgery charge involving the disposal of Mrs. Krebs' securities. But it was there that Dist. Atty. Edmund Brown termed him "a shrewd killer, a modern Bluebeard," and announced that authorities there are coördinating accumulated evidence in efforts to bring him to trial "for his crimes."

The Dallas Charges

The murder warrant at Dallas was filed by Chief of Detectives Will Fritz. It read:

"Murder is charged against Alfred L. Cline in connection with the death of a person whose true name to the affiant is unknown, but who was known as Mrs. Alice W. Carpenter, by administering poison, the type of which is unknown."

The Dallas death occurred in a hotel on Oct. 17, 1944. The woman had been registered in the hotel by Cline under the name of Mrs. Carpenter. But police believe the woman was Mrs. Krebs Cline and that the real Mrs. Carpenter, a widow from Bloomington, Ind., died in a hotel in Macon, Ga., on Feb. 21, 1944, while accompanied by a man who identified himself as F. A. Klein.

Has Body Cremated

The body of the Dallas woman, who supposedly died of heart disease, was cremated on orders of Cline, who had represented himself as her business agent. Asserting that the woman was without relatives, he had himself appointed administrator of her estate, valued at $10,000.

Dr. W. E. Haley, who attended the woman in her last illness, viewed a photograph of Mrs. Krebs Cline early this week and said he believed it was a picture of the woman who died in Dallas. When he was shown a picture yesterday of Mrs. Carpenter, the doctor said it did not resemble the woman he attended.

Cline met Mrs. Krebs, widow of a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, on a train in April, 1944, and they were married here the next month. Evidence indicates she disappeared the following October, altho Cline reported she died on Nov. 29, 1945, in a hotel at Portland, Ore.

In San Francisco, Prosecutor Brown said he was told by Dallas Detective Chief Fritz over long distance telephone:

"A doctor who examined the Dallas woman before she died is ready to testify that she died of poison. He said she was under the influence of sedatives at the time he examined her."

Brown said he would file additional forgery charges against Cline in San Francisco tomorrow and would file an order that he be held for Dallas authorities.

The San Francisco prosecutor said the new forgery charge will be based on information supplied by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company that 13 annuity checks of $500 each, sent to Mrs. Krebs Cline after October, 1944, were indorsed with her forged signature.

At Bloomington, Ind., it was announced that ashes buried in Rosehill cemetery here as those of Mrs. Carpenter will be exhumed and an effort made to determine their identity by examination. The ashes were sent there from Dallas. Police now believe they are the remains of Mrs. Krebs Cline.

Investigation in Georgia

Meanwhile, investigators at Macon, Ga., sought information concerning the woman, believed to be the real Mrs. Carpenter, who died there on Feb. 21, 1944, under the name of Mrs. Willa Carter of San Francisco.

That woman's ashes are still in the Hart Mortuary in Macon, to which the order for cremation of the body was given by "F. A. Klein," who gave his address as P. O. Box 3883, St. Petersburg, Fla., and said he was the woman's nephew.

"I remember the cremation because there are relatively few of them in the south," said John F. Hart Jr., son of the owner of the mortuary. "Klein said he would send for the ashes or would give us directions where to send them, but he never did."

Hart said he doesn't remember Klein's appearance and that his father, who handled the matter, is out of town.

Records of Hotel

A search of records at the Lanier hotel in Macon, where "Mrs. Carter" died, showed that she and Klein were registered there Feb. 17, 1944, and were assigned adjoining rooms. Manager W. T. Hooks said, however, that the hotel's records are so jumbled it is almost impossible to determine when the couple checked out. Furthermore, employes who worked for the hotel at that time have left, Hooks said.

Hart said he recalled that Dr. Lewis L. Rawls had signed a certificate ascribing the woman's death to acute endocarditis. Dr. Rawls said he could not remember the case, but that if his signature is on the certificate he undoubtedly attended the woman.

MURDER GANG'S BETRAYER TELLS HIS FULL STORY

In the activities of a bandit gang whose crimes included the slaying of two policemen and the execution of one of their own members, police yesterday sought clews to other crimes.

Confessions of the gunmen in custody have solved the slaying of Detectives George H. Hellstern and Charles A. Brady last Sept. 2, the murder of Cecil [Red] Smith, an ex-convict whose body was removed from a snowy grave Thursday, and numerous handbook, pay roll, and currency exchange robberies.

The men were believed to have obtained several hundred thousand dollars in loot.

Gang Betrayer Signs Confession

Lawrence [Tiny] Mazzanars, 34, of 3402 Lyndale st., who pointed out Smith's grave in a corn field near Fairview Heights, Leyden township, to police Thursday, yesterday gave additional details, then signed a confession.

He asserted he and Smith were waiting to rob a drug store at Lunt av. and Clark st. Sept. 2 when Detectives Hellstern and Brady tried to question Smith and were shot to death by him.

Mazzanars said the gang suspected Smith of being a "squealer" and decided to dispose of him. The execution took place the night of Nov. 29 in Mazzanars' car on a lonely road northwest of Schiller Park. The shots were fired by Renoro Lolli, 39, after Christ Perres, 27, of Joliet, had tried to shoot Smith but his weapon had misfired, Mazzanars said.

Accomplice in Execution Slain

Perres was killed in an exchange of shots Dec. 7 with policemen. Mazzanars was shot in the shoulder and captured at that time. Lolli was arrested earlier that day and had talked freely to police. Also in custody are Richard Todd and James J. Kelly.

Capt. Michael Ahern of the Rogers Park district, in which Hellstern and Brady were slain, said last night he believes Mazzanars was their slayer. He said that Smith, weighing about 140 pounds, appeared lighter than the killer. Mazzanars weighs more than 200 pounds. Ahern also cited the fact that Mazzanars kept part of the murder gun in his home.

Still being sought by police are Virgil and Neal [Monk] Summers, brothers, of Mount Vernon, Jefferson county, and Grover Dullard, a reputed handbook operator.

In his statements to Sgt. John Hanrahan of the robbery detail and Assistant State's Atty. Alex Napoli, Mazzanars described the Summers brothers as the "tough guys" of the gang who expressed scorn for the gambling syndicate hit in the gang's handbook robberies.

$22 TOOLS STOLEN FROM AUTO.

Tools valued at $22 were stolen yesterday by thieves who broke into his automobile while it was parked at 1647 W. 63d st., James Pecho, 7935 S. Winchester av., reported to police.

SLAIN EX-WAVE'S FRIENDS QUIZZED BY PROSECUTOR

Hunt for Killer Turns to Mystery Man

First Assistant State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley joined yesterday in the investigation into the murder of Miss Frances Brown, 33, an ex-WAVE, who was shot and stabbed early Monday by a maniac in her apartment in the Pine Crest hotel, 3941 Pine Grove av.

With Capt. Frank Reynolds of the Town Hall station, he questioned Miss Virginia Tracy, a secretary, and Miss Virginia Fessler, a physical education instructor, roommates living at 4200 Hazel st.

Women Friends Coöperate

They were the last friends to see Miss Brown alive. She had dinner at their apartment Sunday night and left for her own apartment at 9 p. m. Miss Fessler and Miss Tracy were questioned in an effort to learn more of Miss Brown's background.

Crowley and Capt. Reynolds said afterward that the two women had coöperated splendidly and that their stories did not alter previous stories that Miss Brown lived a spotless life and had no enemies.

Heavy Set Man Sought

Meantime, the search was concentrated on the mysterious stranger, a heavy set man, who was seen leaving the Pine Crest at 4 a. m. the morning of the murder. However, police were not overlooking the possibility that the killer was a woman. This possibility is based on the message the slayer wrote with lipstick on the wall of Miss Brown's apartment in which the feminine phrase, "for heaven's sake," was used. The message warned of future murders.

During the day police released Albert F. Tripp, 24, an itinerant, who was questioned because his clothing was bloodstained. He explained the stains came from a finger cut.

Funeral in Richmond, Ind., Today

The funeral of Miss Brown will be held at 2 p. m. today in her home town of Richmond, Ind., with the Harry Ray American Legion post of Richmond participating in the rites at the grave. A group of the ex-WAVE's Chicago friends was to arrive there this morning to attend the services.

For five hours yesterday afternoon, more than 500 friends and acquaintances filed past Miss Brown's flag draped casket in a Richmond funeral chapel. Many came to console Mrs. Ethel Brown, the victim's gray haired mother and nearest relative.

Robert M. Adams Again Sworn In as Master

Robert McCormick Adams yesterday was sworn in as a master in chancery of the Superior court for his fourth two year term. He was named at the suggestion of Judge John A. Sbarbaro of the Superior court. Adams has served as a special assistant attorney general. He is head of the law firm of Adams, Nelson, and Williamson.

FATE CATCHES ESCAPED FELON AFTER 13 YEARS

In a cell at police headquarters, Walter Rich, 38, of 10945 Michigan av., last night sadly contemplated the trick of fate that exposed him as a fugitive convict 13 years after he escaped from a prison honor camp at Sandusky, O.

In 1931 Rich, then known as Lester Wallace, stole a calf and sold it for $27. He was sentenced to one to 15 years at the camp. A year later he escaped, made his way to Chicago, got a job in the Pullman company shops, courted, and married a girl named Anne.

For 13 years he lived an exemplary life and he succeeded in concealing his past. On Thursday Sgt. Tim O'Connell received a letter informing him that Rich was a convict. Rich waived extradition and will be taken back to the prison camp. His wife said she would move there and wait for him to be freed.

BYRNES CALLS MOSCOW TALKS 'EXPLORATORY'

Absence of Pact Won't Be 'Bad Sign,' He Says

MOSCOW, Dec. 14 (AP)—United States Secretary of State Byrnes said tonight that if no formal announcement of an agreement followed the meeting of foreign ministers here he would not regard it as a "bad sign."

Byrnes, relaxing at Spasso house after a harrowing hour in a plane lost in a blizzard over Moscow, made the statement in answer to a question at a press conference.

"I think it a far more important thing if we make contact for an exchange of views rather than meet to make announcements," he said. "I think great progress will have been made if we achieve a better understanding."

Byrnes repeated what he said in Washington, D. C., that the "purpose and only purpose of the meeting is to carry out the spirit of the Yalta meeting to meet every three or four months to preserve contacts between governments."

"Just Exploratory," He Says

The secretary of state said he wanted it understood that "this is no peace conference. No delegation. No formal foreign council meeting. Just exploratory."

He added, "I am now asking for a meeting in March, altho I have no assurance there will be any agreements."

Byrnes said that he stopped over in Berlin long enough to talk to Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and others about the situation in Germany, and stated he believed civilian administration can be turned over to Germans in the American zone by next April 1.

There was no word tonight as to whether British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin would be able to fly into Moscow tomorrow. The weather remained bad with a blizzard raging and snow falling. Bevin landed in Berlin on the first leg of his trip from London.

Happy to Be in Moscow

Byrnes landed at the Central airdrome today just before dark.

"I am very happy to be here," were Byrnes' first words as he stepped from his plane, wearing only a light topcoat, light grey hat, and only a silk scarf around his neck to combat a whirling snowstorm. He had no gloves or rubbers.

He was greeted by Deputy Foreign Commissar V. G. Dekanozov, who said, "We are very glad to have you."

Informed that another deputy foreign commissar, Andrei J. Vishinsky, was waiting for Byrnes at another airport, the secretary said:

"I am sorry I have made my friend Vishinsky wait, but I am glad to be here. We had trouble finding Moscow, but we are not the only ones who had trouble getting here."

The obvious reference was to the task the Germans had in attempting to reach Moscow and Dekanozov said smilingly:

"Well, all's well that ends well."

Molotov Not Present

Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov was not present. He was conferring with French officials at a trade conference.

Interviewed later at the home of United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, who had been waiting with Vishinsky at the other airport, Byrnes said that being lost in the blizzard was the "first time I have ever had any anxiety in the air."

Brynes said that at one time he said to Charles E. Bohlen, chief of the Russian section of the state department, "You know, we might run into the side of a mountain."

Bohlen told Byrnes not to worry because there were no mountains "around here," and Byrnes commented, "That's fine—but do you know where 'here' is?"

Despite his experience Byrnes showed no sign of fatigue. He said the party got up at 3:30 a. m. for the takeoff from Frankfurt, Germany.

Unclaimed

DON

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 14 (AP) — Police stations hold no terrors for Don, 2, who was found last night wandering in a Baltimore snowstorm and remained unclaimed today.

In fact, the boy rather enjoys the station where he spent the night and the feeling is reciprocated by policemen there.

Don, who doesn't know his last name and points out the nearest window when asked where he lives, got a good meal prepared by neighboring housewives and served by Mrs. Theresa McCarthy, police matron, last night.

Mrs. McCarthy said he slept soundly until 7 o'clock this morning, when he was awakened by policemen arriving for the day shift. After a hearty breakfast he set off on a tour of the police courts in the building, making friends with the magistrates and introducing himself to desk officers.

Police are scouring the neighborhood for the boy's parents, and a complete description of him has been sent out over the police teletype.

BATAAN YANKS' GRENADES BAD, SAYS WERMUTH

Three American hand grenades had to be thrown to be sure one would explode when the Japs were advancing on Bataan, Maj. Arthur Wermuth, Chicago's "one man army," told members of the Executives club at its luncheon yesterday in Hotel Sherman. Maj. Wermuth was credited with killing 116 Japs during the first phases of the war before he was captured on Bataan. After more than three years in Jap prison camps he returned here Nov. 8.

"When Dec. 8 hit the Phillipines we were not prepared in any shape for war," Maj. Wermuth said. "Besides faulty grenades, we had poor mortar shells. We had some new type mortars, but no ammunition for them. We had pilots, but not enough planes."

Asked what he thought of the Korean situation, he replied, "I think it is handled very well. You know it's been tough for the united nations to get together on some things. I think our forces in Korea are doing the best job in the Pacific. You don't hear about trouble there."

Of Gen. Yamashita, Maj. Wermuth said, "I'm glad he's going to be hung instead of shot."

FINDS BRITISH FLEET LAGGED IN PACIFIC WAR

BY QUENTIN POPE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 14—The British did not plan to have their fleet take part in the Pacific war, apparently leaving the ocean to the United States navy, it has been disclosed by the visit here of a royal naval squadron including the aircraft carrier Indefatigable and the destroyers Urchin and Wizard.

New Zealarders examining the Indefatigable found the carrier not fitted with air conditioning apparatus, poorly designed for long Pacific cruises and under gunned for defense against Nipponese suicide planes.

Altho not launched until the year after Pearl Harbor and completed for service in May, 1943, the British flattop carried its crew to minor battles in heat little affected by air vents designed to take some of the edge off Pacific temperatures.

No Recreation Room,

The carrier also lacked room for enlisted men seeking recreation. This situation was duplicated in the George V., one of Britain's newest battleships, on which New Zealanders found that the only off-duty space for personnel below officer rank had been provided when the battleship decided to junk its two scouting planes and converted the hangar in which they were stowed to a small movie theater.

The British carried 50 per cent less armament than the United States navy and considerably fewer personnel. In Japanese periled seas American ships' guns were constantly manned by wakeful crews whereas the British slept at their guns and never were able to come into action against the Japs as rapidly as American ships. This involved carrying materially larger numbers on United States combat craft, but the American vessels nevertheless rode more comfortably than the English.

Royal navy carriers also came to the Pacific equipped with Barracuda torpedo bombers which were too slow for ocean war. The Barracudas eventually were replaced by Avengers.

First with Radar Guns

The sole point on which the British led the United States in the Pacific war was the use of radar-equipped light guns. Even that superiority was only momentary, American officers say. The United States navy installed radar on its ships' light anti-aircraft batteries near the end of the war.

In a statement here, Vice Adm. Philip Vian, deputy chief of the British Pacific fleet and commander of English flattops, admitted that only after their late entry into the Pacific war had the British begun using carriers offensively.

BLAMES HURLEY FOR REMOVAL OF STILWELL

He Sided with Chiang, Says De Lacy

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—Rep. De Lacy [D., Wash.] said tonight that Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley caused the removal of Gen. Joseph Stilwell in China and brought about the resignation of Ambassador Clarence Gauss.

In a speech De Lacy said Gen. Hurley, then special envoy to China, "sided with Chiang Kai-shek against our own military leader in China, Gen. Stilwell."

De Lacy said Stilwell had nearly achieved military unity in China when Chiang demanded his removal from China.

Supported Chiang

"This is when Hurley first entered the act," De Lacy added. "Instead of backing Stilwell, he backed Chiang. He saw that Stilwell was removed.

"Next he moved into the diplomatic arena where Ambassador Gauss, a man who knew and understood China, had been working for unity and democracy.

"Hurley brought the northern Chinese Communists and Chiang back together. But because he told Chiang in advance that he could write his own terms—some say he actually used the words 'blank check'—because he offered Chiang United States aid no matter what position the generalissimo took, he destroyed the long work of Ambassador Gauss. Unity and the hope of democracy went glimmering. Ambassador Gauss resigned. . . .

Led to Civil War

"Those are the brutal facts," De Lacy commented. "They are facts which led irrevocably to civil war in China."

QUIZ SO THORO BARKLEY SAYS HE MIGHT QUIT

Counsel and His Staff Announce They Will

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14—Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.] declared today he may resign as chairman of the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee. He said this immediately after the committee heard its counsel, William D. Mitchell, announce that he and his staff will quit about Jan. 1.

Mitchell, 71, a New York lawyer, based his resignation on the fact that the inquiry, started three months ago, will extend far beyond the deadline of next Jan. 3, originally set by congress. He said his private affairs will not permit him to stay to the end.

A Surprise Move

Mitchell's statement of resignation, read to the committee in a surprise move at the start of the morning session, carried an implied protest against Republican members for conducting a searching cross-examination of witnesses and thus making it impossible to rush hearings to an early conclusion.

Republican members served notice they intend to continue their examination to "get to the bottom" of the naval disaster. They declared the investigation must be carried to completion "no matter how long it takes or who resigns."

Barkley told the committee he will decide within the "next few days" whether to continue on the committee. He termed Mitchell's resignation "tragic," coming, as he said, in the midst of the inquiry.

"Didn't Want Job"

The chairman said he, too, had first hoped the hearings would be finished by the Jan. 3 deadline but that this now appears impossible. He explained that he did not want the chairmanship because of his duties as senate majority leader, but accepted it at the insistence of Sen. McKellar, president pro tem of the upper chamber.

"I must now decide," he told the hearing, "whether I have any further duty in this investigation and, if so, whether it outweighs my duty as a senator. If I decide in the next few days that my duties as a senator are greater, I shall act accordingly and surrender my position on this committee."

The three staff assistants resigning with Mitchell are Gerhard Gesell, Jule M. Hannaford, and John E. Masten. Mitchell explained he and his staff are willing to continue for the rest of this month and a short time in January to assist any new legal staff that might be selected.

No Successor Picked

Barkley said he has given no thought as yet to selecting a new counsel, as he did not know Mitchell planned to resign until late yesterday, when Mitchell told him about it.

Sen. Brewster [R., Me.], a committee member, said he favors the appointment of Hugh Fulton, former counsel for the senate war investigating committee when it was headed by President [then senator] Truman. Brewster suggested Fulton originally, but the committee rejected him in favor of Mitchell, who was then chosen unanimously.

Mitchell's announcement climaxed a growing irritation he has manifested recently against Republican committee members, who have refused to let the record of the hearings rest on submission of prepared exhibits and perfunctory questioning of witnesses by the counsel.

How He'd Like It

His prepared statement, read today to the committee, indicated he thought the counsel should conduct the inquiry by laying out the "basic groundwork" of evidence. After that, he said, the committee could "appraise" the case and decide "what additional evidence was required or whether any other witnesses should be called."

"Since the start of the hearing," Mitchell continued, "it has become increasingly apparent that some members of the committee have a different view than that entertained by counsel, either as to the scope of the inquiry or as to what is pertinent evidence. This has been reflected in extensive examination by some members of the committee far beyond what the legal staff anticipated."

Mitchell said he thought the "real purpose" of the inquiry was to get a final answer to the "basic question: Who was responsible for the failure of our forces at Hawaii to be on the alert and for the admitted failure to use to the best advantage such defense facilities as were available at Pearl Harbor."

Stand of Ferguson

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], a committee member, told reporters he was in substantial agreement with this purpose, but added that "there are many witnesses and many facts to be explored on this and related questions."

"This is the last chance for the people to learn the truth about Pearl Harbor," said Ferguson, "and each member of this committee has a serious responsibility to see that everything is brought out, no matter how long it takes, or who resigns."

Ferguson and other members noted that many key witnesses have not been heard by the committee, much less cross-examined. These include Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel, Pacific commanders at the time of the Jap attack; Adm. Stark, naval chief of operations at the time, and many subordinate army and navy officers who were in Washington and at Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941.

Eight witnesses have completed their testimony before the committee and two others have been partially examined. Mitchell estimated there remain at least 60 witnesses.

NEWFOUNDLAND OFFERED BASES BY BRITISH NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 14—The naval establishments built during the war at St. John's and Bulls bay, Newfoundland, at a cost of nearly 40 million dollars, have been offered to the Newfoundland government by the British admiralty, it was reported tonight, on condition that they be kept in good repair and revert to Britain in event of an emergency.

They were constructed under Canadian auspices in the early days of the battle of the Atlantic to give Canadian and British warships advanced bases against U-boats. They include two hospitals, scores of offices, barracks, piers and docking, and repair facilities.

At the same time it was reported that Adm. Bruce Fraser, commander in chief of the British Pacific fleet, had arrived at Singapore for important talks on the transfer to Singapore and Hong Kong of British Pacific fleet bases in Australia.

CHICAGO YACHT CLUB OUSTED BY PARK BOARD

The park board yesterday canceled the permit under which the Chicago Yacht club uses the Belmont harbor. The club had rejected a new contract.

The Supreme court having ruled that the facilities of any club occupying park district grounds must be open to the public, the board had drafted the new contract to conform.

Vice Comdr. George Sollitt refused to comment on the club's plans, but said it would be an easy matter to move the floating clubhouse from the harbor. The club has used the harbor for nearly 50 years, he said.

17,000 RESERVE OFFICERS ASK TO REMAIN IN NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14—More than 17,000 reservists and temporary officers have applied for transfer to the regular navy since the end of the war, Navy Secretary Forrestal revealed today. He said 1,500 additional applications are being received weekly and that polls of officer personnel indicate 28,000 reservists eventually will decide to make the navy their permanent career.

Legislation pending before congress would increase the navy to the unprecedented peace time strength of 500,000 enlisted men and 40,000 officers, or more than double the pre-war size. The bulk of the new officer strength will have to be drawn from the ranks of reserves and temporary officers who served with distinction in the war alongside of the regular officers.

During the war, however, many of the reservists were outspoken in their criticism of the navy on the ground they were not accorded the same privileges and opportunities as the regulars, or accepted on equal terms by Annapolis graduates.

MEDAL WINNER MARRIES GIRL HE KNEW IN COLLEGE

Capt. Robert H. Dunlap, 25 of the marines, whose exploits on several of the more hotly contested South Pacific islands will bring him the congressional medal Tuesday, was more nervous at a Great Lakes ceremony yesterday than he ever was on Iwo Jima. It was his wedding.

"I've never been more nervous in my life," Capt. Dunlap admitted, as a naval chaplain united him and his college sweetheart, Miss Mary Louise Frantz of Monmouth, 22, in marriage.

The captain, however, proved much more interested in his pretty blonde bride than in discussing his heroism. "I don't know why I'm getting the congressional medal," he said. "They never tell you until after you get it."

PEARL HARBOR QUIZ FINDS NEW CONTRADICTIONS

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14—Contradictions in sworn testimony made in various investigations of the Pearl Harbor disaster continued to pile up today as congressional investigators recalled Lt. Gen. L. T. Gerow, chief of the army's war plans division in 1941, to testify about an affidavit he had made in the case.

Gerow admitted there apparently had not been "a meeting of minds" between him and Lt. Col. Henry C. Clausen, who was ordered by Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of war, to travel around the world taking affidavits from officers who had testified before the Pearl Harbor board of inquiry. Most of the Clausen affidavits contradicted testimony given the board.

Certain Testimony Denied

In the affidavit taken by Clausen from Gerow and read into the record today, Gerow denied testimony given before the army board by Col. R. W. Bratton that Gerow had received on the evening of Dec. 6, 1941, the first 13 parts of the intercepted Japanese note which ended negotiations with the United States the following day.

Gerow said in the affidavit, however, that had he received the 13 parts that night, he would have warned overseas army commanders immediately. Questioned by Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] about this statement, he said: "There may not have been a meeting of minds between myself and Col. Clausen on this. What I meant was that if they had necessitated action I would have taken it."

The Clausen affidavits have been seized upon by administration apologists as proof that the damaging testimony before the army board has no foundation. Yesterday Gen. Marshall told the congressional investigating committee that he never had heard of a junior officer investigating general officers.

Message of War

Among the sworn testimony given before the army board and reported denied in the Clausen affidavits is evidence that the high command in Washington received a Japanese intercept the evening of Dec. 3, 1941, in which the Japanese government notified its diplomats of impending war with the United States and Great Britain.

Gerow testified today his affidavit was made to Clausen in Cannes, France, last June 20. He said Clausen interviewed him briefly and that he gave Clausen some notes. Clausen then went to his quarters, wrote out the affidavit, and brought it to Gerow for signature, the general said. Gerow said the instrument had to be redrafted once before his and Clausen's signatures were attached.

Among denials made by Gerow in the affidavit was his rejection of Bratton's testimony that Gerow had been notified on Dec. 4, 1941, of a Japanese message ordering the destruction of codes by Japanese consuls. Bratton had said he suggested Gerow send a warning based on this information but that Gerow had said overseas commanders had "sufficient warning."

Messages He Missed

Gerow testified today that between Nov. 27, 1941, and 11:25 a. m. Dec. 7, 1941, he had not seen any of the following:

1. The Japanese message ordering consuls to destroy codes.
2. A message from Batavia, Java, interpreting the Japanese "winds" code message as meaning war was contemplated.
3. A message from London on Dec. 6, reporting Jap transports and men o' war heading south in the China sea.
4. The Japanese note ending negotiations Dec. 7.
5. The Japanese message ordering envoys to deliver the note at 1 p. m. Washington time, the hour the Jap bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

Gerow further denied knowledge prior to Dec. 7, 1941, of the Roosevelt-Churchill agreement to take parallel action to warn Japan against further aggressive action in August, 1941, and the subsequent oral warning from the President to the Japanese.

The general said he had been in his office at least an hour and 20 minutes prior to the fateful conference the morning of Dec. 7 at which Gen. Marshall and his staff decided to send the final warning to Pacific commanders — which arrived in Hawaii seven hours after the Japanese attack.

Gerow asserted that had the information presented at Marshall's conference been brought to his attention he would have drafted an urgent warning and dispatched it to Hawaii and other points himself, if he had been unable to reach Marshall or Stimson.

ARMY AND NAVY IN ANOTHER ROW ON UNIFICATION

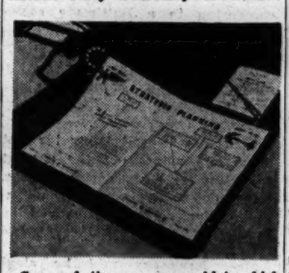
Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The army and the navy fought another round today in their "you're another" battle over unification.

The war department at its news conference handed out a navy pamphlet about the merger plan which army spokesmen thought was pretty fancy and they made some remarks about the cost. They also made some remarks about freedom of speech of army and navy officers.

The navy department at its news conference gave out an army staff memorandum which the navy people interpreted to mean that army officers could not speak freely on unification.

Calls It Diversionary

As for the argument itself, War Secretary Patterson said the navy plan outlined in the pamphlet was a "diversionary attack" and didn't meet the army's points at all. Assistant Navy Secretary H. Struve Hensel said Patterson must not have understood it.



Copy of the navy pamphlet which was target of army criticism yesterday.

The navy plan would set up a national security council, composed of the President, state secretary, and secretaries of the military departments. This would deal with foreign and military policies. It also would create a national security resources board to handle economic and domestic matters connected with national security.

Blow-by-Blow Report

The blow-by-blow description of the conferences follows:

Pamphlet — Patterson exhibited brochure entitled "the navy plan for national security" and calls it "fancy." Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins said war department does not have "any money to answer this." Collins adds, "I have been unable to find out who printed it and who paid for it."

Hensel said navy paid for it. He said government printing office couldn't handle job so navy got private printing firm to print 10,000 copies; bill is expected to be $8,400 and will be paid from navy's "printing and binding" appropriation.

Calls Charge "Ridiculous"

Free speech — Patterson said "charge is being repeatedly made by the navy that the army has muzzled its officers. This is ridiculous." Regarding Navy Secretary Forrestal's suggestion that army tell its personnel they may "say what they think" about merger, as navy did yesterday, Patterson said army did so weeks ago.

Hensel produced memorandum he says was issued Nov. 5 by Brig. Gen. H. I. Hodes, assistant deputy chief of staff. It reads, "It is imperative that all officers of the army be conversant with the war department's views and statements regarding the establishment of a single department."

TESTIFIES FINNS CUT BRITISH TIE TO END SPYING

Former Premier Denies Provoking Red War

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HELSINKI, Finland, Dec. 14—Former Premiers J. Rangell and Edwin Linkomies took the floor today in Finland's war responsibility trial to read pleas which underscored the desire of the governments they headed to conclude peace with soviet Russia at the earliest opportunity, provided the terms were not catastrophic.

The presiding judge followed Rangell's reading from a typewritten copy of the plea and interrupted at various times to call for the omission of certain passages, on the ground that the court must avoid offending the allies.

Rangell's plea covered 16 pages, but Linkomies read nearly 50 with more to follow tomorrow. Both premiers pleaded they always held national welfare uppermost and disclaimed responsibility for either provoking the war with Russia or deliberately prolonging it.

Attacks Indictment

Answering charges that his government countenanced the advance of Finnish troops into soviet territory, Rangell said it was not the business of political authorities to interfere with military strategy. Asked if it would not "have been better for the battles with their ensuing destruction to have been fought at the gates of Tampere [Tammerfors] and Helsinki?" he answered that it sounded incredible but that it appeared this section of the indictment was based on the premise that the war should have been waged in Finland's own territory.

Regarding Finland's diplomatic breach with the British, Rangell asserted that the intention of his government was merely to check espionage by the British legation in behalf of their soviet ally.

Rangell recalled the open admission by the London Daily Herald, mouthpiece of the present Labor government, that the real reason Britain did not break relations with Finland immediately was not its unwillingness to drop the traditional friendship. "That's only polite nonsense," it said. "But the foreign office is not as stupid as it sometimes feigns for politeness' sake.

"First Rate Observation Post"

"The real reason was that our legation in Helsingfors [Helsinki] was a first rate observation post . . . and we held it open as long as possible. The Russians fully understood the reason."

Rangell's attorney said that German transit across Finnish territory prior to the outbreak of hostilities was limited, amounting only to the grand total of some 20,000 men in both directions whereas 10 times more were sent thru Sweden.

"My client had no reason to fear . . . that this matter should contain hostile provocation," he said.

The lawyer cited the violence of the aerial bombing of southeastern Finland as indicated by the figure of 26 soviet bombers shot down June 21, 1941, altho Russo-Finnish relations still were formally intact.

Other defendants in the present trial are former President Risto Ryti and former foreign Minister Henrik Ramsay.

Nazi Defender Loses Plea to Bar Affidavits at Trial

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 14—The horrors of the nazi anti-Semitic program, unfolded before the international military tribunal, today touched off a protest from German defense attorneys that the world was being inflamed against Germany by the tribunal's acceptance of atrocity evidence of questionable admissibility and credibility. Defense counsel also objected to the practice of the United States prosecutors of presenting incriminating evidence while, it was charged, withholding exculpating evidence.

The German lawyers said they were pleading not only for their clients but also in behalf of future generations, particularly the generation now growing up in Germany. Their interest, they said, was that the undistorted truth be spread on the permanent records of the court.

The point was raised by Frederick Kauffmann, appointed counsel for Ernst Kaltenbrunner, deputy Gestapo chief. Kauffmann asked the tribunal to strike from the records the affidavit of one Andrea Pfaffenberger, a former inmate of Buchenwald concentration camp whose statement sponsored yesterday's introduction of tattooed human skin and a shrunken skull from the camp.

Wants Witnesses Subpensed

"From the affidavit," said Kauffmann, "it is impossible to tell whether Pfaffenberger speaks from personal knowledge or hearsay. Truth and justice will suffer if his oral testimony, subject to cross-examination, is not substituted for this written statement.

"We would like the court to establish a rule that witnesses in Germany be subpenaed rather than use their written statements. My client, for example, contends that his signature was forged many times after he became chief of security police in the spring of 1943."

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, in replying to Kauffmann's motion said that condensation of the evidence covering a decade of time, a continent of space, and millions of persons, would not permit ordinary rules of procedure. He pointed out that the tribunal's charter directs it to adopt rules for expeditious procedure and not be bound by the technicalities of precedents.

Wants All Evidence

Frederick Bergold, attorney for Martin Bormann, secretary of the Nazi party, supposed to have been killed in the Russian capture of Berlin but being tried in absentia as the 22d defendant, got to the microphone.

"Truth must not suffer in the interest of speed," he said. "Our children must know the truth."

"The United States prosecutors, from inspection of the Buchenwald records," he continued, "must have known that the Germans also condemned the brutal management at this concentration camp and condemned and executed the manager and his wife."

After deliberation during a recess, the tribunal announced its decision. The affidavit would remain in the record and the defense might use its right under the tribunal to request a subpena for Pfaffenberger, whose whereabouts is not known.

Slaughter Told

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 14—(AP)—The butchery of 6,000,000 Jews, 4,000,000 of them in nazi concentration camps and the rest in the ghettos of eastern Europe, was recounted today before the war crimes tribunal trying Hitler's 21 top henchmen.

This ghastly summation was made in an affidavit by Dr. Wilhelm Hoettl, right hand man of Ernst Kaltenbrunner, chief of the German Military police.

Approximately 4,000,000 Jews had been killed in the various extermination camps, said the affidavit, "while an additional 2,000,000 met death in other ways, the major part of which were shot by operational squads of security police during the campaign against Russia."

U. S. AND BRITAIN OUTLINE GOAL IN JEWISH INQUIRY

Washington, D .C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The United States and Britain today laid down a four point set of instructions to the 12 man committee set up to investigate the Palestine problem.

The "terms of reference," made public simultaneously in Washington and London, direct the committee to:

1. Examine "political, economic, and social conditions" in Palestine to determine how they affect Jewish desires for increased immigration into the Holy Land, taking into account the well being of the people now living there.

Number to Be Sought

2. Investigate the plight of Jewish refugees in Europe and estimate how many want to migrate to Palestine and also to see "what practical measures" have been taken or are contemplated in the European countries where they now live to enable them to live without discrimination or oppression.

3. Hear the views of "competent witnesses and to consult representative Arabs and Jews" on Palestine problems before making specific recommendations.

4. Make such other recommendations that may be necessary to facilitate the emigration and settlement of Jews to countries within and outside Europe.

5 ARAB STATES TO CAUCUS ON WORLD CAPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 14—Delegates from five Arab states will hold a secret caucus tomorrow to decide whether to throw their votes to the United States or Europe on the question of a permanent site for the united nations organization, it was learned tonight. Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, Saudi Arabia, and Iraq hold the balance of power within the united nations preparatory commission.

The commission meets late tomorrow and may vote on the issue then.

It will take a two-thirds majority of the delegations present and voting to decide the united nations site. As the lineup stands tonight the United States has 28 of a possible 51 votes sewed up. These are as follows: The 19 Latin-American republics [Costa Rica may not be present or it would be 20]; three Russian votes, Australia, China, Czechoslovakia, Liberia, the Philippine Islands, and Yugoslavia. The United States, itself, may refrain from voting.

Free 25 Army Officers Jailed in Colombia Revolt

BOGOTA, Colombia, Dec. 14 (AP)—Twenty-five army officers serving terms up to four and a half years in connection with the Pasto revolt of July 10, 1944, and other subversive acts, were freed today by presidential decree.

11 Executed

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 14 (AP)—Josef Kramer, "the beast of Belsen," his blonde subordinate, 22 year old Irma Grese, and nine others of the notorious Belsen gang were hanged in a little less than seven hours yesterday on twin gallows in the Pied Piper town of Hameln [Hamelin].

The headquarters of Field Marshal Montgomery announced today that the death sentences pronounced by a British military court at Lueneburg a month ago had been carried out.

The first to die was Elizabeth Volkenrath, at 9:34 a. m. She was followed in the next hour by Irma Grese and Juanna Bormann.

Next came the men, who were hanged in pairs. Pacing the death march were Kramer and Dr. Fritz Klein; second, Karl Franchioh and Peter Weingartner; third, Ansgar Pichen and Franz Hoeszler; last, William Dorr and Franz Starfie.

The hangings were carried out by Albert Pierrepont, official British hangman, on two gallows erected by the royal engineers in the yard of the ancient prison on the banks of the Weser river.

Funds raised in the drive will be used to train nurses and doctors in Sister Kenny's methods of treating poliomyelitis.

ORDER ANTI-NAZI DEPORTED; IN U. S. SINCE 1907

Portland, Ore., Dec. 14 (AP)—Walter E. Baer, Portland civil engineer and outspoken anti-Nazi who was on the verge of deportation thruout the mid-thirties, has been ordered to leave for Germany with the next deportation party.

The Baer case was fought thru Oregon and New York courts from 1934 to 1937 by friends who said he could not remember Germany or speak the language.

A group of 120 Portland attorneys appealed today to Gov. Snell to pardon Baer, 47, for two 25 year old check forgery convictions, on which the deportation is based. Baer's attorney, Irvin Goodman, said Baer served sentences on the charges in 1919 and 1921, but had been a good citizen since. He came to this country from his native Germany in 1907. The petitioning lawyers said that separating Baer from his Oregon born wife and three children—one in the army—would be a "grave violation of the principles of democracy."

ALLIED TRIBUNAL BARS NEW QUIZ OF DEFENDANTS

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 14 (AP)—German defense attorneys were ordered tonight by the international military tribunal's security section to cease putting questions to the nazi defendants on behalf of news correspondents.

The security department threatened contempt of court proceedings against anybody who obtained from defendants for transmission to the press any biographical data or political or scientific information.

A German defense attorney said, "this completely cuts us off from the world press, as anything we may say by way of backgrounding correspondents may be held in contempt of court."

BERLIN BUSINESS ORDERED TO HIRE MAIMED TROOPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Dec. 14—The allied control council today issued orders to Berlin employers to hire maimed war veterans and teach them to work despite the loss of an arm or leg.

"We ask no questions as to how a man became mutilated—if he is maimed we want him trained to work nevertheless and not become the object of charity, begging in the streets," said Col. Frank Howley.

Employers claim that cripples less efficient than able bodied personnel will be covered by a municipay subsidy covering the discrepancy in wages.

SOCIETY, CIVIC, AND DEMOCRAT LEADER IN JAIL

Club Woman Starts Term for Being a Bookie

Mineola, N. Y., Dec. 14 [Special]—Mrs. Fanny Pearson Dudgeon, 46, who has taken an active part in Nassau county Democratic, religious, charitable, and civic activities, today began a four month jail term for being a bookie. She also was fined $500.

Mrs. Dudgeon was convicted Nov. 29 by a jury of 10 men and two women for accepting bets on horses and permitting her home in fashionable Buckram road, Locust Valley, to be used for such betting.

Leniency Plea Denied

Her lawyer, George E. Mulry, pleaded for leniency, citing the case of a Port Washington woman who was fined only $25 for a gambling offense, and his client's reputation in civic, religious, and charitable activities.

Judge Henry J. A. Collins of Nassau county court said, however, that these considerations had not outweighed "inconsistencies and contradictions" in her demeanor at the trial.

In her testimony before the grand jury—such testimony is unusual in such cases but was asked for by her lawyer—she had refused to testify concerning symbols, believed to represent bets, written on paper slips in her home, he said.

Mrs. Dudgeon appeared calm in court, but later, when she left for Nassau county jail, she gave reporters a statement which accused District Attorney James N. Gehrig, a Republican, of seeking personal and political vengeance. Mrs. Dudgeon is a member of the state Democratic committee from the 4th Nassau assembly district and secretary of the Oyster Bay Democratic committee.

Raid on Home

Mrs. Dudgeon was arrested Sept. 20 by detectives who raided her home and, imitating the high pitched voice of a woman, took what was alleged to be bets in code from a telephone that rang almost incessantly.

The widow of Henry C. Dudgeon, she is a graduate of Friends academy, a Quaker school in Locust Valley. At the time of her arrest she was chairman of district 4 of the National War fund, secretary of the Locust Valley Red Cross, member of the Parent-Teachers' association, of the Honor Roll committee of Locust Valley, chairman of the North Shore division of the Nassau County Infantile Paralysis committee, president of the Ladies Aid society of the Locust Valley Dutch Reformed church, and a director of the Girl Scout council.

GEN. HOMMA TO GO ON TRIAL IN MANILA TUESDAY

MANILA, Dec. 15 [Saturday]—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma will be arraigned Tuesday on war criminal charges in the same courtroom where Gen. Yamashita heard his death sentence, army headquarters announced today.

Homma, who has acknowledged, "I'm ready to take responsibility for any acts of my subordinates," was in command of Japanese forces who staged the "death march" on Bataan. Lt. Gen. W. D. Styer named Brigadier Generals Robert G. Gard, of the 96th division, and Warren H. McNaught, of the 93d, as final appointees on the commission which will hear Homma's case.

Allies Demand Answers

TOKYO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Allied headquarters today ordered the Japanese government to answer these questions: "Was Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma the supreme commander of all Japanese forces, of whatever branch, whenever those forces were on the land in the Philippines?"

"Did Homma have supreme command over the Japanese air forces in the Philippines?"

Speaker's Stand Crashes at Vast Rally for Peron

Revolt in Iran

2,000 TRIBESMEN ABOUT TO TAKE TWO IRAN CITIES

Azerbaijan Autonomy Movement Gains

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 14 (AP)—Leaders of a local autonomy movement in Azerbaijan province were reported tonight to be in virtual control of Tabriz, while 2,000 rebellious tribesmen demanded immediate surrender of the government garrison at Ardabil, 110 miles to the east.

A high source in the Iranian government said fall of the two cities appeared imminent.

Government troops in both the capital city and Ardabil were said to be awaiting orders from Tehran on whether to fight or yield in the face of superior forces. Orders were dispatched to them last night, but their nature was not disclosed.

Governor Forced to Leave

Provincial Governor Bayatt, who arrived in Tehran last night from Tabriz, said he had been forced to leave by leaders of the autonomy movement. Bayatt said he was accompanied to his plane by Jafar Pishevari, president of the newly formed Azerbaijan government, who had advised him to quit the province.

Meanwhile Raeder Bullard, British ambassador, and John D. Jernegan, United States embassy representative, boarded a Russian plane for Moscow. Spokesmen at both embassies said the trip was "obviously" to discuss the soviet attitude toward the revolt which has cut off the northwest province from the rest of Iran.

Neutral diplomatic sources in Tehran said that the small garrison at Tabriz was restricted to the city by orders of the Democratic party and the Russian commandant in that area. The Ardabil garrison was reported to number less than 1,000.

Premier to Go to Moscow

Iranian Premier Ibrahim Hakimi also prepared to leave for Moscow for discussions with the soviet government. The Iranian ministry of foreign affairs has appealed to Russia, Britain, and the United States to withdraw their troops from the country immediately.

[A Moscow dispatch said that the soviet press reported today formation of a Russian society to promote closer "cultural relations" with Iranian Azerbaijan.]

LONDON POLICE AND MPs RAID CITY FOR AWOLs

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)—About 2,000 London police aided by American and British military police threw a dragnet over central London and the west end tonight in a hunt for thousands of deserters believed hiding in the British capital.

Questioning all persons in theaters, dance halls, clubs, railroad and subway stations, police caught nine service men who were absent without leave. Hundreds of other persons unable to produce identification papers were taken to police stations for questioning.

Police officials described the raid results as "fairly satisfactory."

DECLARES U. S. SHARES DUTY IN EAST INDIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—British Ambassador Halifax declared tonight that the United States shares with Britain the responsibility for the operations of British empire forces in the revolt-torn Dutch East Indies.

In an address at the 25th anniversary banquet of the English Speaking union, he declared:

"We did not send our troops to Java on our own initiative. They went there to carry out work which had been assigned to them by the combined chiefs of staff. The decision was not British, but Anglo-American."

Army, Navy Leaders

The combined chiefs of staff is an organization of British and United States land, sea, and air commanders.

Halifax declared that troops are in the Indies to disarm the Japanese and to provide safety for allied prisoners of war and persons interned by the Japanese, "a large proportion of whom are women and children."

Some internees have "already been murdered," he said, and 70,000 women and children in Batavia live in daily danger.

"However anxious we may be to avoid bloodshed and to keep out of the internal affairs of the Dutch Indies," Halifax said, "we have been given a job to do and it is surely our duty to see it thru."

Asks Coöperation

Halifax appealed for the closest possible Anglo-American understanding. He declared that the peace after the last war was wrecked by the disunity which then came between the United States and Britain.

He said he did not believe that either Germany or Japan "would have entered upon a career of crime" in the face of real unity between the English speaking nations.

TELLS COURT 250 TRAPPED BELOW DECK ON WARSHIP

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—Between 250 and 330 officers and men were trapped below decks when the heavy cruiser Indianapolis sank after an explosion on the night of July 30, a navy court martial was told today.

The court is trying Capt. Charles B. McVay, skipper of the ship, on charges of negligence and inefficiency in her loss while en route from Guam to Leyte. It heard testimony from Ensign John Woolston, Seattle, Wash., the ship's damage control officer.

Woolston, on watch that evening, said he made several patrols of the ship to check her condition. He estimated that from 250 to 300 men were sleeping in forward compartments in the area where fatal explosions occurred, and that an additional 30 officers and men were on duty station in that area.

The charge of inefficiency against Capt. McVay is based specifically on his alleged failure to issue "timely" orders to abandon ship, resulting in the loss of many lives.

Find Rich Diamond Field in 'Blacklands' of Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 14 [Reuters]—Half a million United States dollars worth of diamonds have been found during the past fortnight in western Brazil. The discovery was hailed today as "one of the richest diamond deposits ever found in the country" by Lauro Melo, member of the diamond mining union. The area is the "Blacklands" in the Sao channel tributary of the Paranaiba river, which flows into the Parana.

"Clyde got tired of waiting to cross the street in heavy traffic."

WINDSOR DENIES PLANS TO MAKE HOME IN U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Dec. 14—Edward Windsor tonight denied that he and his wife plan to take up permanent residence in the United States. He authorized his secretary to say that there is "absolutely no foundation to the report," which originated in Nassau.

Except for one visit to their rented villa on the Riviera and Windsor's journey to London, the former king of England and his wife have remained at their rented Boulevard Suchet home here since their arrival last September from the Bahamas, where he served as governor. They have been entertaining quietly, except for one formal dinner for the British ambassador to Paris. Most of their entertainment has consisted of small, intimate dinners and a few small cocktail parties or teas.

In connection with the Nassau report, it is known that Windsor always has had a warm spot in his heart for the United States. He has said that on his next visit to America he hoped to spend a long time in the midwest, rather than remain on the eastern seaboard.

DUTCH WANT JAVA ISSUE KEPT AWAY FROM LAP OF UNO

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 14 (AP)—Dr. Hubertus van Mook, acting governor general of the Netherlands East Indies, asserted today that the Dutch government believes the Indonesian revolt should not be tossed into the lap of the united nations organization or some similar body "which has not yet found its range."

On the eve of his departure for conferences with Dutch government officials in the Netherlands, Van mook restated the Dutch view that direct discussions with the Indonesians, now in progress, will achieve the best results.

Two Indian soldiers were killed and four wounded when Indonesians armed with machine guns and mortars ambushed a Punjab patrol near the naval base city of Soerabaja.

At Belawan, near Medan, Sumatra, Indonesians wounded four soldiers in an Indian patrol in a rifle and grenade attack.

FIGHT OVER U. S. LOAN BREWS IN HOUSE OF LORDS

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 14—The second round of the Bretton Woods battle opens in the house of lords Monday when Publisher Beaverbrook, owner of Britain's biggest newspaper, the Daily Express, will submit a motion for rejection of the world monetary plan. If approved after two days of debate, the motion might cost Britain the 4 billion, 400 million dollar loan which the United States proposes to advance on easy terms.

Today the Bretton Woods bill passed its final stages in the house of commons without the formality of a vote. It was turned over immediately to the lords who met specially to receive it.

Laborites are reported convinced that the peers will not sabotage the loan, but Beaverbrook's motion raises the possibility that a number of Conservatives will vote against the government, whose supporters in the upper house total only 30.

Opposes Gold Standard

The Laborites expect backing from 50 or so Liberal peers, and it was indicated in political circles that if the opposition is strong enough to threaten the government's defeat, sufficient Conservative peers may vote in favor of the bill to insure its passage.

Beaverbrook opposes Bretton Woods and the loan on the ground that it involves a return to the gold standard, abolition of the sterling area, destruction of imperial preference and will endanger the economic welfare of Britain and the empire.

Robert A. J. Cecil, leader of the opposition in the house of lords, is expected to advise Conservative peers to abstain from voting, but similar advice given to his supporters by Winston Churchill in the house of commons last night did not prevent 69 of them from casting votes against the government.

The repudiation of his advice by nearly 100 members of his own party may hasten Churchill's end as leader of the opposition, it was suggested by some political observers tonight.

BRITISH LOAN OUGHT TO BE PRIVATE ONE, SAYS A LEGISLATOR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—If Great Britain wants a loan from the United States, it should come from private individuals and not from the government, says Rep. Winter [R., Kas.].

"Loans to Britain have been made before and never a penny of principal or interest has been repaid," Winter told a reporter. "The British empire has tremendous resources as a whole. "Our government has use for all of the funds that can be raised from the taxpayers in the next few years."

The Kansan said he does not see why the United States government should furnish money thru loans to other countries which might be used in part to pay bonuses to their veterans when there are "11 or 12 million over here who need money."

PATTON WILL BE FLOWN TO U. S. HOSPITAL SOON

May Be Paralyzed for the Rest of His Life

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gen Patton will be moved back to the United States for hospitalization "as soon as his condition permits," Col. R. Glen Spurling, chief specialist attending Patton said today. The journey will be by air, probably within the next four to six weeks.

Spurling, army neuro-surgical consultant who was flown to the 15th army commander's bedside from Washington, D. C., said there is a possibility that Patton never would be able to command his troops again.

"Barring unforeseen complications, Patton is out of danger of death," Spurling said. "It cannot be said, however, that he is out of danger of partial paralysis for life."

Gets Whisky Daily

Lt. Col. Paul S. Hill of Saco, Maine, chief surgeon of the 130 station hospital, said the general had been eating regularly and drinking one or two ounces of whisky a day as part of his medication.

Capt. William Duane, neuro-surgeon of the 97th general hospital, who maintains a 24 hour watch over the general, added "if Patton does not eat, he probably gets a shot of whisky." Public relations officers issued a denial that one of Patton's nurses had said he refused to eat or drink unless he got whisky.

Spinal Cord Injured

Spurling said it will be impossible to predict for at least three or four weeks the outcome of the automobile accident that has put Patton in a traction apparatus, suffering a broken neck. He added that doctors might have to wait as much as six months before they knew whether the general would regain full control of his limbs.

Patton's spinal cord has been injured in the dislocation of the cervical vertebrae. The surgeon said the vertebrae in Patton's neck are now almost perfectly realigned.

Mrs. Patton spent most of the day at her husband's bedside reading him messages of sympathy, from President Truman, Gen. Eisenhower, British Field Marshal Alexander and other friends. The President's message said:

"I am distressed at the painful accident which you have suffered and want you to know that I am thinking of you at this time. You have won many a tough fight and I know that faith and courage will not fail you in this one. I am thankful that Mrs. Patton will be at your side to strengthen and sustain you."

BRITISH DEMAND PAY FOR DAMAGE DONE BY SIAM

SINGAPORE, Malaya, Dec. 14 [Reuters]—Siam must pay for damage done to British interests there, Haberly Dening, foreign office adviser to Adm. Mountbatten, said today.

"Siam acquiesced in the Japanese action toward British nationals and must be held responsible for such actions as on investigation she may be found to have committed," he added.

Dening denied recent reports that Britain's offer to Siam would amount to a virtual enslavement of that country. On the contrary, Great Britain wished to see Siam restored as a free, sovereign, and independent country and did not propose imposing a treaty of peace as international usage entitled her to do, he said.

CHINESE TROOPS NEARING PASS TO JEHOL PROVINCE

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 14 (AP)—Chinese government troops advancing northward along the Peiping-Jehol railway have reached a point 11 miles from Kupehkow pass leading from China proper to Jehol province, but fighting still is in progress, government dispatches reported today. A semi-official dispatch from Manchuria said that Russian troops would be responsible for maintaining order in Changchun, the territorial capital, until they withdraw, regardless of the presence of Chinese government forces.

PARIS, Dec. 14 (AP)—All United States redeployment staging area camps in France will be closed by Dec. 31, the service forces headquarters said today. The announcement did not say what route will be used for redeployment next year, but military authorities said they believed Antwerp would become the main outgoing channel.

Cut Half Million

Meeting with Mayor Kelly last night in their first intensive session in their consideration of the 1946 city budget, the city council finance committee succeeded in cutting $522,528 from the $65,787,913 corporate purposes fund estimate for 1946. An all day session was ordered for today by Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the group, when an attempt will be made to make more drastic cuts perhaps totalling $4,500,000.

Greatest reduction last night was a $387,000 slash in the budget set up for the board of election commissioners. Another cut that drew aldermanic interest was one for $10,000 in a $20,000 fund set up for warehousing and guarding defunct office of civilian defense equipment.

Ald. Lindell [9th], chairman of the subcommittee on pay raises, said that if the $4,500,000 cut is achieved, that amount can be rebudgeted in salary accounts to insure pay boosts approximating 7½ per cent for all city employes.

The committee earlier in the day approved an increase of more than $1,500,000 in the city budget for pension funds.

DOOLITTLE, MEN ON SHANGRI-LA HOLD REUNION

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 14 (AP)—Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle flew to Miami Beach today for a reunion with the flyers whose last rendezvous was over Tokyo, and, as usual, the general was "on the target" a little ahead of his men.

A huge birthday cake, commemorating his 49th birthday, greeted Doolittle as he walked into temporary "headquarters" at a hotel overlooking the Atlantic.

But the week-end party for 54 airmen who took off with him April 18, 1942, from Shangri-La—the deck of the carrier Hornet—to drop the first bombs on the Jap capital, that will be on the general.

"We're here for two purposes—to pay tribute to those of the original 80 who lost their lives—and for a comradely get-together," said the one-time commander of the 8th air force in Europe.

PATTON REWARD ASKED AS A SLAP AT SMEAR GANG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14—Nomination of Gen. Patton to permanent rank of lieutenant general was urged today by Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.], in recognition of Patton's war services and as a "rebuke to that motley leftist gang which has been attempting to smear him."

Rising on the senate floor, Wiley termed Patton one of the three greatest American heroes of the war and urged that President Truman nominate, and the senate confirm, the general in permanent rank of lieutenant general. Patton now holds permanent rank of major general and temporary rank of general.

"Any one who has followed the developments in the Pearl Harbor inquiry and the policy of military promotions thruout the war," said Sen. Wiley, "knows that in quite a few instances 'seven day wonders' and 'swivel chair generals' have been promoted to very high ranks."

"Such an honor," the senator added, "would serve to rebuke that motley leftist gang which has been sniping at Patton and attempting to smear him; that same crew that has been trying to defame Gen. MacArthur, because both of these men represent the very highest in American ideals."

CAB PUTS $375 FLOOR ON PLANE FARES TO LONDON

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The civil aeronautics board acted under a general grant of power today to put a floor of $375 under fares to London and clear away the major difficulty in providing full scale north Atlantic air service.

At the same time the board recognized an informal understanding whereby the British will permit United States carriers to make 14 round trips weekly to England.

The CAB granted seven trips each to Pan American Airways and American Overseas Airlines, with a limitation that each not offer more than 250 seats. This averages about 35 passengers a trip, and is more than can be carried in the DC-4s now in use.

REDS CALL TURK NOTE REPLY NOT SATISFACTORY

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Moscow radio reported tonight that the soviet government regarded as "unsatisfactory" the Turkish answer to a Russian note protesting demonstrations in Istanbul on Dec. 4. The broadcast said the soviet ambassador to Turkey on Dec. 8 gave the Turkish minister of foreign affairs a note protesting the demonstrations as "hostile to the soviet union" and placing responsibility on the Turkish government.

The soviet note, the broadcast added, charged that demonstrations in which two newspaper offices and two bookshops were badly damaged, took place without opposition from Turkish police, who "protected the demonstrators."

A Turkish answer delivered Dec. 11, as quoted by the radio, stated that investigations showed the demonstrations were of "purely internal character," and "judged either by shouts of the crowd or their actual proceedings did not have a character hostile to any foreign power."

ARMY TO SELL GOODS VALUED AT 400 MILLION

Items Range from Tugs to Railroad Cars

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The army is turning loose to civilians $400,000,000 worth of goods, ranging from sea-going tugs to wool socks.

In making this report to the senate war investigating committee today, the war department furnished a list of thousands of items valued at $203,721,370. Another $220,000,000 worth remains to be tabulated but will be available immediately, Walter Hehmeyer, a committee aid said.

2 Million Blankets

The committee has been keeping a check on the army's disposal program, seeking to divert unneeded goods to the civilian market.

The items include 2,000,000 army blankets, 500,000 yards of lining for clothes, 11,937 trucks, 4,139 10-ton semi-trailers, 3,632 tractors, 244,319 telephone headsets, 771,000 pairs of combat boots and 1,493,000 pairs of wool ski socks.

There were thousands of other items—82,000 flashlights, 223,000 knit olive drab shirts, more than a thousand bridges, outboard motors, tool kits, insect spray, blasting caps, tugs, barges, and railway cars.

Hint of Long Occupation

War Undersecretary Kenneth C. Royall and Gen. Hodges, chairman of an army board on reserve supplies, told the committee the army intends to release immediately civilian type supplies and equipment, except the quantities required during demobilization and for occupational needs up to June 30, 1949.

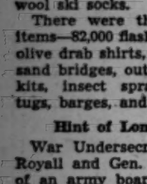
They submitted a policy statement saying:

"No quantities of any article will be retained which will not be needed during the storage life of that article. The quantities to be retained by the war department will be subjected to frequent review and adjusted currently to reflect changes in the military establishment."

Items such as blankets, shirts, and similar articles, classed as consumer goods, will be turned over to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which acts as the disposal agency. The goods are sold to wholesalers, which in turn make them available to the retail trade and the public.

MATT KIMES, 39, TEXAS BANDIT, DIES OF INJURIES

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 14 (AP)—Matt Kimes, 39, Oklahoma bad man held by federal authorities for a Texas bank robbery, died today in a hospital here.



Matt Kimes

Kimes had been in the hospital since Dec. 1 when he was struck on a Little Rock street by a poultry truck, ending a three month man hunt over a four state area.

One of the most notorious southwestern desperadoes of the last quarter century, Kimes' death followed an operation last night to correct internal injuries suffered in the accident that led to his capture. The former convict was furloughed last July from the Oklahoma penitentiary after serving 18 years for murder.

WIFE NO. 1 TELLS OF LIE; BIGAMY TANGLE ENDS

The bigamy tangle of Stanley Kurek, 31, of 2218 Orchard st., came to an end yesterday in Felony court when Judge Charles S. Dougherty dismissed a charge of living with a bigamist against Kurek's second wife, Ruth Mathis, 5137 S. Washtenaw av.

Kurek was placed on probation on bigamy charges Thursday in Criminal court on the plea of his four children by his first wife, Katherine, with whom he was reunited. In Felony court, 24 hours later, the first Mrs. Kurek admitted under questioning of Atty. Samuel A. Hoffman she had told her husband she had divorced him.

Miss Mathis said she had filed suit for annulment of her marriage to Kurek.

Pneumonia Toll Higher, Flu Lighter than in '44

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday that 61 cases of flu and 43 deaths have been reported since Dec. 1. In 1944 the respective figures were 139 and 65. Pneumonia cases during the same period this year totaled 309, with 75 deaths, he said. Last year, in the corresponding period, there were 123 cases and 51 deaths. There is a high incidence of common colds in Chicago, Dr. Bundesen said, but the health department does not know the exact figures, since they are not reportable. He warned sufferers to avoid letting their colds run into flu or pneumonia.

No Reconciliation

Elaine Dickman hugging her mother, Winifred, in the county building yesterday.

A tentative attempt by Circuit Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg to plant a few seeds of Christmas cheer in the hearts of an estranged couple fell on barren ground yesterday, but it wasn't the judge's fault.

His gesture was made when Mrs. Winifred Dickman, 25, of 6519 S. Peoria st., appeared before him with Joseph H. and Norman Becker, her attorneys, to seek temporary allimony for the support of Elaine, 7, from her husband, George, 34, a machinist.

"For the sake of this child," the court told her, "you and your husband should now be preparing a Christmas tree in your home. Why don't you get together?"

The Beckers explained that the child was the reason the couple were apart. Dickman, they said, would not permit his wife to reprimand Elaine, and when she did he reprimanded her—but with his fists.

"Christmas spirit," they told the court, "just can't flourish in an atmosphere filled with flailing fists." Judge Schnackenberg ruefully agreed, and granted Mrs. Dickman $12 a week.

ADMITS ERROR IN DESTRUCTION OF CYCLOTRON

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—War Secretary Patterson said today the destruction by American occupation forces of a cyclotron in Japan "was a case of mistake in the war department."

He was asked at a new conference about a statement by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters yesterday which said the general had ordered destruction of cyclotrons in Japan "on specific instructions" from Patterson's office.

Patterson said "that is quite correct." He added that he did not personally see the original order which went out because "hundreds of messages" are sent which he can not see personally. He added that no one would be punished for the mistake.

He said MacArthur acted in an entirely correct manner in carrying out the order.

DE TARNOWSKY ASKS $4,000 TO OPPOSE EX-WIFE

Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg was petitioned yesterday in Circuit court by Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker, representing Capt. Alexis De Tarnowsky, who is in England, for $4,000 with which to defend two appeals that his former wife, Alice Rand De Tarnowsky McIntosh, has taken from a divorce decree which awarded the captain custody of their two children and $200 a month for their support. The attorneys told the court that Mrs. McIntosh, who had been ordered to pay her former husband's attorney fees, has made no support payments since June and that Capt. De Tarnowsky has been obliged to devote his entire salary as an army officer for the children's support. The court set Jan. 2 for hearing on the petition, to allow Mrs. McIntosh time to get here from California.

ALDERMEN HALT ALL ACTION ON BUILDING CODE

The city council subcommittee on the building code yesterday scanned the Chicago Association of Commerce's report recommending complete revision of the out of date regulations and postponed consideration until after the holidays.

Chairman Duffy [19th] said the association has been unable yet to furnish copies of the voluminous report, based on a year's study of the code, to all aldermen and city department heads. Duffy also said the city budget hearings would prevent giving full attention to the code now.

Study Necessary, Says Duffy

"I haven't had time to read the report yet," added Duffy. "We should study the report before starting discussions. The building, fire, and health commissioners should have copies."

Lively interest in code revision was shown in a score of letters from builders, architects, mortgage bankers, materials dealers, and labor unions replying to Duffy's request for suggestions as to the code being obsolete and unreasonably restrictive, especially in respect to single dwellings.

Duffy read them at the brief committee meeting.

Court Action Stirs Aldermen

The other committee members, Aldermen Lindell [9th] and Cowhey [41st], expressed concern over the consideration given by Superior Judge Donald S. McKinlay to the Association of Commerce report in ruling against the city in a case involving code violation Thursday. Judge McKinlay enjoined the city from interfering with a wood frame addition that violated building code provisions prescribing fire limits.

"I am not a lawyer, but it seems to me that until the council has acted on this report, the document has no standing that could be recognized in court," said Duffy.

The committee was told that the corporation counsel's office had asked for copies of the C. A. C. report to prepare for further pleading in the injunction action.

Meanwhile, allotment of 1,500 more demountable houses for temporary shelter of war veterans and their families was approved by the national housing administration in Washington. These are in addition to 500 houses and 1,000 trailers previously tagged for Chicago.

REPORTS STRIKE AT 15 MILLWORK PLANTS ENDED

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 14 [Special]—Terms of settlement of the 12 week old strike in 15 Milwaukee millwork plants were agreed upon this afternoon at a conference of the negotiating committee of millwork company representatives and the AFL carpenters' district council.

W. A. Getzel, spokesman for the millwork company operators, said the terms were accepted unanimously at the meeting in Hotel Pfister, but declined to reveal them pending action by union members.

It was understood the union would meet Wednesday.

Five hundred men have been idle since the strike started. They represent 90 per cent of millwork plants in the district.

Getzel said work on 1,312 residences was halted because of the strike and that it would take about three months to complete them.

Should the union accept the terms and men return to work, it was expected that completion of the homes would be rushed to help relieve the critical housing situation here.

CHAIRMEN FORM STATE BODY TO AID DEMOCRATS

Downstate Men Map 1946 Campaign

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 14 (AP)—Democratic county chairmen today formed a downstate Illinois organization to plan 1946 election campaigns.

Fred Schuman of Granite City was named president of the group, which plans to confer later with the state central committee and other party leaders.

Others elected were State Rep. Paul Powell of Vienna, first vice president; B. J. Knight of Rockford, Clyde Roberts of Vandalia, and L. Orad Sitter of Anna, vice presidents; Fred Merrills of Belleville, executive committee chairman; George Spring of Pekin, secretary, and Peter F. Rossiter of Springfield, treasurer.

George D. Kells of Chicago, state committee chairman, recommended that county committees and chairmen meet Jan. 5 to select candidates for county and district offices.

Filings Open Jan. 21

The first day for filing April primary nomination petitions is Jan. 21.

Candidates for state-wide offices were not discussed at the meeting of the state committeemen, county chairmen, and legislators.

At an earlier, separate session of the legislators, however, the name of A. Glenn [Frenchy] Haussler, principal of West Aurora High school and former Pekin athletic coach and school administrator, was mentioned prominently as a candidate for state superintendent of schools.

The Democrats adopted a resolution urging Republicans to "join with us as a non-partisan move" in requesting Republican Gov. Green to call a special session on bonuses and housing for war veterans.

Special Session Urged

Democratic Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett has called for such a special session in two recent speeches. Green has advocated a study of the bonus question, being made now by a legislative commission, and has said the housing problem should be solved thru the state housing board, legislation enacted at the 1945 regular session, and thru efforts of private enterprise.

Barrett today told the Democratic gathering that Democrats should have a complete downstate primary slate in every county. The party lacked candidates in many contests in 1944.

Rep. Powell, house minority whip at the last legislative session, asserted that Gov. Green "had better try to be governor instead of having aspirations to be on the national Republican ticket."

Other speakers included State Sen. Richard J. Daley of Chicago, senate minority leader; State's Atty. William J. Tuohy of Chicago, and Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1940.

GOV. GOODLAND OUSTS WAUPACA DISTRICT ATTY.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14 [Special]—Gov. Goodland, charging J. Kyle Anderson, Waupaca county district attorney, with being the proprietor of the Waupaca Country club and "permitting the operation of various gambling devices upon the premises," today ousted the prosecutor.

Anderson was suspended from office Sept. 15, 1945, pending public hearing on charges brought against him by two Waupaca county residents. They were C. A. Christensen, town of Dayton clerk, and Nick Larson, town of Iola treasurer.

The complaints against Anderson alleged neglect of his office, being drunk in public places, and that he gambled and permitted gambling devices in Waupaca Country club.

Goodland dismissed all the charges except the gambling count.

DEAN SPENCER RETIRES FROM U. S. JOB BUREAU

Dean William H. Spencer, 57, regional director of the war man power commission during most of the war and regional director of the United States employment service since the war ended, announced yesterday his resignation had been accepted in Washington, D. C. Spencer said he will return to the University of Chicago on Monday as professor of government and business.

Eugene H. Brock

Dean Spencer gave up his government duties as he announced his retirement at a press conference in the regional office at 222 Adams st. He announced his successor would be Eugene H. Brock, 54, of Winnetka, deputy regional director.

Brock is a former regional representative of the bureau of unemployment compensation for the federal social security board. Spencer was appointed to the WMC on Oct. 21, 1942.

WOMAN WITNESS ADMITS PERJURY; JAILED 60 DAYS

An alibi witness who admitted she gave perjured testimony in the trial of two robbers was sentenced yesterday by Judge Julius Miner in Criminal court to 60 days in the county jail for direct contempt of court. The witness was Lois Porter, 22, Negro, who gave her address as 1246 Miller st.

The young woman was called as an alibi witness for Emanuel C. Smith, 31, Negro, who was on trial before Judge Miner in a bench hearing with William Byrd, 27, Negro, for the robbery of a laundry truck driver. Miss Porter testified she was a sister of Smith and that he was at home ill when the holdup occurred. Later she admitted she was his common law wife and that he had not been home at the time.

Judge Miner declared that alibi witnesses who give perjured testimony should receive the same punishment imposed upon the law breaker but that unfortunately such was not the law at present. He convicted Smith and Byrd, both ex-convicts, and sentenced them to 7 to 12 years in the penitentiary.

VISITORS FIND FOOD IMPROVED AT TB HOSPITAL

Complaints at Present Are Minor, They Say

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Noonday dinner in the Municipal tuberculosis sanitarium yesterday offered a choice of pot roast, short ribs of beef, and halibut steak with mashed potatoes, peas, bread, biscuits, butter, coffee or milk—or both—and pumpkin pie with whipped cream for dessert.

F. O. Washam, head of the public school lunchrooms, and Mrs. Thomas H. Ludlow, chairman of the joint civic committee on tubercular control, who dined with the patients, pronounced the food tasty and satisfying. Washam had pot roast; Mrs. Ludlow took the halibut.

Questions Many Patients

Washam was sent to the institution 60 days ago to correct its handling of food after hundreds of patients and employes complained that the food was not fit to eat and THE TRIBUNE had published a series of stories telling of conditions in the hospital. He went there yesterday, unannounced, shortly before noon in order to satisfy himself on how the food is prepared there at present. He took a reporter and Mrs. Ludlow with him and toured the kitchens, the dining room, the cottages, and the infirmary.

He questioned many patients, heard some further complaints but much commendation for the improvement in the quality, preparation, and service of the food. Mrs. Ludlow, chairman of the public health committee of the Woman's City club and head of a joint committee representing a dozen or more civic organizations, also asked many questions.

Complaints Are Minor

"It appears that the complaints at present are minor ones, having to do with special diets and dishes which some patients believe are served too often," Washam said. Mrs. Ludlow said she agreed with Washam and added that there has been much improvement. President McCahey of the board of education loaned Washam to the institution to make recommendations on its food problem.

Washam said the greatest trouble is keeping kitchen help, because of the low wages being paid. "Kitchen maids, bus men, waitresses, dish washers, and other ordinary kitchen help are paid only 50 cents an hour—$96.50 a month when they live in the institution, $116.50 if they live outside—for 48 hours a week. Because of this there is trouble in keeping them, and those who continue to work are constantly getting behind on their days off because we lack workers to take their places."

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN NAMES GROUP TO DEVELOP POLICY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, tonight appointed a "committee on development of national policy."

It is to seek "constructive criticisms and suggestions for the further development of the declaration of aims and purposes adopted by Republican members of congress on Dec. 5." It is composed of national committeemen or women from the seven states which Brownell said have "the largest aggregate number of closely-contested congressional seats."

The members are Mrs. Jessie Williamson of California, Mrs. Ralph D. Keeney of Connecticut, Werner W. Schroeder of Illinois, Barak T. Mattingly of Missouri, Mrs. Charles W. Weis Jr., of New York, Rep. Brown of Ohio and G. Mason Owlett of Pennsylvania.

Bail Denied

Julius Weisberg in Criminal courtroom yesterday.

It is expected the state will ask the death penalty fur Julius [Dollie] Weisberg, 49, gambler, when Weisberg is brought to trial Jan. 14 for the murder of Joseph McKnight, Evanston automobile salesman, Assistant State's Atty. Edmund Grant informed Judge Leonard C. Reid in Criminal court yesterday.

Grant said the prosecution objected to the plea of Atty. Harold Levy that Weisberg, now being held in the county jail without bail, be released on bond. Levy said he was prepared to post a $50,000 bond for the gambler who is accused of shooting McKnight in a loop tavern last Oct. 23. Judge Reid denied bail.

Grant said the prosecution expected to have a witness who would "put the gun in Weisberg's hand." Levy said he did not think the state would be able to present any case against Weisberg and that if such a witness did testify, Weisberg would plead self-defense. Judge Reid denied bail and Weisberg was ordered taken back to the county jail.

WRIT PLEA HELD UP AS CIO VOWS TO CURB PICKETS

Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Superior court yesterday continued a petition by the electromotive division of the General Motors corporation for an injunction against the United Automotive, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement union, local No. 719 [CIO], until Dec. 22.

The continuance was granted after Atty. Ben Myers, representing the union, assured the court that strike pickets would refrain from violence and obstruction of entrances at the plant, located in La Grange.

The company attorney, Thomas S. Strachan, had asked for an injunction against violence, threats, barricades, injuries, obstructions, or "advice" by pickets to employes.

C. R. Osborn, general manager of the plant, said last night he has notified the company's 2,000 salaried employes to report for work Monday morning on the strength of the union's promise not to prevent their entry into the building.

A final clemency appeal for the former Geetingsville, Ind., farmer was made to Gen. Eisenhower in October, when the chief of staff was still commander in chief in the United States occupation zone.

OUTLINE NEW U. OF ILLINOIS AIR PROGRAM

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 14 [Special]—An extensive program for education in aeronautics, centering at the institution's big new airport, was announced today by the University of Illinois.

Courses will be offered in three phases: Flight training for students, faculty members, and others; aviation technician training of a sort between the level of the ordinary trade or vocational schools and that of the university's professional engineering curriculum, and courses in airplane mechanics for students intending to become teachers in industrial high schools.

These courses will supplement aeronautical engineering teaching in the university's college of engineering, and courses related to aeronautics in the colleges of commerce and business administration, and medicine.

Well Rounded Program

The board of trustees in announcing the program said: "Instruction in ground school courses, flying, and aviation mechanics is essential to a well rounded program of education, which will make full and economical use of the airport facilities the university will possess in the near future."

Flight training will be limited, in the following order, to: Full time students, full time staff, part time staff, and the public. Training stages under consideration are: Solo preparation, nine hours; elementary maneuvers, nine hours; advanced maneuvers, nine hours; navigation and cross-country, seven hours; flight test preparation, six hours, and flight test, one hour.

Limit Students

Enrollment in the school for training aviation technicians will be limited to 100 or 200 students, the number depending on facilities available. Candidates selected must have high school educations, and will receive certificates of completion upon graduation.

Dr. Baldwin M. Woods, professor of mechanical engineering at the University of California who has served the University of Illinois since Jan. 1, 1944, as consultant on aeronautics and chairman of the advisory board on aeronautics, has been reappointed by the trustees to those posts for the next year.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Dec. 15—Hartford Convention

THE Federal party convention, which opened in Hartford, Conn., Dec. 15, 1814, gave the country one of the worst of its early scares. Rumors were rife that the convention was treasonable in intent, that it looked toward a dismemberment of the Union, and that it might even try to ally some of the New England states with Britain. [The war of 1812 still was going on.]

There was this much basis for the rumors: Certain influential elements in the northeastern part of the country unquestionably had opposed the war. There had been much quibbling over the right of the national government to call out the militia. Response to the federal government's pleas for loans to finance the war was unenthusiastic. New England traders had suffered heavily from the embargo and the non-intercourse act, which crippled foreign commerce. It was strongly suspected that some of these traders were carrying on a clandestine commerce with the British armies in Canada and with the British fleet off the eastern coast.

When, therefore, delegates of Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island [with unofficial delegates from New Hampshire and Vermont] assembled in Hartford, their actions were regarded with a suspicion which was not decreased by the convention's decision to keep its proceedings secret.

What followed, however, was an anti-climax. The report issued after a three weeks' session was in effect a plan to obtain redress of grievances by orderly means. A committee appointed by the convention waited on the national government in Washington, but quietly slipped out of town when the news of the peace treaty with Britain arrived.

Many years later, when the journal of the convention was published it was found to contain nothing treasonable. However, the bad taste left by the Hartford meeting lingered. One historian wrote that no man connected with it ever entirely recovered his political standing.

WARNS TRUMAN U.S. IS FACING A BUTTER FAMINE

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—The New York merchantile exchange, which says it is the "largest actual handler of butter and eggs in the country," today warned President Truman that the nation was "heading for a butter famine early in January."

C. E. Rader, business manager of the exchange, said a telegraphed warning was sent to Truman and to Agriculture Secretary Anderson.

Rader said the butter shortage resulted from the fact that dealers manufacturing ice cream, candy, and other products were unrestricted in the prices they could pay farmers for butter fat and cream whereas creameries were restricted by price ceilings.

20 Million Pounds Held Up

Washington, D. C. Dec 14 (AP)—The agriculture department said today it is withholding from the civilian market 20 million pounds of government butter until needs of the military services are determined. This butter is a part of more than 80 million pounds which the army turned over several weeks ago for sale to civilian distributors.

TAKE JANICE, 2, BLUE BABY, EAST FOR TEST TODAY

Janice Marie Hayden, Michigan City [Ind.] "blue" baby, will leave this afternoon for Johns Hopkins University hospital in Baltimore, Md., where she will be examined next Tuesday by Dr. Helen Taussig to determine whether her ailment can be corrected by surgery.

Janice Marie, who will be 3 next February, will be brought to Chicago today by ambulance and will leave the Union station at 3:10 p. m. on the Pennsylvania railroad's Liberty Limited. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hayden, and Lt. Thelma Fisch of Michigan City, an army nurse home on leave, will accompany her.

Residents of Michigan City and other persons contributed more than $2,500 to send the child to the Baltimore hospital to determine whether her ailment, a deformity of the heart, can be cured by a newly discovered operation.

Price of Green Beans Rises 5 Cents a Pound

A five cent a pound increase in the price of green beans and wax snap beans became effective at midnight last night. James F. Riley, director of the Chicago office of price administration, said it was granted retailers because of an increase allowed growers by the department of agriculture. The ceiling price now is 26 cents a pound.

SIX MARINE PLANES CRASH IN STORM IN CHINA; SEVEN KILLED

PEIPING, China, Dec. 14 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey announced today that seven marine flyers were listed as dead, three were missing and two were injured and still in the interior as the result of crashes of six marine Helldiver planes during a snowstorm Dec. 8.

Aerial searchers have sighted five of the wrecked planes in communist-held territory 80 miles northwest of Tsingtao on the Shantung peninsula and are still hunting the other. Rockey said negotiations were in progress for returning the injured survivors to Tsingtao.

Horseback riding in the outskirts of Tientsin, a favorite recreation of United States marines, has been forbidden in an effort to forestall further incidents such as the recent shooting of an unarmed marine by Chinese civilians in that area.

WOMAN CAPTIVE OF JAPS 3 YEARS STOPS IN CITY

Mrs. E. M. Sando, an Englishwoman who was interned in a Japanese prison camp for more than three years, stopped in Chicago yesterday en route to New York, where she will attempt to get a refund on her Pan American Airways ticket she bought to flee from Hongkong in 1942. If she obtains the refund, she will apply it on a new ticket to take her home to London.

The former secretary for three mining firms in Hongkong was interned in January, 1942, when the Japanese took that city. A week before she was captured, her firm had purchased a Pan American Airways ticket to Manila for her use but she was prevented from leaving the area when the air field outside Hongkong was bombed.

Mrs. Sando was hospitalized for several months after being released by the British navy from the Stanley civilian internment camp near Hong Kong last September.

FOUND GUILTY IN RAPE CASE; 14 YEAR SENTENCE

Verdict Outrage, Says Prosecutor

A criminal court jury before Chief Justice Ward last night returned a verdict of guilty on a rape charge against George Parker, 17, Negro, 4537 Vincennes av., and sentenced him to 14 years in prison.

Assistant State's Atty. Edward F. Healy, who had asked for a sentence of 199 years, termed the verdict "an outrage and miscarriage of justice." He concurred in a motion for a new trial made by Parker's attorney, John Branion, and which will be heard Monday.

Parker was convicted of raping and robbing a south side woman on Sept. 7. He confessed, police said, that he had raped five other women since his escape from the Dixon State hospital on June 25.

Part of Confession Read

Part of a confession by Ernest H. Pugh Jr., 18, a sailor at Great Lakes Naval Training station, that he beat a student nurse, 20, stripped off her clothing, and then raped her on the grounds of the Holy Child convent in Waukegan last Aug. 10, was read yesterday to the jury of seven men and five women in the Lake county Circuit court of Judge Ralph J. Dady where Pugh is on trial.

Pugh was arrested Oct. 22 after he attempted to rape an Oak Park widow. Police told how Pugh was linked to the Waukegan case after it was learned he lived near the scene of the crime. Capt. Thomas P. Kearin of the Oak Park police testified that when he accused Pugh of committing the Waukegan crime, the sailor answered, "Yes, I might just as well tell you about it."

Admits Confession True

Pugh's formal confession was made to State's Atty. Harry A. Hall of Lake county. The court ordered part of the statement excluded after Pugh testified outside the presence of the jury that police had not mistreated him, but that the officers and Hall indicated they were making promises to him. Questioned by Hall's special assistant, Sidney Block, Pugh admitted the confession was true.

MAJ. GEN. WEART FLYING TO HIS CHICAGO HOME

Army spokesmen said yesterday that Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Weart of Chicago, head of the Shanghai base command, is flying home aboard an army plane. On leave from his command, Gen. Weart is due to reach San Francisco, Cal., Monday.

Gen. Weart, a classmate of Gen. Eisenhower at West Point, served as deputy chief of staff for Maj. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China, until last June, when Weart was promoted to major general.

GEN. MARSHALL DUE TO LEAVE FOR CHINA TODAY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—Gen. Marshall will leave by plane tomorrow morning, weather permitting, for his special diplomatic assignment in China.

The new ambassador to Chungking called at the White House today, and Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said he spent 15 minutes with President Truman in a farewell consultation.

Ross said Marshall will take with him a directive outlining American policy toward China and that President Truman will issue a public statement on which the directive is based. Ross said this statement will involve from 1,000 to 1,500 words and will be released Sunday for publication.

In Chungking Chinese press reports said Marshall and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek might hold their first meeting in Shanghai.

GROUP IN HOUSE O.K.'S PLAN FOR WORLD-WIDE U. S. NEWS SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The house foreign affairs committee today approved legislation authorizing the state department to set up a world-wide organization to disseminate news about the United States.

Subject to approval by congress, the legislation would give permanent status to the temporary state department division handling many of the programs formerly under the jurisdiction of the office of war information and the office of inter-American affairs.

It provides for use of newspapers, radio, motion pictures, and other channels of news distribution, for the use of schools, libraries, and community centers abroad, and for the interchange of students and professors, between this country and other nations.

E. C. YELLOWLEY, BOOTLEGGER FOE, WILL BE RETIRED

The treasury department in Washington [D. C.] yesterday confirmed reports that E. C. Yellowley, 71, head of the alcohol tax unit here and head of prohibition enforcement during the dry era, will be retired Dec. 31. Yellowley, who refused to confirm the treasury's announcement, had been with the government service for 46 years last May 15, and has an outstanding record.

His district includes Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana. He took over the job here in 1925.

The treasury explained that its policy is to retire employes who have reached 70 and who have had 15 or more years of creditable service. This rule was waived in the war emergency and man power shortage, but it is being applied in full force now that the war is over.

THE PEARL HARBOR EVIDENCE MILL

The Pearl Harbor committee has begun to get the story in the last few days of the activities of one Henry C. Clausen, now a lieutenant colonel in the judge advocate's office of the army. It is not a pretty story.

Clausen first came to public attention thru the self-serving statement which Secretary Stimson attached to the report of the army board of inquiry before that report was made public earlier this year. In this statement Stimson said that at his direction, Clausen had been making "an extensive further examination of witnesses." The nature of Clausen's extensive further examination is now popping up here and there in the testimony.

It is known that American intelligence officers knew about the east winds rain message, the Japanese war signal, and were waiting to intercept it. There is every reason to believe that it was intercepted several days before Pearl Harbor. The only doubt in the matter lies in the fact that radio monitor logs and other evidence which would prove the matter conclusively have been destroyed, by official order, during the last year.

However, Col. Otis K. Sadtler of the army signal corps testified before the army board of inquiry that he had been notified on the morning of Dec. 5 by Adm. Leigh Noyes, chief of naval communications, that the expected message had been intercepted. Originally Sadtler had testified that he transmitted this report to Lt. Gen. L. T. Gerow, chief of the war plans division, and Col. Bedell Smith, secretary to the general staff. Then Clausen went to work on him. Clausen got from him a revised statement that he hadn't reported to those two officers.

Another officer in the intelligence division told the board of inquiry that on the evening of Dec. 6 he delivered personally the Japanese reply to the American ultimatum of Nov. 26 to Smith and to two other general staff officers. Clausen also got to him. According to Stimson's statement, this officer, as yet unidentified, changed his testimony and in a new version given Clausen, asserted that the only person to whom he gave the text of the Japanese reply was an official of the state department who was on night duty.

Some of the affidavits obtained by Clausen were introduced earlier in the inquiry and contained internal evidence, pointed out by Sen. Ferguson, that far from seeking additional testimony, Clausen had been active in seeking retraction of testimony damaging to the Washington authorities and, to that end, had himself written affidavits which he presented for signature to the witnesses. One obtained from Gen. MacArthur actually misspelled MacArthur's name, an error of which neither the general nor any member of his staff could have been guilty.

Gen. Marshall was asked about Clausen's activities. He disclaimed responsibility for them, asserting that they had been ordered by the civilian command of the war department. Sen. Ferguson asked him, "Do you know of any other case where an investigation was taken away from a board of general officers and given to a major [Clausen's rank at the time]?"

"I don't recall a similar situation," Marshall said.

Gen. Marshall undoubtedly doesn't recall any such situation, but we do. It has nothing to do with army procedure. In the heydey of the gangs in Chicago, there was a lawyer around town named Billy O'Brien. His court appearances were only occasional and unimportant, but his firm was among the most successful in getting gunmen free on the rare occasions when their murders resulted in indictments. Billy was a past master at coaching witnesses, culling out damaging testimony, and, when necessary, in planting an artful bit of perjury to substantiate an alibi. The last we heard of him he had been disbarred for other causes and was tending bar somewhere. He would have been a natural for fixing up the Pearl Harbor record.

It is significant of the panic which the words "Pearl Harbor" caused in the doddering secretary of war and his associates in the New Deal administration that they would descend to operating an evidence mill modeled on the connivery that kept members of the Capone gang from answering for their crimes.

UNO THAT I KNOW

Beatrice Lillie used to sing a song about "You know that I know that I'll go where you go" which seems to have a direct application to the present quandary of where the united nations organization [UNO] is going to establish permanent headquarters. Among 59 suggestions for the seat of the world capital is the intriguing proposal that UNO hold its deliberations on a "ship on the high seas."

This, it is contended, would eliminate favoritism by internationalizing the capital. UNO is certainly at sea. Why not make it official?

There is another school of thought which holds that UNO ought to take to the air and travel around like a gypsy caravan or a street carnival, favoring every country in turn with its fleeting presence. Twenty-four large transports would be used to move the global congress. As the files of the organization grew, it would be necessary to expand this air fleet, thus stimulating the aviation industry.

The issue seems to reduce itself to whether UNO is more at sea than it is up in the air. There is one other possibility which has been overlooked. The delegates might take over Dr. C. W. Beebe's bathysphere and hold their sessions on the ocean floor, with only the gentle lapping of the waves and the impassioned protests of the Russian delegate to disturb the serenity year in and year out.

DUDGEONS

Mrs. Fanny P. Dudgeon of Buckram road, Locust Valley, Long Island, Democratic state committeewoman, director of the Girl Scouts, president of the Ladies' Aid society of the Reformed church, secretary of the Red Cross, chairman of the War Fund drive, member of the PTA, and a brighter light on the Honor Roll committee, has been sentenced to four months in jail after a jury trial for making book in her home.

Mrs. Dudgeon termed herself the victim of political persecution. If she was taking bets on the horses, it was just a Republican plot. Reviewing the results of the recent New York municipal election, in which Gov. Tom Dewey took a hand, it is encouraging to note that the party is making progress. Tom at least can swing a jury.

HOT AIR BUILDS NO HOUSES

President Truman has announced a relief program for the housing crisis. He ordered the reinstatement of building material priorities with half of the supply reserved for houses costing $10,000 or less, proposed that congress pass a law fixing price ceilings on new and old houses, and created a new office called the "expediter of housing."

These steps will prove about as helpful in relieving the shortage of places to live as Mr. Truman's speech on labor and prices was in preventing strikes. Requiring that 50 per cent of the building materials be allocated to less expensive homes won't help at all, in spite of the representation made at Washington that builders of high priced houses were hogging the supply of materials. Between Oct. 15, when priorities were removed, and the end of November, permits were issued in Chicago for 565 houses. Of these, 543 were estimated to cost less than $10,000 and 22 more than $10,000. The dollar volume of houses under $10,000 was $3,369,700, while that for houses above that figure was $342,500.

Mr. Truman's policy of promoting wage increases while prohibiting advances in prices to cover the higher costs has cut off the supply of building materials. There are not enough door frames in stock in Chicago to build one four-room house, it is said, and virtually no glass or brick. Fifty per cent of the supply of materials the President is setting aside for low cost homes is 50 per cent of zero, which equals zero. Until it is profitable to make materials that can be sold thru normal channels at fair prices, there won't be any.

The ceiling on the cost of new homes will only act to discourage building even after the materials again become available. The ceiling on old homes, if enforceable, would simply discourage people from selling their homes who would otherwise do so. The appointment of Wilson Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville, as "expediter" will only add another officer who can make speeches and issue statements about the rosy future for the construction industry.

It has been so long since there has been any active residential building in the United States that many people seem to have forgotten the conditions that produce activity. For 10 years before the war very few new homes were built in the United States. That was because construction costs were too high compared with the level of rents. It was not possible to put up an apartment building here and get a decent return on the money.

The figures of the United States department of labor show that the rent paid by the average workingman in June, 1941, was 10 per cent lower than in June, 1932. The cost of building in 1941 was nearly 70 per cent higher than in 1932, when rents were too low for profitable building.

Rents have been frozen during the war at the 1942 level, which is approximately the same as the 1941 level and nearly 10-per cent lower than in 1932. Meanwhile, the costs of construction have advanced further and now are more than twice as high as in 1932.

You don't have to be a landlord or a lover of landlords to understand that rents are far too low for safety. This country badly needs a tremendous amount of new shelter, but it cannot be provided so long as the government fixes prices which make production of materials unprofitable and fixes rents at levels which make construction unprofitable.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

If extending the season's greetings in advance of the event seems to be an exaggerated form of seizing time by the forelock, there's a reason. By Jan. 1, 1946, things may not be as happy as now, which is not saying much. The CIO electrical workers have authorized a nation-wide strike. The auto workers are on strike. The steel workers, packing house workers, mail order house workers, and railway workers, among many others, have voted to strike or are talking strike. The prospect is that practically every basic industry in the country may be tied up. If anybody wants to make a reservation to whoop in this kind of New Year, it's his privilege, but he had better make sure that the stock of aspirin is adequate.

MR. PEPYS ON YULE BOWLS

15th Dec.—Have received an invitation from my junior club to meet my friends around the wassail bowl on Christmas eve from 5 to 7 o'clock, and am wondering if the committee knows what such festive crocks contained in the Yuletides of merry England from the reigns of Elizabeth to Charles II. Have been informed by a literary man who is also a fancy bibber that two years ago he brewed a large kettle of wassail-wash from a black-letter recipe, mixing ale, sherry, lemon juice, sugar, and spices, and serving it hot. After one sip he poured the entire supply down a rathole in his cellar. Furthermore, he testifies that since then the rats have abandoned their tunnel.

According to the old books, a wassail bowl should be garnished with roasted apples, whose leakage gives the concoction a fluffy appearance; wherefore the beverage was called "lamb's wool." After quaffing plentifully, the topers' wits went woolgathering. Have never seen a proper dish of lamb's wool, and the Yule bowls of my acquaintance have been either punches of white wine flavored with shredded pineapple, or risky blends of ardent spirits.

Only 10 more days, etc. Now for a quick-opening play between tackle and guard of that Christmas shopping line.

YO-HO-HO AND A BOTTLE

O ye, who praise winter with brisk spontaneity,
Saying it's what you desire,
You'll pardon if I,
With an eloquent sigh,
Respond with a cheer of the Bronx variety,
Huddling still nearer the fire.

If you think of the days when wild blizzards howl
As the season of manly exploits,
And find skiing and skating
Ex-hil-i-ar-a-ting,
I beg to demur, and will probably growl,
From the depths of my heating pad, "Noits!"

For I, I confess, want the hot weather back;
I'm a thoro-gone hot weather male,
And a 95 degree F.,
Why, it gives me to leff,
While my chattering teeth going clickety-clack
Give me only to weep and to wail.

So give me a heat wave fresh out of the tropics,
And I will contrive to ignore you!
I hear that the Florida
Climate is torrida,
So stick to your ear muffs and subzero topics,
And I'll have a sun tan before you!

Mutiny in Nostalgia Alley

I hold with Marjorie F. W. an' her horse-sense way of lookin' at the "good ol' days" [Dec. 4]. Nobody wants 'em back, an' all this yarnin' about 'em with a trembly voice is so much hogwash. I'll take vanilla.

Look at my folks, f'instance. Grandpaw, mustered out in Colorado, traded off for a shotgun a quarter section that's now part of Denver. Then he homesteaded up in Nebraska, where for seven years he fought Injuns, prairie fires, an' grasshoppers. He finally gave up 640 acres of the finest wheat land in the state an' came back, by wagon, to Illinois—broke. He shoulda stuck with his pard, Buffalo Bill Cody.

They had 10 kids. Only three of 'em amounted to a row of pins, an' they didn't set the world on fire. What with no money, an' a "little red schoolhouse" education, the rest of 'em petered out. Poor grandmaw—wore out with child bearin', child raisin', washin' big batches of clothes outdoors, bakin', patchin', totin' wood, tendin' garden, makin' soap, clothes, quilts, carpets, an' mighty nigh everything they had—finally left grandpaw with his everlastin' jug an' lit out to live with Aunt Mathilda in Colorado. She didn't live long.

Yeah, them were the good ol' days.

AVENUE OF ELMS

(Northwestern university.)

The elms have grown. . . . Short years have passed since I Walked carelessly among them. Branches high
Reach out their cold, bare fingers to the sky.
I walk with lagging steps, remembering
The lacy loveliness of early spring,
The day we went away. Remembering
A lad with laughter in his eyes. For him
Who walked beside me, helmeted and grim,
A proud young tree, a tall tree, straight and slim.
A sturdy tree to brave the storm of years,
A gentle tree in spring. A tree that hears
The silent shedding of its leafy tears.

G. M. writes: "I was drafted June 6, 1941. On Sept. 21, 1942, I was transferred to the enlisted reserve corps to work in copper mines. We were told we were needed in the mines more than in the army because of a shortage of copper. We also were told we would not have to go back to the army if we did our work. On July 11, 1945, I was called back to the army when men over 30 were being taken. I get longevity pay, and according to that my time in the mines counted for service. Figuring on this basis, I had 4½ years of honorable service Dec. 6, 1945. Should I have credit for the time spent in the mines toward a length of service discharge?"

No. Only time in active service may be counted for discharge points, despite the fact you receive longevity pay based on your original date of induction. From the date of induction to the date you were placed in ERC to work in a civilian occupation you accumulated one year, three months, and 15 days of active service. Since recall last July you accumulated four months and 25 days to Dec. 6. This gave you a total active service time of one year, eight months, and 10 days. If you do not have any children your point score to Sept. 2 was 17 and to Dec. 6 only 20. Twelve points are counted for each child to a maximum of three. If the reported plan to discharge all two-year men after March is carried out, you will be eligible by that time.

DOES YOUR HEART GO BUMPETY BUMP?

SOME individuals are extremely sensitive to normal actions of the body. They may be conscious of each heart beat and even the passage of food along the intestinal tract. Should the pumping apparatus skip a stroke, the person prepares for the worst and seeks medical advice. Hope is restored after the real significance is explained.

Now and then a peculiar throb is noted which makes the heart feel as tho it is doing a flipflop. This is known as "extrasystole." The condition is observed so frequently that it may well be considered universal. A contraction occurs earlier than it should and disrupts the regular rhythm. This is followed by a pause at which time the organ rests until the next stroke is scheduled to arrive. The affair may be likened to a railroad station in which a train is due every five minutes. Should one come ahead of time, a longer period will elapse before the next appears.

In the majority the episode passes without any symptoms and the victim is not aware that the irregularity occurred. Those who are nervous or high-strung are likely to complain of slight giddiness, weakness, or a strange sensation in the chest. To others it seems as tho the organ is twisting or turning over. Since the phenomenon is manifested more often when the rate is slow, the patient is more likely to detect it after resting in bed at night.

The condition is not dependent on disease for its origin. What is more, it is often seen in those having a normal heart. This is purely an eccentricity of the pumping machinery, for each muscle has the ability to start a pulsation whenever it desires. This is more apt to happen when it is irritable or impatient. Apparently the muscle fiber feels that it has waited long enough for the regular impulse to initiate the beat and, therefore, decides now is the time to act. Of course, no damage results from this misdemeanor, but the contraction is seldom worth the effort because the heart is only partly filled with blood Subsequently the real pacemaker adjusts itself and the heart continues as it should.

Occasionally chemical or nervous stimuli may cause the "pump" to behave in this way. Too much tea, coffee, or tobacco and drugs, such as digitalis or ephedrine, are often responsible. In addition, it is observed in gastric upsets, especially when the stomach is distended with gas, or following an alcoholic debauch. The symptoms also may appear during an emotional upheaval, or in the course of a severe illness.

The outlook is usually good. Many do well in spite of the abnormality and live to a ripe old age. Treatment consists of removing the exciting factors. If smoking and other stimulants are indulged in, their intake should be minimized. Adequate doses of quinidine, potassium, or bromides may be helpful in allaying distress. In some cases an electrocardiogram will be necessary to ascertain the true nature of the irregularity. This will reassure the patient that it is not a dangerous sign.

HUMAN BANK

P. J. G. writes: Some years ago I had a habit of carrying coins in my mouth. On different occasions I swallowed quarters, dimes, nickels, and pennies. Could these objects still be in my stomach, causing a feeling of fullness and lack of appetite?

REPLY

An X-ray film can pick up a coin faster than the income tax department. The chances are that you have passed this money. Consequently, look elsewhere for the cause of your symptoms.

CRAVES CHARCOAL

Mrs. D. M. writes: My small daughter eats the tips of burned matches. What can I do?

REPLY

This is an example of perverted appetite. The majority of youngsters outgrow the habit, but should it continue, disciplinary measures may be necessary. In the meantime, dispose of the used matches around the house and try serving her burnt toast instead.

BURNING CHEST

Mrs. M. D. writes: For the last few months I wake up at night with a burning feeling in the chest. It doesn't hurt any—in fact, it feels fine. Can this be my blood circulating?

REPLY

I doubt it. Otherwise we would all observe the symptom.

Patton Before the Crash

It happened several weeks ago at Bad Nauheim, headquarters of the 15th army and its commander, Gen. Patton. One afternoon [according to a Chicagoan on the general's staff] Patton strode into a hotel there. Enlisted men lounging in the lobby jumped to their feet with the exception of one, still in uniform but recently discharged to take a civilian job. Patton gave him a cold glare and roared: "Since when do enlisted men not stand at attention for an officer?" "But I'm a civilian, sir," the offender replied. Patton didn't blink. Back he snapped: "And won't you stand for an old man?"

Neat Package

Nannette Sargent, a radio actress, stood in front of W-G-N one windy, icy day this week and waved frantically to flag down one of the cabs speeding past her. She had 10 minutes to get to the Merchandise Mart for another broadcast. One minute passed, two, three, four, five, and she saw a delivery truck stop for the red light. The driver didn't have a chance. She was in beside him, registered as a perishable package [weight: 100 pounds], and being whisked on her way.

Busman's Holiday

A north shore family, equipped with three small children, has sought fruitlessly to employ a maid. This has gone on for some months. Finally, giving up all hope, they decided to rent the third floor bedroom and bath to the postman, a genial bachelor of 60. The postman was very happy there, played with the children, sat with them at night if the parents went out, and continued to eat his meals, as he had done for years, at the drug store or the railroad station. One night recently, when a cold rain was falling outside, the lady of the house said to her husband: "This is silly, for us to be here with all this food, and the postman going out in this mess to eat." With that she invited him to join them for dinner. He accepted with eager alacrity. Nothing, he said, would make him happier, but was it all right if he went outdoors for a minute first? He wanted to mail a letter.

A Slip from Grace

From Charles F. McElroy, Springfield lawyer who once was in the typesetting business in Chicago, comes word of what he considers the prize typographical error of history [clean, too]. One summer, while the rector of an Episcopal church here was on vacation and services were being conducted by a young vicar just out of theological seminary, Mr. McElroy's firm was given the editorial matter for the church's monthly paper. In the copy turned over to the printer was an editorial by the vicar on "Ceremonialism," written in scrawling longhand. The printer duly delivered the publications to the church, and had barely returned to the shop when in raced the young vicar, tremulously waving one of the papers. Choking with rage he pointed to a line on one page and cried: "Look at that!"

The printer looked, saw nothing amiss, and shook his head. "What's the matter?" he asked. "Matter!" roared the vicar. "Just see what you've done. I wrote: 'On the day we grace God's sanctuary, and you've printed it: 'Mr. Grace, God's secretary.' "

"O," pooh-poohed the printer. "Just a typographical error."

"No, it's not a typographical error!" the vicar cried. "Somebody did it on purpose. It's a sacrilege. God hasn't any secretary."

Money Home

A boy in the navy who has just become a millionaire sent his Chicago family $4,500 the other day. The overjoyed parents rushed to the bank with it. They found its value to be $1.70. It, as all his new wealth earned at his current station in Tientsin, is in Chinese currency.

WAITING FOR INDIA TO BLOW UP

INDIA, Nov. 25—We here in this part of the Moslem world feel that we are sitting on top of a powder keg, and we want to be heard.

Are you aware of the situation which has existed in Calcutta, particularly, and India in general since Nov. 21? To date the damage done to American vehicles, property, and life has not been officially announced, for the Calcutta area with the exception of one ambulance driver, whose charred remains were identified, but his name not made public until next of kin could be notified. I shan't go into the details of the rioting and the measures taken by the Calcutta police, the government of Bengal, the British military. The American military police and any American troops who resort to any active, armed resistance here in India will be doing so for the protection, primarily, of our necks.

It is the considered opinion of a number of the British military that the situation which the congress party apparently is backing will come to a definite focus in late winter, which is February here. It seems inevitable that any American troops who are here at that time will have to resort to the use of weapons to protect themselves and their immediate property.

We have been informed recently that up to 30,000 men may have to remain in the India-Burma theater [approximately one-sixth of the war time peak] to take care of surplus properties. Knowing the lack of work at hand, we question the intention of our immediate theater headquarters and those in Washington. Is it practical to keep troops here to dispose of American surplus property for an indefinite amount of time and then realize a very slight amount of money on the sale thereof? Do they intend keeping men here with upwards of three years' service, but not sufficient points to enable them to be returned to the states? Does the state department plan on having more Indian students sent to the United States on American transports that should be taking American troops home?

We want to leave India. We don't want to get entangled in any British and Indian problem. We can see no apparent sense to the manner in which the surplus property is being handled. Why then can't a definite program be adopted which will get every last American out of India no later than the end of February? It could be done, and without any great strain on transportation.

HE'S A BETTER RISK

Chicago, Dec. 8—Did England do more for the United States than the GI? Our government will guarantee half of a loan of 4,000, by a private interest, to a GI if he has enough collateral to cover the whole of the loan, and leaves his right eye besides.

England can borrow $4,400,000,000 with no security and with a record of never having paid before. I was one of our 10 million service men. I would like to borrow 1/10,000,000 of the amount that is loaned to England for 50 years at 2 per cent. My security, and reputation, are a lot better. N. C. L'ARGENT

UNION HOUSING OBSTRUCTIONS

Chicago, Dec. 11—Because of two wars and an unprecedented building boom within the last 25 years, our forests should not be called on to furnish lumber for another immediate building expansion. If they are, the price of lumber for studding, roofing, flooring, and trim even on a brick house will be so high as to put it beyond the means of a $40 a week home seeker, either as purchaser or renter. The demand then arises to change the building code to permit the erection of prefabricated houses of materials known as inexhaustible — steel panels, insulated, for sides and roof; rubber or composition tile for floors; metal sinks, bath tubs, etc.

This sounds all right but, as Mr. Lincoln said of prohibition, "It won't work," because the production and fabrication of the materials mentioned is controled by the CIO and the erection is by mechanics of the AFL. It may be the CIO could build up an organization of excavators, concrete men, steamfitters, electricians, all but plumbers, who in Illinois and a number of other states are licensed and only a licensed plumber allowed to tap a sewer or install plumbing. But would an AFL plumber work on a CIO manufactured and erected house? Or, if the CIO had plumbers, could they get a state license? If the first won't and the latter cannot, what chance is there to relieve the housing shortage?

Lt. Comdr. Limberg Home; Expects His Discharge Soon

BY JUDITH CASS

THE most desirable Christmas present in many households is a navy or army discharge for the man or men of the family, and Uncle Sam is going to give one to Lt. Comdr. Edward A. Limberg Jr., who arrived in Chicago last night from service overseas. He and Mrs. Limberg and their little girl will stay here for Christmas and then go to St. Louis to be with his mother, Mrs. Limberg, for New Year's.

Whether their post-war home will be in St. Louis, where they have a house, or in Chicago, where they would be among the house hunters, is uncertain, but the Limbergs have a temporary refuge here in the apartment of her mother, Mrs. I. Newton Perry, where Mrs. Limberg and the baby have been living during the war. Mrs. Perry and Miss Cornelia Conger are in Mexico and will spend Christmas in Mexico City. They plan to visit Guatemala before returning to Chicago early in the spring. Miss Conger's apartment is rented to Mrs. Bernard F. Rogers.

One of Mrs. Limberg's brothers, Brewster Perry, and his fiancee, Miss Suzanne Morris, will leave tomorrow for Palm Beach, Fla., to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Chester H. Morris. The other brother, Mr. Perry Jr., is too occupied with the opening of a piano studio, in which Miss Dudley Winston is associated with him, to pay much heed to the Christmas season. Mr. Perry, who had his own orchestra before entering the service, will teach modern music, and Miss Winston will use the studio principally for furthering her own career as a concert pianist.

Travelers Aid Benefit

Members of the woman's board of the Travelers Aid society, who spend most of the year as active volunteers in its constantly increasing work among travelers and returned veterans, have achieved a reputation for giving parties that are fun as well as profitable, and tonight's benefit "Paris Rendezvous" dinner-dance in the Drake hotel promises to be no exception. The 700 tickets at first available to the event, plus 100 more, were sold within a few days after invitations to the party were issued. Most of the merrymakers will start the evening at pre-benefit cocktail parties.

The party will have a Parisian setting, and some time during the evening a committee of "ambassadors," Byror Harvey Jr., Daniel Catton Rich, and John Dern, will select the most distinguee woman present and award her the honorary title of Marquise d'Orleans.

Among those entertaining before and at the benefit are Mr. and Mrs. Willard Jaques, the William Popes, the Edward Benninghovens, and the John Shaws, whose guests will gather in the Racquet club; Lt. Lyman Smith, just back from navy duty in the Pacific and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. D. Wendell Fentress, the John Churches, and the junior Lester B. Knights, whose guests at the Saddle and Cycle club will include the George Harveys, back on a visit from Pelham Manor, N. Y., and most of the members of the woman's board, which is headed by Mrs. William Friedeman.

Here and There

The housing shortage proved so acute for the Paul C. Harpers, who are in the process of moving back from New York, that they actually commuted between that city and Chicago until they found temporary quarters here in the Ambassador hotel, where they and their daughter, Lindsay, and son, Capt. Paul C. Harper Jr., will stay during the holidays until their apartment at 1320 N. State st. is ready after the first of the year. Capt. Harper recently returned from Guam and with his sister will attend many of the debutante parties this season.

Lt. F. Michael Carroll of the navy, who served with the office of strategic services in both the Pacific and European war theaters, has been here for a visit en route from Washington, D. C., to Hollywood, Cal., where he will serve as technical advisor and director for a motion picture on that branch of service. During his absence his wife, the former Nancy O'Neill, will remain in Chicago temporarily with her mother, Mrs. William J. O'Neill of Lincoln Park West. Lt. Carroll was decorated with the bronze star for his work in France.

In Florida, where she and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr., have gone to spend the holidays, Mrs. Otto Mersman has learned of the birth Dec. 7 of a great-grandson, Henry William Borntraeger Jr. The baby was born in California, where Mr. Borntraeger and the former Marguerite Mersman live. Mr. and Mrs. Scudder Mersman of San Francisco, Cal., and Mrs. Ernest Hillman of Fox Chapel, Pa., and Carl Borntraeger of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Los Angeles, Cal., are the child's grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Clayton [Antoinette de Bellisen-Durban] became the parents of a second daughter, Pamela Jane, Dec. 1 in St. Joseph's hospital, Chicago. The baby is a grandchild of the J. Paul Claytons of Winnetka and of Count and Countess Bernard de Bellisen-Durban of Paris.

Thru the Looking Glass

Here's another inexpensive suggestion for those of you who are getting the screaming meemies because your shopping is far from finished and your purse is far from fat:

This is a bottle of bubble bath powder. "Bottle" is a sorry word,

Bubble bath powder in a handsome decanter.

actually, for this is a really handsome decanter that looks for all the world like the sparkling cut glass that used to gleam on your grandmother's sideboard. It's a fat decanter, beautifully designed, with an imposing stopper, also of glass that looks like the real elaborately cut stuff, but of course isn't because the bubble powder sells for $1.50.

The powder comes in two fragrances. One is best described as being just gardenish, a lovely floral mixture with no one note particularly identifiable. The other is a woodsey kind of scent, equally pretty but entirely different in that it's a shade less sweet. Both, tho, have a languor about them that makes them ideal fragrances to scent a nice, lazy tub.

The stuff bubbles wonderfully when just a small amount is tossed in before the water is turned on full force. It makes a perfect blanket of sparkling scented bubbles —and we needn't tell you that bubble baths are something American women and all children are simply mad about!

As a Useful Gift, Why Not a Petticoat?

BY REA SEEGER

Gift items that combine glamor with utility are top favorites with all. Take the petticoat, for example—what you can find this year is exciting. These petticoats are real, neat, short, and fitted as smoothly as any dress skirt. A few have an elastic around the waist, but most of them are neatly banded with the same material as the petticoat itself. They flare enough around the lower hem to assure freedom for walking and action. Seaming and details are perfection itself.

White, flesh, peach, and some blues and blacks are shown in heavy duty rayon, the fabric that slides under a top dress and does not wrinkle. Tailored affairs have a sleek streamline, with sometimes a triple row of thin tucks around the hem. More exciting petticoats, definitely on the glamor side, are the hand painted beauties with amusing designs, painted on the left side. One has a gay pattern of red lips entwined with blue ribbon rosettes, another has flowers, and a third has small figures. Even the black model is decorated with vividly colored flowers. These petticoats are a find as the price mark is amazingly low considering all the painted allure.

Rayon jersey makes some very good looking petticoats as well as some of the smartest tailored nightgowns of this season's showings. The very simple nightgowns, accented with insertion of fine net, are ideal gifts, as soft pink and white are both available in this model. Others shirred and gathered in a Grecian silhouette come in pastels, white, and a few coral pinks and yellows. All the jersey stuff is particularly popular because it needs little if any pressing or ironing after laundering. Petticoats, slips, peignoirs, and nightgowns of jersey are still plentiful.

White Collar GIRL

A Good Job with Reservations

Any one having the responsibility of finding a hotel room for an out of town friend for the Furniture Mart in January can appreciate the herculean task of pretty Dorothy Baliman. Dorothy has a good job—with reservations. Employed at the Hawthorne works of Western Electric, she finds lodging for an average of five persons every day.

Usually they are Western Electric or A. T. & T. employes, and often as not they are on the train en route to Chicago before they remember to send a wire announcing their arrival and need of a room for the night. Sometimes this results in two to three hours of telephoning for Dorothy, whose persuasive telephone voice should get you into the east wing of the White House if necessary.

The reservation department at Hawthorne has made more than 1,650 hotel reservations in the Chicago area in the last year. But sometimes orders are hard to fill—like that, for instance, of the genial family man who telephoned Dorothy asking her to find hotel accommodations for him and his 10 children. Luckily the trip was canceled.

Dorothy herself, finds the assignments not too difficult, tho she admits that she looks forward to a beautiful morning when she can pick up her telephone, ask for 10 rooms with baths "for tonight"—and get them.

Maria Kurenko Sings Brilliant Mozart Motet with Bojanowski and Woman's Symphony

Concert by the Woman's Symphony orchestra, Jerzy Bojanowski, conductor; Maria Kurenko, soprano. Presented in Orchestra hall Friday evening, Dec. 14, 1945. The program:
Overture to "The Magic Flute"....Mozart
Motet, "Exsultate Jubilate".....Mozart
Mme. Kurenko
Symphonic Trilogy, "Eternal Songs"
..... Karlowicz
"The Swan of Tuonela," from the "Kalevala" .....Sibelius
[a] Zabava's Aria from "Dobrinya Nikititch" .....Gretchaninoff
[b] Lullaby from "Sadko".....
..... Rimsky-Korsakoff
[c] Aria from "Manon".....Massenet
Mme. Kurenko
Overture, "The Russian Easter"
..... Rimsky-Korsakoff

When Maria Kurenko sings both Mozart and Russian songs and you can hear but half her concert the choice is not easy, but last night in Orchestra hall I chose Mozart because the Russian soprano, long famous for the brilliance of her way with the "Alleluia" that is the allegro of "Exsultate Jubilate," sang the entire motet with the Woman's Symphony orchestra under the direction of Jerzy Bojanowski. Opportunities like that are too rare to be snubbed, and her performance turned out to be one of the crown jewels of the season.

It is a little late in the day to be remarking that Mme. Kurenko is an artist of high caliber, yet there is always fresh delight in hearing the purity of her voice, the limpidity of her enunciation, the exquisite ease of her vocalization. Except for the recitative introducing the slow movement, the Mozart motet is a lovely concerto with the voice as solo instrument, a florid instrument, of course, for it was written for the castrato singer, Rauzzini, famous in 18th century Milan. It is as superbly written for the voice as "Figaro" or "Don Giovanni," and Mme. Kurenko sang it with a lustrous delicacy possible only to a singer of supreme skill.

Only the best orchestras blessed with clairvoyant conductors play true Mozart, but Mr. Bojanowski preceded Mme. Kurenko with an adequate performance of the Overture to "The Magic Flute" and gave her accompaniment that was clean and clear until it made a sluggish entrance into the airy realm of the "Alleluia." But I cannot believe he did Polish music a like service by playing the overstuffed symphonic poem, "Eternal Songs," a trilogy by Karlowicz which has to do with such titles as "Song of Eternal Longing," "Song of Life and Death" and a presumably cosmic finale, "Song of Eternal Being." The orchestra played it well enough, but it is sound track movie music and last night there was no movie.

Actors, and no doubt musicians, are like the rest of us. They want to be some one else. So George Randol, who has been acting the father in "Anna Lucasta," has gone [or possibly gone back] to singing, and last night he appeared in recital at the Eighth Street theater, with Catherine Boxham Rich an attractive but not quite professional accompanist. Mr. Randol has a baritone of good quality which he has not learned how to use, so he squanders much of its resources in bad singing. But at its best it is resonant and agreeable, and he would do it and his audiences a favor if he realized that a song is like a play, not much use to a listener unless he can understand the words.

Harris' Works Are Played on U. C. Program

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The University of Chicago's first composers concert of the season, in Mandel hall last night, was entirely devoted to the music of Roy Harris, the first time in the series that an American composer has been thus honored.

For a composer who has expended the major part of his time and creative energy upon the production of large orchestral works—he has written five symphonies and numerous other extended works—such a program, with its limited resources cannot, of course, give a complete picture of Mr. Harris' output. What it did supply was a hearing of an important early work, the quintet for piano and strings of 1937, and a glimpse of his present compositional style in three smaller works written during the last year. The latter pieces were performed here for the first time.

Mr. Harris' quintet is an imposing structure that gives the impression of an artist struggling with his medium, rather than working in an assured idiom, as in the later pieces. It can best be labeled as neo-classical—tho it does not immediately recall any other music—for two of its movements are cast in the classic patterns of a passacaglia and a fugue.

Mr. Harris, of course, has treated the ancient forms with a freedom and a disrespect for convention that is far removed from any classroom didactic. At times his processes seem inescapably logical; at other times this listener, at first hearing, became mired in the work's complexity. A striking feature of the piece is the so-called cadenza which forms the second movement, in which all the instruments of the quartet and the piano, singly and together, indulge in what sounds like free improvisation. The work was performed with high competence by the Chicago Symphony quartet, with Johana Harris, the composer's wife, at the piano.

Far from the brashness which one might expect, and in the past has received, from this composer of the plains, the newer music all carries a strong elegiac strain. The "Improvisations on American Folk Materials," played by Mrs. Harris, an admirable pianist, treats its subject matter reflectively, with dark harmonic colorings and little dependence on rhythmical impulse. A wordless "Lamentation" exploited the superb viola playing of Milton Preves and the fresh voiced singing of Anita Braude in a smooth flowing cantilena of deep expressiveness.

Girl, 16, Frets; No One Speaks to Her of Love

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Some gals are easily discouraged. If they don't have an attentive young fellow calling them three times a night and sending them orchids twice a week by the time they're all of 16, they're disillusioned. They figure that the best years of their lives are behind them and promptly settle down to prepare for the quiet life of a spinster, with evenings filled with solitary cups of tea by the fireside.

on the SOLID side

From the time they were in kindergarten these young characters have been thinking in twos and had designs on the curly headed young Romeos who shared their corner of the sandbox. And ever since they were old enough to read magazine stories they've been drawing up a blueprint for their ideal man. The specifications include the best in Van Johnson, the boy at the next bench in chemistry lab, and their favorite uncles. This Prince Charming may not have to ride up on a white charger—two streetcar tokens will suffice—but otherwise the qualifications are pretty stiff.

Here's a letter from a young gal who has reached the ripe old age of 16 without meeting the love of her life, some one with whom to make home-and-hearthside plans, and she's worried:

"To put the facts straight, I'm an intelligent, well balanced, attractive gal with personality, a sense of humor, and the ability to get along with people. [Any opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the writer—my friends have told me all this.] I've been dating for over a year now. I've dated many fellows and hardly a week-end goes by that finds me dateless. But in all this time I've never found a fellow whom I could sincerely love. I've liked most of them and had fun with most of them, but none of them appeal to me as permanent partners. What's wrong with me?"

Not a thing, honeychile, except perhaps a bit of overeagerness. So take it easy—a gal doesn't find her life time guy in a matter of months. You're still too young to be thinking seriously about any permanent boy-meets-girl arrangements. The stuff that dreams are made on comes quite a bit later. In the meantime, aren't you having fun? It may be true that you're only young once, but you'll be young for a long time yet, so relax. But can't you hear the thunder of hoofbeats in the distance? There's your Prince Charming on the way!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 14—Gregory Peck, the busiest guy in town, has signed for still another. He'll do MacKinlay Kantor's "The Romance of Rosy Ridge," with Jack Cummings producing. Story deals with Tennessee mountain folks, and will be done in technicolor. This time Aggie Moorehead should get in there somewhere. . . . Greg tells me he'll take six weeks off after finishing "The Yearling" and "Duel in the Sun," which he's been doing simultaneously for the past nine months. If his wife, who's Finnish, gets her citizenship papers in time, they'll go to Mexico, and, perhaps, New York. The reception back there would startle him. He has no idea how his popularity has grown. . . . A note from New York says Denis Morgan will not play "The Life of Chauncey Olcott." It's already been given to Lee Sullivan, who clicked in "The Great John L." . . . If Danielle Darrieux is returning to Universal, that studio knows nothing about it. She faces trial in Paris on charges of having visited Germany and entertained our enemies during the occupation of France. Even if she's cleared, I see no reason why we should import her. We have plenty of good players in our own country. Let this Danielle stay in the lion's den. . . . Incidentally, I wonder if it's Mary Pickford who's helping Mrs. Maurice Chevalier get the latter's husband over here. They used to be the greatest of friends.

A Friend Indeed

The bright eyes of Joan Blondell saved Frances Marion's home. Before jumping into bed, Joan looked out and saw that the house next door was ablaze and phoned the fire department. Then, without stopping to put on her slippers, she rushed over to tell Frances, who was calmly entertaining in the parlor. This should remind you not to burn those Christmas wrappings and excelsior in your fireplace. Same thing happened to me one Christmas night. A passer-by rang my bell and said, "Madame, I think you ought to know your house is on fire." . . . Darryl Zanuck's stag party for returned vets brought out every one from grips to stars. Hank Fonda, George Montgomery, John Payne, Cesar Romero, and Ty Power who was still in uniform, showed for the shindig. There was plenty of ex-brass present, but it was John Payne who took a double round of applause, when introduced as "ex-private."

Well, I Swan! Yes, Again

The most surprising—but not to me—item in the annual Quigley poll is the choice of popular M. C.'s. Bing Crosby took first place; Harry Von Zell, second; Bob Hope, third. This is quite extraordinary, because Von Zell, who tosses his quips and charms on other people's shows hasn't one of his own. Last year, however, he did five pictures; so it looks as tho the little pudgy bubble boy is coming into his own at last. . . . That columnist who's making a picture with the little genius director [about to marry an heiress] had the set closed when she started strutting her stuff. I'm wondering if this is an indication of what will happen when the picture opens. Will they lock the customers out of the theaters? It's an idea. . . . Buster Keaton has to go to Mexico City to get a good part in a picture. One of his sons did a good job with underwater demolition. His name, at his mother's insistence, has been changed to Talmadge. . . . You can't stop Hollywood's publicity boys. When Anne Jeffreys was in bed with the flu, she was photographed there for a mattress ad. . . . Lora [Rusty] Russ, one of my ex-co-workers who got herself a better job, became Mrs. Bert Morse yesterday. He's just out of uniform.

Which Muntz Is This?

"Mad Man" Muntz will throw a tremendous party at his house tomorrow night, and it wouldn't surprise me if Jimmy Fidler walked in with Mad's ex-wife. Celeste Holm's latest romance is Capt. Schultz Denning of Adm. Halsey's staff. . . . Bob Cummings telephoned that one of his ex-flying pupils, Lt Roy Harris, had hit town. Bob, who thought the guy would never make a good aviator, found he'd been piloting Gen. Wainwright and is now about to take Bob Hope on a tour. . . . My sympathy to clever Jean Dalrymple, who was down with pneumonia when her show "Brighten the Corner" opened. . . . Sad homecoming for Henry Ginsberg. His first act was attending his brother's funeral. . . . Barbara Stanwyck, selected as the most co-operative actress of the year, complained about her shootin' irons for a scene in "California." She said, "I've done a lot of killing in my screen career, but never with a toy pistol. How about giving me a .45?"

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

MISSING

Ethel was not in. Avis made this discovery directly after Robin, in glum silence, had scuffed back to bed. The bathroom door was open. All along the unwaxed linoleum ran a trail of black wisps, heading toward the back stair.

Avis was staring down at some object on the bathroom threshold. It was a bright red crocheted slipper.

Terror gripping her, she crept thru the warm schoolroom to the icy gloom beyond. Erica had given wild chase to the marauding spaniel—and Erica hadn't come back!

The police whistle—in her coat pocket! She wrenched at the heavy front door, and blew two ear splitting blasts.

The blast of discordancy ought to have waked the dead, yet as Avis and the sergeant reached the second floor only Robin met them. Belligerently he accused, "Who's this you're bringing in?"

"Hush, Robin, there's no time now to explain. We've got to hunt for Erica. She's not in the house and——"

"Erica! What of it! She does sneak out sometimes. There's no need to start raising the roof——"

"Roof!" She tore up the remaining staircase, Robin jostling the sergeant as he charged for the top. "Exactly," he snapped, "if the roof door wasn't tight shut and the rabbit got chased up there."

The narrow door giving on the iron steps swung easily ajar. Clammy mist eddied in and over an expanse vacant of human form. "Rabbit?" Sgt. Budworth demanded, and revealing a terse explanation stooped to examine the surface underfoot. "Humph, there's fur up here. On the steps, too. Seems strewn all over the shop."

The sergeant had been prodding a loose tile projecting from the low parapet and was bending over in the vain effort to penetrate the fogged void below. He had fished from the 10 inch coping of the exterior a pathetic red slipper, twin to the one Erica had dropped in the bathroom floor. Thru stricken anguish she heard the Yard officer mutter, "I'm afraid your guess is right." Robin drew in taut breath, put a hard arm round her and said, "Come on, Maud will have to be told.'

He kept his arm round her, guiding her down the ladder-like iron treads. In the light of the upper landing she blinked at the tall figure that seemed propelled up the main staircase by a gun.

"Cam!" Stupefied she stared. "How did you get here?"

"Door open. I've been sitting in the car. You blew the whistle. Well?"

"She's gone, Cam. I—we think she may have tried to save her rabbit from Robin's dog and fallen off the——" She couldn't utter the word roof. "It was an accident." Like what had been meant to happen on a greased stair.

What happened then was confused. Afterwards Avis remembered nothing except her own crazed moan of, "It was all over before I got in. O, Cam, I've failed!" and the stern order to hold her tongue. Things cleared when they reached the big bedroom at head of the lower stair and found Robin making futile endeavors to rouse a sleeper. It was the lamp switched on by the doctor that did the trick.

"What's this?" she mouthed harshly.

"Erica can't be located," Robin said.

A baleful glare was directed first on the doctor then the impersonal man at his side.

"Who is this person? Erica, did you say? Nonsense, what you're telling me is absurd, she may have gone downstairs or——"

"Erica!" croaked a new voice. Oscar Moravian pushed Avis. "It can't be! It's impossible!"

Drunkenly, the wizened gnome in the thick bathrobe blundered out again. He was in haste to get to the rooms overhead, but the sergeant blocked him curtly.

"No, sir, you'll stop below. Doctor, I've telephoning to do. Will you round up the lady in the other room and fetch the lot of them down into the lounge?"

In the icy lounge Olive made a remark which caused Maud to turn on her sharply. "You say you woke up. And you neglected to call me!"

"Actually," Olive said coolly, "I supposed it was you who seemed to be dodging about up above, but when you appeared to be dead to the world I saw my mistake. I only got up because I was sick. It was the dog, of course, and poor Erica rushing after it. How did the brute get in?"

The lean figure in the gray dressing gown quivered like whalebone, but disdained to reply. The sergeant finished his call and announced that the chief would be here shortly.

"Chief?" Maud rapped. "To whom do you refer? And by what right are policemen intruding into a purely private disaster? We should be out this minute, making a search——"

"I'm attending to that, madam. Inspector Headcorn and I represent Scotland Yard, and I was handed instructions to keep an eye on this residence. I can't say I heard anything out of the way, so the accident must have happened before I reached the spot. Doctor, will you——"

It was Avis who had uttered the cry. All eyes swerved on her, but she saw only Bruce's black ones, sending her a peremptory warning. "Yes, Miss Marriott," Maud rasped, "and what did you hear?"

"It—it sounded like something striking the tops of the pine trees outside my window," Avis stammered, confused. Just a crackle, then a—a splash——"

"And you said nothing?"

"I—I thought it couldn't be anything but a dead branch falling down."

Strained silence fell, during which the sergeant disappeared down the basement way. It lasted till a frightened face peered round the service door and Ethel, carrying her shoes, blanched at sight of the mo-

Candied citrus peel is in demand at this time of year, as a holiday candy in itself, and as an ingredient in Christmas cakes and cookies. It's fun to make, if you can spare the sugar for it easily. A recipe for candied orange peel with less than the usual amount of sugar has been devised by home economists in experimental kitchens. The process takes several days, but the finished peel is excellent, moist, and a good keeper.

Candied Orange Peel

Cover peel from 3 oranges with water, add ½ teaspoon salt, and boil for 30 minutes. Drain, cover again with water, and boil until tender. Drain and cut peel into strips. Bring to boil 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons corn sirup or honey, and ¾ cup water. Add peel and cook very gently in the sirup, so that peel absorbs most of it. Cover. Cool overnight. The next day, reheat to the simmering point. Cool again in sirup. Repeat this process for several days until most of the sirup is absorbed. Drain and spread out to dry on a rack or waxed paper for a day or more, until surface sirup has been absorbed. Roll peel in sugar and store in covered container.

The concentrated, sharp flavored sirup which is drained from the peel may be used to flavor beverages or fruit sauce for the holiday pudding or baked ham.

Fresh mushroom soup is delicious. Here's an easy way to make it.

Fresh Mushroom Soup
[Serves four]

½ pound fresh mushrooms
½ mild onion, sliced
¼ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
Parsley, salt, pepper

Wash the mushrooms and slice lengthwise thru the stem. Saute with onion and celery in butter for 5 minutes. Add flour and blend. Add milk gradually, stirring to keep smooth. Season with salt and pepper. Serve thoroly hot, each serving sprinkled with chopped parsley. Each portion may be flavored with a tablespoon of sherry at the last minute, if desired.

Dainty sandwiches always are popular for holiday teas. You'll like this cocoa bread sliced wafer thin with a cream cheese and nut filling.

Cocoa Bread
[One loaf]

2½ cups sifted enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cocoa
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups milk
¼ cup melted shortening

Sift dry ingredients together three times. Beat egg and add milk and shortening. Stir into dry ingredients, blending only enough to moisten. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 minutes.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Eggs Du Barry
[Serves six]

3 tablespoons butter
6 small white onions, sliced thin
6 fresh or canned mushrooms, sliced
¾ cup chopped boiled ham
½ clove garlic, finely minced
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon marjoram
1 cup sherry
½ cup water
6 hard cooked eggs

Cook onions, mushrooms, ham, and garlic in butter until delicately browned. Sprinkle mixed dry ingredients over onion mixture and mix well. Add sherry and water and cook until thickened. Pour sauce over hot eggs cut into halves lengthwise. Garnish with toast points.

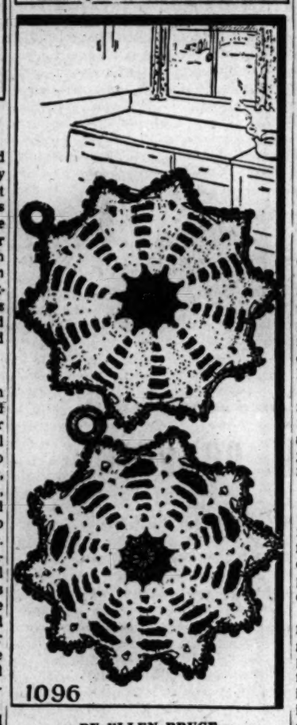
Gay Potholders



BY ELLEN BRUCE

Here are two attractive and original potholders which are crocheted in a shell and wheel design with red, white, and blue carpet warp. They are not difficult to do, yet add a colorful touch to the kitchen. Color schemes may be varied to suit individual tastes.

For instructions in crocheting the two potholders, No. 1096, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

"Having read your column for a number of years," writes a mother, "I am wondering if you would write something on the following:

"We had quite a discussion the other night about like and unlike personalities in parents and children. Some said that a child with the same tastes, temperament, even physical make-up, as a mother or father gets along best with the parents. Others declared that dissimilar personalities flourish apace . . ."

Ordinarily speaking, it is easier for you to understand some one who is like you, whether that person is a child or a grownup. And because you understand them, it is easier for you to get along with them.

In a few exceptional instances, on the other hand, a difference intrigues a parent's interest. But for the most part parents find it difficult to understand and handle properly the child who is utterly different from themselves.

The woman who is gregarious finds it hard to make out the boy or girl who can enjoy solitude and who prefers a few especially congenial friend to a crowd. The man who is capable, practical, and successful in business finds it hard to deal sympathetically with a boy who is a dreamer, a poet, an artist, or a craftsman, and who has no particular ambitions toward material success.

Too often, as their children grow older, parents try to force a profession or a way of living upon their children which is their idea of the best course to pursue, but not their child's.

In a school I know of, when a child has been tried in one classroom and doesn't seem to develop well or happily in his work or as a personality, the head of the school changes him to another teacher. There are some adult personalities so alien to a child that they can get nowhere together.

Being parents—and more or less permanent as such!—we can't switch about. But what we can do is to meet well the challenge of having a child entirely different from ourselves.

With imagination and study you can get to understand that difference in personality and to find it not an irritation but a fascinating matter. You're very open and frank, we'll say, and your son is reticent; you're unsociable, but your daughter loves people and they love her; you're a chatterer, yet your child says little and keeps his own counsel. All that should make things more interesting.

PTA's Leaders Call for Delay on Peace Draft

Only after a qualified national commission has developed a comprehensive plan for national defense should a decision be made on compulsory military training is the view of the board of managers of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The board's position on the question of military training for American youth was explained yesterday by Mrs. William A. Hastings of Madison, Wis., president of the congress, following a recent meeting of the governing body of the organization in Kansas City, Mo.

Quoting from a statement drawn up by the board, "We believe the way to achieve world peace is thru the United Nations organization," Mrs. Hastings said, "Any plans for national defense must be correlated with the obligations assumed thru the UNO."

The leaders of the 3½ million member congress suggested at their meeting "appointment of a national defense commission for the development of a comprehensive plan for military defense as affected by scientific developments and world organizations, members to be selected for their integrity, special knowledge, and experience with large affairs."

The board stated, Mrs. Hastings announced, that "in order to defend our country and discharge its obligations to the United Nations organization, the United States also will need a highly trained, professional military force, continuous scientific and technological research and development, industrial development, a healthy and an educated citizenry."

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"Can you tell me about how many unshelled nuts to allow per cup of nut meats?"

A pound of pecans, almonds, English walnuts, or filberts equals about one cup of shelled nut meats. It takes two pounds of black walnuts to equal one cup.

"Is it possible to omit citron in a fruit cake recipe?"

Yes, citron may be omitted if the flavor isn't liked, but substitute some other fruit, using the total amount of fruit called for in the recipe.

"I want to try your Graham Cracker Torte and Lemon Dessert recipes which appeared a few weeks ago, but I have the prepared crumbs and both recipes call for the whole graham crackers, crushed. How many cups of crumbs should I use?"

About 12 graham crackers equal 1 cup of crumbs, so 2 cups of the prepared crumbs could be used in place of 22 crackers. A scant three-quarters cup of the crumbs would equal about eight crackers in the Lemon Dessert.

"Can sorghum sirup be substituted for molasses?"

There would be no reason why sorghum couldn't be used in a recipe calling for molasses, as they resemble each other in consistency and color. However, it would alter the flavor.

CIO CHIEFTAIN TO G.M.: 'YOU'RE IN FOR A FIGHT'

tlemen, we want a bigger pie, and we want a bigger share of that pie. We say the only way labor can have more things is if it creates more things. No feather-bedding whatever in our philosophy. When do we meet again, Harry?

To Press Demands

ANDERSON—We have something else we have to do tomorrow. We are going to give you the demands on the contract changes Monday.

REUTHER—You are?

ANDERSON—Yes.

REUTHER—We will be prepared to discuss those demands in about the same schedule you were prepared to discuss our wage demands, about six week, or six weeks from now we'll be prepared to talk about those things.

ANDERSON—All right.

REUTHER—And then we will give you the union's demands. For every one you give us we will give you a counter-demand.

ANDERSON—All right.

REUTHER—If you want to talk about those six weeks or eight weeks now it is O. K. with us.

ANDERSON—It is O. K. with us.

REUTHER — Because you ain't fooling anybody.

ANDERSON—You ain't fooling us either.

REUTHER—We are not trying to.

ANDERSON—You are trying awfully hard, but you are not.

REUTHER—We are telling you frankly you are not going to make any automobiles until this is settled, and you can go thru all the contract cancellations you want.

"Worked Damned Hard"

We worked damned hard at this job and I think you guys have treated the General Motors workers like they weren't worth a minute's consideration. A corporation that has the money you have, and you fellows sitting on top and enjoying every damn decent thing of life, everything money can buy, and all the security, and when a bunch of workers ask for their share of it you thumb your nose at them, tell them to go to hell, refuse to conciliate, refuse to bargain, refuse to negotiate, refuse to arbitrate.

You sit there with your $90,000, with guys in the plants working a hell of a lot harder than you guys on the other side of the table.

ANDERSON—They never have.

REUTHER—O, Harry.

ANDERSON—They never have.

JOHNSTONE—Don't forget, we took it hard before we had a union and we haven't become soft since we got one and if it is hard in the future we can take it and come up smiling.

ANDERSON—Do you think I am inpressed?

SEATON—Why don't you smile?

JOHNSTONE—I can. There you are.

REUTHER—You asked for it and you are going to get the damnedest fight you ever had. The whole American labor movement is behind us. We are backed to the last —— damn inch. You can get all the injunctions you want, but Dean isn't going to make Chevrolets and Buicks.

The portion made public by the union follows:

ANDERSON—I can go out and get a committee of manufacturers that have nothing to do with General Motors and have them come out and state the UAW position is the most ridiculous position in the world. I think I can get a committee of union people to look at it and say the UAW's position is the most ridiculous position in the world.

JOHNSTONE—Why don't you?

ANDERSON—I think I can get Mr. John Lewis to take that position.

JOHNSTONE—Who said Lewis was a labor leader?

ANDERSON—He might be your boss before long.

FREDERICO—Are you going to help him determine that?

Doesn't Think Much of Lewis

ANDERSON—Determine what?

FREDERICO—That he is our boss.

REUTHER—Back in 1937 you didn't think much of Lewis.

ANDERSON—I don't think much of him now.

REUTHER—Are you willing to have him act as your arbitrator in this dispute?

ANDERSON—No, I said I can get him to——

REUTHER [interposing]—We don't agree with Lewis' wage-price theory. His theory of saying we will soak the public a dollar more per ton of coal and you get 50 cents of it and the operator 50 cents, we don't think that is the way to increase purchasing power. We want to increase purchasing power by holding down prices and raising wages, so that the people can buy more things. We are not interested in having more dollars in the pay envelope; we want dollars that will buy more things.

ANDERSON—It is 5 o'clock now.

REUTHER—When labor does what Lewis has done in the past, then we are hi-jacking the public; when labor does what we are doing in this case, protecting the public interest, then we are no good either. What can labor do that is right?

DELAYS ACTION ON LABOR BILL TILL AFTER YULE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The administration's hope of getting the new labor bill thru congress in time for the steel strike set for Jan. 14 went up the chimney today.

The senate labor committee recessed its hearings until after congress returns from its Christmas holidays. Chairman Murray [D., Mont.] told reporters the hearings then will run for another month—100 or more witnesses have asked to testify.

CIO IS ORDERED TO LIMIT PICKETS AT OHIO PLANT

G. M. Charged UAW with 'Intimidation'

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14 [Special]—Charges of illegal picketing were brought into court today by General Motors corporation as 213,000 workers in more than 70 cities remained idle in the strike that began Nov. 21.

The action took place in Cleveland, O., where General Motors sought injunctions against a CIO United Auto Workers' local, charging pickets had used force and "intimidation" against persons not on strike.

Common Pleas Judge Frank S. Day of Cleveland, acting in the suit brought in connection with picketing at the Fisher body plant, ordered the number of pickets limited to 55.

Judge Day held that no evidence had been presented to support a company charge that union members had molested or threatened persons attempting to enter the strike bound plant. He said he, therefore, had not ordered removal of all pickets.

Other developments on the auto industry's labor scene were:

1. General Motors and the union agreed to arrangements for clerical and supervisory employes to enter certain plants in Detroit and Flint, Mich.; Janesville, Wis., and Linden, N. J. Union officials said they agreed on condition the nonstrikers would not undertake to do strikers' work.

2. The Ford Motor company and the UAW-CIO, engrossed in problems of "company security and the 30 per cent wage issue as well, held a "satisfactory discussion" and recessed their negotiations until Monday.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ON G.M. WALKOUT TO OPEN DEC. 20

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—President Truman's fact finding board today announced it would begin public hearings Dec. 20 on the General Motors strike, but would withhold any final report until the board was certain its findings would "facilitate a settlement."

In a statement issued by Lloyd K. Garrison, chairman of the national war labor board and a member of the fact finding group, the board said representatives of General Motors and the CIO United Automobile workers had agreed to come to Washington, D. C., next week.

The disputants will meet informally Dec. 19 to discuss procedure and hearings will be held Dec. 20, 21, and 22.

NEW CEILINGS FOR MERCURY CARS ARE TOLD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—Basic retail price ceilings for Mercury automobiles will be up an average of 4 per cent over those of January, 1942, and additional increases for design changes range from $30 to $65.

Announcing this today, the OPA said manufacturers' prices for these Ford-built cars would be boosted an average of 8.4 per cent.

Here are the new Mercury retail ceilings, inclusive of design change price increases, as compared with 1942 ceilings:

Two door sedan, $1,114, as compared with $1,030 in 1942; four door town sedan, $1,162, compared with $1,065; sedan coupe, $1,151, compared with $1,055; club convertible, $1,320, compared with $1,215; station wagon, $1,333, compared with $1,260.

None of the prices given includes federal excise taxes, transportation, or preparation and handling charges.

INDIANS GET CASE IN TRADE FOR JEFF HEATH

BAUGH AILING, BUT HE'LL PITCH AGAINST RAMS

Cold May Curtail Gate Tomorrow

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Cleveland, O., Dec. 14—The report from Washington that Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins is ailing made no impression today on the Cleveland Rams, who will play the easterners here Sunday for the 1945 national football championship.

Baugh is said to be suffering from an injured rib or two, which to the Rams is in the "so what" class. Last Thanksgiving day their peerless pitcher, Bob Waterfield, operated against the Lions in Detroit with the handicap of pulled muscles in his side. In this game, which brought Cleveland its first western division title, Waterfield targeted Jim Benton 10 times for 303 yards. This yardage broke Don Hutson's league record of 237 yards for one game.

Benton's Spry as Ever

Anyway, the Rams first started the championship game propaganda a couple of days ago by fearing out loud that Benton, because of a cold, would not be able to give a peak performance. But Jim is back in uniform and he was very spry today when the Rams again worked indoors. The Redskins will arrive tomorrow morning.

The snow's attack on Cleveland is petering out and it was predicted today that there will be no more than an additional inch during the week-end. Freezing temperatures will continue thru Sunday, tho, and doubtless will keep thousands of fans at home who otherwise would attend. The game will be broadcast by the American Broadcasting company over 209 stations and overseas to the nation's fighting men.

The last checkup revealed that the advance sale in Cleveland alone has reached $131,000, which is only $15,000 less than the record gross gate at the Polo Grounds last year when Green Bay beat New York.

Fans Asked to Bring Brooms

Municipal stadium, where the game will be played, is under a blanket of snow. The seats are covered with the stuff and fans have been asked to come equipped with whiskbrooms. The 900 bales of straw which are protecting the field from the snow cost $7,200, this tab having been picked up by the Rams. Unless the gate goes considerably over $150,000 the Cleveland club stands to make very little profit as the players get the bulk of the receipts.

The Rams have dropped from the lofty betting heights of 6½ points to 3 and may be no better than even money at game time. The Redskins were beaten by the western champions in an exhibition game here last September, 21 to 0, but since then the easterners have added 19 players, many of them pre-war Redskin stars.

Indiana State, De Paul Reach Tourney Final

BY WILFRID SMITH

De Paul university will meet Indiana State of Terre Haute, Ind., tonight in the final of the first invitational basketball tournament in the Stadium sponsored by the north side university. At 8:15 o'clock Washington and Oregon, beaten last night in the semi-finals before a crowd of 7,246, will play for third place.

The Sycamores from Indiana State surprised the fans by their 66 to 48 victory over Oregon, but De Paul came thru as expected with a smashing 75 to 50 triumph over Washington. The Demons possibly would have beaten the Huskies without George Mikan, their All-America center,

Washington Demoralized

De Paul's guards, Jack Allen and Chuck Allan, led the Demons' early rush, which demoralized Washington. Jack had three shots and Chuck took one. All scored and then Gene Stump followed with a fifth field goal to make it five in a row.

The Huskies slowly gathered momentum and after 10 minutes trailed, 18 to 17. They still were in the game, tho losing, 22 to 24, but here Mikan joined the scoring with Allen, Allan, and Stump. Mikan, Jack Allen, and Stump each counted seven times from the field in the first half, which ended 49 to 32.

De Paul's varsity retired after 10 minutes of the second period and five minutes later a third team took the floor.

Royer Paces Hoosiers

Oregon started with a zone defense against Indiana State and the smooth passing Hoosiers soon proved they knew how to sift thru. Except for a brief flurry of three field goals which sent Oregon ahead, 6 to 3, Indiana State had control. Bob Royer, who hit four field goals and three penalty shots in the first half, led the attack.

Royer had excellent support from Doyle Cofer. The Sycamores led, 11 to 6, and finally, 17 to 13, before Oregon switched to a man to man defense.

Indiana State then showed how to screen and block and with the advantage of its lead tallied 12 points while Oregon only got a field goal. Indiana State led, 34 to 19, at the intermission.

Altho Oregon scored first in the second period, the Sycamores immediately set a pace the westerners could not match. Better passing and floor work sent the Indianans ahead, 39 to 21, and then, 48 to 25.

BIG TEN TAKES MAIL BALLOT ON 3 YEAR RULING

The Western conference yesterday began a mail vote of its members to determine whether its new rule to limit varsity competition by civilians to three years is immediately effective or will apply at the close of the winter sports season.

On the outcome of the poll will hinge the basketball careers of Ned Postels of Iowa's championship team, Max Mohr of Minnesota, Bill Chandler and Bob Rosendahl of Marquette, and George Mikan of De Paul, now playing their fourth season or more. Bob Fitch of Minnesota and Bob and Ross Hume of Michigan are among Big Ten track stars who may be affected.

Commissioner Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson said the poll was initiated by the faculty group in response to inquiries from midwestern independent schools which abide by the Big Ten code, as well as member schools.

NAVAL ARMORY BEATS TEACHERS, 51-42; 3D IN ROW

The Naval Armory basketball team scored its third consecutive victory yesterday by defeating Chicago Teachers' college, 51 to 42, on the Sailors' court. Ed Lukas, Joe Luten, and Ed Rudolph each scored five field goals.

MARQUETTE U.'S CHANDLER THRU

Star Ineligible for Game with N. U. Tonight

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 14 [Special]—Coach Bill Chandler of the Marquette university basketball team revealed tonight that upon the recommendation of Commissioner Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson of the Western conference he would not use his son, Guard Bill Chandler Jr., in tomorrow night's game with Northwestern in Evanston.

Young Chandler is a navy V-12 medical student at Marquette and in his sixth season on the varsity squad, seeking his fifth letter. Marquette follows the Big Ten conference eligibility rules and post-war changes adopted in Chicago last week-end make Chandler ineligible.

Chandler said he would use Orlando Palesse, captain of the 1945 football team, at his son's guard position against the Wildcats.

WILDCATS WIN OPENER

Northwestern university, which defeated DePauw, 67 to 36, in its basketball opener Monday, will meet more difficult opposition tonight in a clash with Marquette university in Evanston High school gymnasium. Max Morris and Phil Lofgren, the Wildcats' two veteran forwards, and Leroy King, 6 foot 7 inch center, a transfer from Monmouth college, who set the scoring pace against DePauw, seem to be the nucleus of a potent scoring combination.

Michigan is another Big Ten representative which will have its hands full tonight, the Wolverines having an engagement with Great Lakes at the naval training center.

The Wolverines, winner of three straight this season, will face a Bluejacket team made up of players with college and professional experience. In their competition against a common foe Michigan beat Michigan State, 49 to 37, while the Bluejackets won from State, 53 to 49.

35 CHICAGOANS ENTER DETROIT BOWLING EVENT

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14 [Special]—Joe Wilman and Buddy Bomar, present and former national match game champions, head a group of 35 Chicago bowlers scheduled to compete in the Vogue recreation's individual tournament here tomorrow night. The eight-game test across 16 alleys which carries $2,000 and $1,000 first and second prizes, will be completed Sunday.

Chicago teams whose full membership will compete are the Monarchs, White Shirt Colognes, Meister Braus, and Primas.

Illinois, Ohio Meet Tonight; Big 10 Opener

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 14 [Special]—A youthful University of Illinois basketball team, with its regular lineup still unsettled, will strive to get the jump on the rest of the Western conference tomorrow night when it meets Ohio State in George Huff gymnasium.

The contest is the only conference encounter tomorrow and one of three scheduled before the Christmas holidays. The others are a week from tomorrow, when Illinois will play at Iowa and Indiana at Michigan.

Illini Score Four Victories

Ohio State will have the edge over the Illini in experience, tho the latter have displayed considerable skill in winning four of five nonconference games. The last of these was a 51 to 34 victory over the University of Detroit Tuesday in which Coach Doug Mills used 18 Illinois players.

Jack Burmaster, sophomore guard from Elgin, is the only Illinois player at all sure of a regular assignment. He has been a virtual full time performer in all early games and, in addition to being a defensive mainstay, is the leading Illinois scorer with 51 points. Bob Doster, one of a quartet of freshman forwards, is second with 46.

Bob Rowe Is a Giant

Because of his height, Bob Rowe, 6 foot 7 inch center, seems likely to get the starting call, tho he has a rival in Bob Menke, smaller but faster and more aggressive. Even Rowe will have to look up to the Ohio center, Arnold Risen, 6 foot 9 inch veteran.

Hal Craig, forward, and Jim Seyler, guard, probably will be the other Illinois starters. Risen's helpers in the Buckeye cause will be Ray Snyder and Bob Bowen, forwards, and Paul Huston and Warren Amling, guards, the latter an almost unanimous All-American football selection, also at guard.

CHANUTE FIELD WINS, 67 TO 57, AT GREAT LAKES

After taking a 16 point lead in the first half the Great Lakes Bluejackets' defense fell apart in the second period and Chanute field scored a 67 to 57 victory at the naval center last night.

RED SOX GIVEN ALL-STAR GAME; SET FOR JULY 9

13th in Series to Be Played in Daylight

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The annual all-star event in which the National and American leagues' playing elite get-together will be revived next summer in the Boston Red Sox's Fenway park, the very spot scheduled for the staging of the 1945 classic which was canceled because of travel difficulties.

The fact that the game would be revived after a one year pause and that the Boston date would be July 9 was revealed yesterday by Will Harridge, American league president, when his attention was called to the fact that nobody had said anything about the affair after the joint meeting of the majors here last Wednesday.

Day Time Game

The magnates acted on it, but in the confusion of other business such as night baseball, etc., they inadvertently kept it a secret.

The Boston game, which will be played in daylight, the Red Sox park being without electric lights, will mark the 13th of the series which was inaugurated in 1933 at Comiskey park by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and in which the American holds an eight to four edge over the parent major. The only other all-star game played in Boston was at the Braves' field in 1936.

The 1944 event, won by the National leaguers by 7 to 1, featured Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs, who set a record by reaching first base five times.

The title holding Cubs, or should we say Vice President In Charge of Pruning Operations Jim T. Gallagher, gained no ground yesterday in the struggle to get the roster down to the point where there may be enough places for all hands at the eating table during the spring exercises on Catalina Island.

Bill Fleming Returns

The club's Harold George, who keeps track of what is what on the roster, was forced to inform Gallagher, one release notwithstanding, that the total now stands at 45 because of the return from service of Pitcher Bill Fleming, just out of the army, and Bob Sturgeon, who had been wearing a sailor hat since December, 1942.

As an indication of the speed with which former players are becoming available for the active lists, the Cubs now have 10 such additions since the world series. Three others—Hiram Bithorn, Clyde McCullough, and Cy Block—returned during the closing weeks of the season. Breaking down the entire batch of 45, shows 11 infielders, seven outfielders, nine catchers, and 18 pitchers. A 19th pitcher—Mack Stewart—was the guy released yesterday. He went to Tulsa, Okla., the Cubs' Texas league farm.

BEAU JACK WINS 10 ROUNDER FROM WILLIE JOYCE

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Beau Jack, former lightweight champion, returned to Madison Square Garden tonight and won a 10 round decision over Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind. The announcement was greeted by a chorus of boos. Jack, recently discharged from the army, twice staggered Joyce in the first round and went on to gain the unanimous decision of Referee Benny Leonard and the judges.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

SOLDIERS returning from England do not believe that country ever will take an interest in American football or baseball. . . . The Britons cannot understand, the GIs say, why we have pinch batters and pinch runners in baseball or substitutes on the gridiron. . . . To them, any game should be played with the personnel which starts it, unless an athlete should suffer a disabling injury. . . . At first the British were said to be gracious about lending their beloved cricket fields for baseball. . . . Later, however, they complained about the way our boys dug up the turf for base lines and were especially hurt by the bare spots around home plate and the pitcher's mound. . . . Football is one game which is played, regardless of weather, generally speaking. . . . The records show, however, that Virginia Medical school beat Hampden-Sidney, 6 to 0, in three-quarters of a contest in 1911. . . . The fourth was called off because of rain. One of the most unusual contests in college football annals was the Peru-Wayne Teachers battle of 1941, which ended in a scoreless tie. . . . The two Nebraska elevens played all afternoon in three inches of icy slush, and when it was over, both showed a net loss of yardage. . . . Peru punted on first down all afternoon but the more daring Wayne quarter back called for 14 forward passes. . . . Twelve of them fell incomplete and the other two were intercepted. . . . Kansas State old timers still chuckle when they recall the trick by which their team beat the Oklahoma Aggies in the rain in 1909. . . . Following a time-out, one of the Wildcats came out from under the umpire's umbrella to take a pass for the winning touchdown.

Ted Tannehill, brilliant half back for the University of Southern California, is an accomplished pianist. . . . Tannehill, who is enrolled in the school of music, is a composer, too, one of his most popular works being known as "Waltz in F Major." . . . Bill Klem calls Hans Wagner the greatest infielder he ever saw and lists Christy Mathewson as the best pitcher. . . . Ben Jones, famous trainer for Calumet farm, now in Miami, has been placed on a special diet by his physician. . . . The Calumet string has reserved 60 stalls at the Hialeah track. . . . The lowest score ever recorded by the Michigan State basketball team was the 12 to 7 figure by which the Spartans defeated the Michigan Normal quintet in 1901. . . . Pat Coburn, 17 year old star for the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast Hockey league, won three medals for saving lives as a guard at an Ottawa, Ont., beach last summer. . . . When moving men failed to show up at his San Francisco home, Wrestling Promoter Joe Malcewicz called in a dozen or so of his behemoths and, using trailers, transferred 12 rooms of furniture to his new mansion in the exclusive Ingleside district. . . . Harry Wismer of Detroit and Johnny Neblett of Chicago will air the National Football league championship game in Cleveland tomorrow over the American Broadcasting company network. . . . The broadcast, which will be heard in Chicago thru station WENR, is sponsored by the Wilson Sporting Goods company.

Same Old Story

For quite a while past one has lent one's ear
To "I'm not going to buy very much this year."
"I, neither," some friend will promptly chime in,
"The prices, my dear, are really a sin!"

But as the day of days draws rapidly night,
I cannot but heave a wonderful sigh.
What on earth has become of those chirpers so drear
Who were all going to do "very little this year?"

Because every shop that I try to wedge into
It's so crammed and so crowded it's really a sin to Try to project even one body more
In thru the portals of most any store.

So I've had to conclude that we jabber
a lot
What we're going to do, and also what not,
But when the old spirit starts shedding its glow,
Well, Christmas is Christmas still, whether or no!

Ten Years Ago Today—The Detroit Lions beat the New York Giants, 26 to 7, in a snowstorm for the National Football league championship.

LAYDEN RULES TOPPING LOSES N.L. FRANCHISE

In an anti-climax to the recent switch of Dan Topping's Brooklyn team from the National Football league to the All-America conference, Commissioner Elmer Layden yesterday ruled that Topping forfeited his franchise in the National pro circuit.

Furthermore, Layden asserted, the Brooklyn players have been awarded to the Boston Yanks of the National league. Brooklyn last season was merged with the Yanks after being denied use of Ebbets field in Brooklyn.

The commissioner listed 13 players on the active list and about 160 on Brooklyn's service roster who would be available to Boston. If any Brooklyn players insist on remaining with Topping's club, which will operate in 1946 as the New York Football Yankees at Yankee stadium in New York, they will be suspended for five years from the National league, Layden warned.

Brooklyn last season owned such performers as Pug Manders, George Cafego, Johnny Grigas, and Ace Parker.

SENATORS GIVE UP SPEED FOR EXTRA POWER

Both Veterans Are Outfield Stars

Cleveland, O., Dec. 14 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today traded Jeff Heath, their problem child outfielder, to the Washington Senators for George Washington Case, also an outfielder, who is famous as a base stealer.

The deal, reported in the making

Jeff Heath

George Case

at the major league meetings in Chicago early this week, was a straight player swap with no cash involved.

Heath Is a Slugger

In making the deal, the Indians lose an outfield slugger they have been trying to peddle for three years because of his temperament and receive in return a fast moving, sharp hitting gardener who won the American league base stealing championship five years in a row before being dethroned by the New York Yankees' George Stirnweiss.

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, who declared at the major league meetings that "Heath will not play for me next year," was elated over the trade.

"I think we definitely got the better of the deal," he said. "At least, we expect Case will report on time to our training camp."

Jeff Dislikes Camp

Heath was a holdout in the spring for the last three years. He came to the major league meetings from his Seattle, Wash., home and repeated his often heard remark that he didn't want to play for Cleveland and would be satisfied to "be with either New York or Detroit."

The two outfielders have been in organized baseball since 1936. Heath broke in with Cleveland's Zanesville, O., farm, came up briefly to the Indians in 1936, then completed the season at Milwaukee and returned to the majors in 1937 to stay. Case started out with Washington's Trenton, N. J., farm and came to the Senators for keeps in 1937. Heath is 29 and Case is 30.

In his nine big league years, Heath batted at just about the .300 mark, while hitting some 115 homers. Case hit at .290 pace for his nine seasons.

SMITH'S HEARING ON DOPE CHARGE TO CLOSE TODAY

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Trainer Tom Smith testified stanchly for two hours tonight that he was innocent of stimulating the horse Magnific Duel last Nov. 1 at Jamaica and never in his life doped any animal.

With several witnesses still to be heard after 12 hours of wrangling, the state racing commission and Jockey club adjourned the hearing until tomorrow morning. The board stipulated that the case must be finished by noon.

Smith, pleading for remission of his one year suspension from racing told freely of having sprayed Magnific Duel and other horses of the Maine Chance stable with a 2.6 per cent solution of ephedrine, but protested he did not believe it was a stimulant and had not used it on an animal within a few hours of a race.

ACTORS' EQUITY VOTES TO BACK CENSURE OF FAY

New York, Dec. 14 [Special]—After a four hour closed meeting at the Astor hotel, the membership of Actors' Equity association voted 470 to 72 today to uphold the censure and reprimand of Equity's council against Frank Fay, star of the hit show, "Harvey."

Today's meeting climaxed a controversy which began when Fay voiced objection to the presence of five Equity members at a rally of the Spanish refugee appeal at Madison Square Garden, at which a speech by Harold J. Laski, British economist and Socialist leader, was broadcast from London.

Laski's address included a criticism of the role of the Catholic church in Spain, and Fay's contention was the five had participated in an attack on his religion. The five were Margo, Luba Malina, Sono Osato, Jean Darling, and David Brooks. The five countered by filing written charges with the Equity council.

CITY BUYS BRAIN VOLTAGE METER TO USE IN COURT

The city council finance committee yesterday authorized Dr. David B. Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist, to spend $1,995 for an electroencephlograph, a delicate contrivance that measures brain voltages.

The device looks like a radio, and has electrodes that are attached to both sides of a patient's head. Dials then indicate the amount of current in the brain. The amount isn't much, experts explained.

The $1,995 was part of a surplus left over from a $5,000 appropriation for 1944. A request to purchase a lie detector and several desk lamps was refused.

The committee, which is headed by Ald. Bowler [25th], referred to a subcommittee a request by the police department to buy 72 new Ford automobiles for $58,116. It approved a $1,475 expenditure for 1,000 copies of a map of Chicago showing preliminary comprehensive city planning.

CHICAGO STEEL PLANTS EXPAND TO MEET NEEDS

Production in Area Near Pittsburgh's

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

Chicago's position as one of the world's biggest steel producing centers has been strengthened as a result of the war and further expansions and improvements are taking place at several plants to care for heavy demands, Chicago steel interests said yesterday.

The principal steel producers in the Chicago area are Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, subsidiary of United States Steel corporation, with its Gary and South works plants; Inland Steel company, Republic Steel corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, and Wisconsin Steel Works, a division of International Harvester company. These mills along with several other United States Steel subsidiary plants employ a total of about 85,000 workers.

Large improvement and modernization plans have been announced for several of these mills. Carnegie-Illinois has announced plans to spend more than 50 million dollars in enlarging and modernizing facilities at both Gary and South works.

Will Increase Facilities

The cold rolled steel production facilities of the Gary works, the world's largest steel operation, will be increased by 232,600 tons annually, among other improvements, bringing over-all production to more than 1,250,000 tons annually.

The American Bridge company plant at Gary, which produces fabricated steel for construction, is to be further enlarged. The American Steel and Wire company, another United States Steel subsidiary, has spent millions on improving its Joliet plant which produces bars out of which are made rods and reinforcement mesh for concrete, rivets, screws, nails, and hundreds of other items. It has spent large amounts on its Waukegan plants.

Republic Steel has been negotiating to buy the modern plant built in the war time high cost construction period and a decision is expected soon. It continues to operate the mills adjoining its own property on the far south side. Employment is reported increasing.

Youngstown Plans Changes

Youngstown Sheet and Tube is reported planning some improvements at its Indiana Harbor and South Chicago plants. Wisconsin Steel was said to have no immediate plans for major improvements.

Inland has not indicated whether it will make a bid for the steel production facilities built at a cost of 36 million dollars by the government on a site adjoining its Indiana Harbor plant. Inland some years ago completed a construction program which made its plant one of the most efficient in the country.

The Chicago area has a steel production capacity of approximately 17,490,000 tons of ingots annually. The Pittsburgh-western Pennsylvania area, which embraces much more territory than the Chicago district, has a capacity of 20,397,000 tons, indicating Chicago is close to the Pittsburgh district in production.

Leads in Alloy Steels

Chicago leads in production of high grade alloy steels, including stainless steel, for which the demand is expected to be vast once the industry's labor troubles are ended.

The South works of Carnegie-Illinois Steel is the largest producer of stainless steel of United States Steel subsidiaries and the larger part of the facilities of the $92,500,000 mill in South Chicago built by the Defense plant corporation and operated by Republic Steel is devoted to alloy steels.

The consolidated sheet and tin plate plant of Carnegie-Illinois at Gary is said to be the largest mill of its type in the world.

UNDERWOOD

Please give me investment information on Underwood corporation. —P. G.

Tax cushions enabled this large manufacturer of office equipment to report net income for the first nine months of 1945 virtually the same as a year earlier despite a 63 per cent drop in operating earnings. The profit amounted to $2.08 a share on the 734,300 shares, sole capitalization, compared with $2.09. The drop in operating earnings is attributed to the necessity for extensive reconversion at the Hartford, Conn., plant.

Large accumulated domestic and foreign demand for typewriters, accounting and adding machines, and other company products are believed to provide a satisfactory sales outlook for the next year, altho profit margins are uncertain.

Much of the company's manufacturing facilities were devoted to war work up to V-J day. Since Pearl Harbor, profits per share after heavily increased taxes have held below the average of $4.21 shown for the years 1935-'39. The amounts were: 1944, $3.07; 1943, $3.38; 1942, $3.04. In 1941 the earnings were $5.09 and in 1940 $3.03. Only domestic subsidiaries have been included in the accounts since 1939.

Common dividends have been paid each year since 1911, and the yearly rate since 1941 has been $2.50. Net working capital last Dec. 31 was $[illegible],207,000.

Demand Halt in Exports of U.S. Lumber

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14—With a lumber shortage holding up the construction of 500,000 new American homes, the foreign economic administration has permitted the export in 1945 to England, France, Holland, and other countries of 750 million board feet of lumber.

Moreover, the FEA, the civilian production administration, and the commerce department are reviewing applications for lumber export licenses for the first quarter of 1946. The lumber sent abroad this year, it was estimated, could have built 75,000 to 100,000 American homes.

Ban, Investigation Urged

Protests were voiced in both senate and house at this condition. Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.] introduced a bill to bar all exports of lumber and lumber products during the housing shortage. The legislation would be effective during 1946 and until the President proclaimed housing and other construction requirements were being met.

Rep. Landis [R., Ind.] introduced a resolution calling for a house committee investigation of reports that there were huge stores of surplus lumber in army and navy camps as well as in the storehouses of other government departments.

"Out in the midwest," he remarked, "I'm told there are 40-acre piles of wood lying around."

The lumber exports permitted by the FEA went to Spain, Australia, Africa, and Latin American countries as well as to England, France, and the Netherlands. The lumber brought higher prices than were permitted for domestic sales under OPA regulations.

Request Goes Unanswered

The National Retail Lumber Dealers association sent a message recently to President Truman and Reconversion Director Snyder requesting that all exports be discontinued on the basis that domestic markets will need all of this country's lumber production for at least the next six months. No reply has been received.

Lumber production this year is estimated at 28 billion board feet. FEA's 1945 program originally had provided for the export of 1 billion board feet; but the end of the war and the suspension of lend-lease resulted in the cutback to 750 million board feet. The agency defended its export permits as necessary "to maintain export relations."

CARRIER CORP. FILES FOR SALE OF PREFERRED

Carrier corporation yesterday filed with the securities and exchange commission a registration statement covering 120,000 shares of $50 par convertible preferred stock. The dividend rate was not indicated.

Common stockholders are expected to buy most of the new shares. Proceeds will be used for redemption of 4½ per cent preferred stock, a 4½ million dollar modernization, and new construction program, and working capital.

Union Asbestos and Rubber company, Chicago, registered 217,384 shares of $5 par common stock to be sold by 66 shareholders at a price to be announced later.

Glore, Forgan & Co. sold 3,600 shares of Armour & Co. $6 cumulative convertible prior preferred stock at 127½ in a special offering on the New York Stock exchange. The commission was $1.25 a share.

LIFE INSURANCE IN 1945 REACHES PEAK SINCE 1931

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—New life insurance placed in force this year will reach the largest total since 1931 and will exceed the 1944 aggregate by about 5 per cent, Dave E. Satterfield, executive director of the Life Insurance Association of America, said today.

"New life insurance policies placed in force in all United States legal reserve life insurance companies during 1945—not including policies revived or increased—will total approximately 15 billion 300 million dollars," he said at the group's annual meeting.

George Willard Smith, president of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company of Boston, was elected president, succeeding James A. Fulton, president of the Home Life Insurance Company of New York.

C.& E.I. Puts Safety Lights on Main Passenger Trains

INSURANCE FIRM STARTS 34,000 N.Y. HOME UNITS

City Housing Plans Behind Schedule

BY CHARLES GOTTHART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Dec. 14—Metropolitan Life Insurance company officials said today that preparatory work was on schedule in the construction of three housing projects which will cost 75 million dollars—the most ambitious of the privately financed programs to relieve a New York home shortage that daily becomes more acute.

Meanwhile city government housing was behind schedule because costs had outdistanced original estimates and because of what Mayor Fiorello La Guardia termed the hampering influence of union jurisdictional disputes.

George Gove, Metropolitan's 3d vice president in charge of real estate operations, said the company could not undertake any Chicago area projects at present because of the magnitude of commitments already made. It will have 200 million dollars invested in housing when the three new projects are completed.

Equitable Interested in Chicago

However, John H. Muller, vice president of Equitable Life Assurance society, said he would visit Chicago soon to canvass the feasibility of constructing housing under the Illinois redevelopment law, which was designed to expedite slum clearance with private capital.

Metropolitan's new developments providing 34,000 more home units are Stuyvesant Town and Peter Cooper Village on Manhattan's lower east side, and Riverton in Harlem. Some of the these units are expected to be ready for occupancy early in 1947. Gove said test borings had been finished and that the driving of piles for foundations would begin at once.

Stuyvesant and Riverton are being built under New York's redevelopment companies law, which limits the owner's gross investment return to 6 per cent. In return for certain tax concessions, Metropolitan will limit Stuyvesant rentals to $14 a room monthly, and Riverton rentals to $12.50. Taxes will be assessed for 25 years on the basis of land and building values applying to the tenement and other obsolete buildings being razed.

Not Under Rental Curb

Peter Cooper will not be under these rental restrictions, being built under the New York law permitting insurance companies to invest certain portions of their assets in housing.

Equitable Life announced that construction was nearing completion on four 100 family housing units of is Clinton Hill development in Brooklyn and that four similar units would be started soon. As an indication of the acute housing shortage, Muller said there were 4,000 applicants for the 400 apartments being completed.

With work about to begin on the remaining four units, Clinton Hill will contain 11 buildings housing about 1,200 families and costing about 7 million dollars.

Weeks Behind Schedule

The first of the 18 post-war projects to cost nearly 120 million dollars blueprinted by the New York City housing authority already is several weeks behind schedule, but foundation work is scheduled to begin soon. It is on the west side of Manhattan.

Meanwhile, large scale building in the New York area awaits proper channeling of building materials into low and medium priced homes. Authorities said there was no agreement on the efficacy of government proposals to achieve this.

BOARD OF TRADE ACQUIRES POWER TO BUY BUILDING

Members of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday voted 483 to 26 to amend its charter, broadening its powers to acquire stock of the Chicago Board of Trade Safe Deposit company, owner of the Board of Trade building. The original charter prohibited ownership of physical assets in excess of $200,000.

Attorneys for the exchange said the amendment, which also broadens other of its powers, was proposed to take advantage of a state law passed in 1941 providing added rights for special corporations.

Plan Terminal Bank's Shift to La Salle St.

BY AL CHASE

The Terminal National Bank of Chicago will move next spring from 400 W. Madison st. to larger quarters on La Salle st., it was learned yesterday. Leasing negotiations are virtually completed for the banking floor of the 120 S. La Salle st. building, occupied by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

The Terminal bank will change its name to suit its new location. It derived its present name from its proximity to two big railroad terminals.

Plan to Move in February

C. S. Young, president of the federal reserve bank, said that institution probably would begin moving early in February to the quarters at 230 S. La Salle st., and space under lease but not in use by the bank in the Insurance Exchange building.

The Terminal bank's new name has not been determined, said William F. Gregson, president, altho it was understood several are under consideration.

Terminal opened for business Nov. 1, 1929. Its deposits are $32,717,705, said Edward B. Keating, assistant to the president.

Formerly State Bank Building

Terminal will occupy space originally used by the State Bank of Chicago. When the State bank went out of business the name of the State Bank of Chicago building was changed to 120 S. La Salle st. It is owned by La Salle Street Buildings, Inc., also owner of 33 N. La Salle st.

Another change pending in La Salle street is the moving of the Halsted Exchange National bank from 1929 S. Halsted st. to the National Republic building, 134 S. La Salle.

LAND AT CLARK, RANDOLPH SOLD AT $159 A SQ. FT.

The land under the six story building at the southeast corner of Clark and Randolph sts., 70 by 31 feet, was sold yesterday by Samuel D. Rowe of Barrington and others to Louis, Arthur, and Sam Bernstein, owners of the U. S. Loan bank, 10 N. Clark st. The $345,000 price is equal to $159 per square foot. The new owners will receive $24,000 annual ground rent for 60 years from James Annes, owner of the leasehold and building, approximately 7 per cent on their investment. Winston & Co. was broker for the sellers and H. George Miller for the buyers.

The 4720 St. Louis company bought the two and three story buildings at the southwest corner of 47th st. and St. Louis av., in the Kedzie development of the Central Manufacturing district, for $846,000. The Walgreen company has renewed its lease on the buildings for 25 years at $1,280,000 for the term.

SUPPLY OF PORK IN COLD STORAGE INCREASES 38 PCT.

Pork stocks in cold storage on Dec. 1 totaled 233,130,000 pounds, an increase of 38 per cent above Nov. 1, and the biggest rise in pork supplies since February, 1944, the department of agriculture said yesterday. This increase brought total meat supplies above Nov. 1 levels altho stocks of other meats decreased.

Beef supplies in storage were 169,395,000 pounds, the lowest level since April. Lamb and mutton stocks were the largest since August at 14,449,000 pounds.

Smaller receipts yesterday held Chicago hog prices at ceiling levels, equal to the highest prices since September, 1943.

Cattle receipts of 2,300 were among the smallest for a Friday in five months. However, some weakness developed in all classes except prime $18 steers. Sheep and lamb prices were steady in slow trading.

UNDERWEAR MAKERS EXPECT NO EASING OF SHORTAGE IN SUPPLY

Men prominent in the country's underwear industry last night said they had no hope for an early increase in underwear supplies. They said OPA price ceilings were the prime cause for the shortage.

The manufacturers made their prediction at a meeting of the Underwear institute in the Drake hotel. They said unfair ceiling prices had driven cheaper garments out of production and had encouraged output of higher priced garments.

The industry is dependent upon cotton, wool, and rayon yarns for its production, said Roy A. Cheney, institute president. However, existing OPA ceilings make it more profitable for yarn spinners to export their products, to die the yarns, and sell to others outside the underwear industry or to have the yarn knitted into cloth for other industries.

Ernest L. Olrich, president of Munsingwear, Inc., and former controler and operating manager of Marshall Field & Co., said the situation "will become worse before it improves," and predicted no improvement for at least six or eight months.

Olrich and Cheney received war department certificates of appreciation for their assistance in procuring underwear for the army during the war.

Special Courts Urged to Meet Patent Needs

Creation of special patent courts to handle problems resulting from technological advances was proposed last night by Casper W. Ooms, United States commissioner of patents, in an address before the Chicago section of the American Chemical society in the Furniture Club of America headquarters.

"The patent litigation process is becoming increasingly difficult because of the profound character of modern science and the need for technical assistance in the determination of the technical scientific questions posed by most patent cases," said Ooms. "The courts must be aided either by impartial experts of unquestioned competency or by the establishment of separate patent tribunals."

Extensive changes also are needed in the administrative procedure of granting patents, said Ooms. The system should be simplified to facilitate and speed the issuance of patents so disclosure to the public may be expedited. He said remedies must be devised to permit the patent owner the fullest exploitation of his invention.

Robert Gottschalk, patent counsel of Corn Products Refining company, said the high mortality of patents in court litigation tends to discourage invention and the necessary investment of risk capital.

AUTHORIZES I.C. TO CONSOLIDATE 3 SUBSIDIARIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Illinois Central railroad to consolidate the Mississippi Valley company, Gulf and Ship Island railroad, and Yazoo, and Mississippi Valley railroad, all three now controled thru stock ownership. No cash payments are involved. The I. C. C. said the road, "in preparation for the refinancing of its funded debt, the greater portion of which matures in 1955, has determined to consolidate all of the lines of railroads owned and controled by it so that it will be in a position to create an over-all first and refunding mortgage on all the lines of the system."

LATIN OUTLETS FOR MIDWEST GOODS STUDIED

War Made Dollars Ready to Be Spent

Preliminary reports from two Illinois Central railroad officials making a four-month survey of trade opportunities between North and South America say South America needs almost all kinds of goods produced in the middle west, a company spokesman said yesterday.

Other conclusions are that American business men have an excellent reputation for business integrity; United States' goods are rated high quality, and South Americans have the dollars to pay for these goods.

The reports cover 20 commercial centers in every South American country and were written by Philip A. Webb Jr., general traffic agent in Chicago, and Jose M. Giralt, general agent in Havana, Cuba. They left this country Sept. 10 and will make a complete report when they return soon after Jan. 1.

Have Big Dollar Credit

The spokesman said the South American countries accumulated substantial dollar credits in the war by supplying the allied nations with such critical materials as lead, tin, zinc, copper, mercury, fibers, tanning materials, and hides.

The South American countries wish to purchase almost all types of manufactured goods and even food products which South America produces in substantial quantities. The food items include flour, lard, prepared foods, canned goods, and rolled oats.

It was explained that altho Argentina is a large cattle and wheat raising country, it is in the southernmost part of the continent and farther from some of the countries of the north and west than is the United States.

Study Is Widespread

The officials conferred with bankers, exporters, importers, newspaper publishers, United States consuls and commercial attaches, executives of various chambers of commerce, and other leaders in foreign trade activities. One to two weeks were spent in the larger cities, two to three days in the smaller communities.

The trip was undertaken because it was believed the "midwest and its products were not sufficiently known in South America," and the present was the most opportune time to inform South American countries of trade possibilities.

GRAINS DECLINE AFTER BREAK IN OLD CROP RYE

General selling of old crop rye futures turned grain markets mostly lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. The break in rye was attributed to reports that the office of price administration had refused to shift the effective date of 1946 crop ceilings beyond June 1 as was urged by Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.], chairman of the senate agriculture committee.

December rye broke 4⅝ cents from the early high and closed at the bottom at $1.73¾ a bushel, a net loss of 3¾ cents. May was down 2⅝ cents. July rye finished unchanged at the ceiling price and September was ⅜ lower.

Wheat and oats showed strength early, but weakened in sympathy with rye. The active deliveries of wheat closed ⅜ to ½ lower and oats were unchanged to ⅜ lower. Corn was unchanged at ceiling prices and barley unchanged to ¼ higher.

CONSOLIDATION SOON MAY END SWPC AS AGENCY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The Smaller War Plants corporation, Maury Maverick's agency of 1,150 employes, may be one of the first consolidated out of existence with signing of the federal reorganization bill.

Two months ago an executive order was circulated within the government eliminating SWPC, giving its lending functions to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and its remaining jobs to the department of commerce, it was learned today.

The order was blocked almost on the eve of its issuance by the department of justice which held that only congress could dissolve an agency created by act of congress. The measure awaiting President Truman's signature would clear away that obstacle.

Strikes, OPA Dash Holiday Hope for Cars

Strikes and office of price administration barriers have kept from Chicago most of the 1946 model automobiles expected to be rolling in the city's streets by Christmas time.

About 1,000 of the 1946 model Fords have been delivered in Chicago, but it is difficult to find one among the hundreds of thousands of older cars. A few Mercurys, which were on public display the first time yesterday, may be delivered early next week.

Other 1946 models are about as much a rarity as pre-World War I. cars.

Deliveries Termed Accident

A few Chevrolets—possibly a half dozen—reached the Chicago public before the General Motors strike blocked deliveries. These deliveries were said to be "accidents," however, because the policy of the division was to withhold all cars from sale until all dealers were stocked and prices announced.

Deliveries of other cars in the General Motors line—Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile, and Pontiac—have been stopped by the strike, but samples are on display in dealers' showrooms. One Chicagoan said he saw a 1946 Buick driven on a north side boulevard, but a Buick official said even dealers have not been authorized to drive the new cars.

Also Short of Repairmen

None of the Chrysler line has been shown publicly. Production of Nash cars is reported to be increasing, but no deliveries will be made until the OPA sets prices. Studebaker production has been checked by a supplier's strike. Packard has not stocked all its dealers and is making no deliveries. Hudson, too, has made no sales to the public in the Chicago area.

The dealers also reported that mechanics and body men to service automobiles were not in adequate supply. Edward L. Cleary, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, said a personnel department had been set up to channel discharged war veterans to service department jobs.

U. S. SELLS BACK ILLINOIS LAND AT 86 PCT. OF COST

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The government announced today the first sale of surplus farm land, 5,257 acres in four Illinois areas, at 86 per cent of the price it paid. Principal purchasers were former owners who plan to return the land to production by spring.

The government paid $780,411 or $148.44 an acre for the land, described as "some of the best" in Illinois for farming. Resale prices totaled $674,240 or $128.25 an acre. The transactions were handled by the agriculture department.

The largest tract was approximately 4,000 acres of the 19,000 purchased for the Sangamon ordnance works at Illiopolis, Ill. It was used as a safety zone. Others were 640 acres on the perimeter of the Green River ordnance plant at Dixon, 21.9 acres at the Naperville Radar school, and 911 acres at the southern Illinois subsistence homestead project in Franklin county.

RFC TO REQUEST GENEVA STEEL MILL BIDS SOON

Washington, D. C. Dec. 14 (AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today said it would call for proposals "in the immediate future" for the purchase or lease of the 190 million dollar government owned steel plant at Geneva, Utah.

The plant has been a center of controversy over peace time utilization. It was built early in the war.

The Geneva property also includes coal mines at Columbia, iron ore mine facilities at Cedar City, and quarries at Payson.

People and Events

Paul Eckstein, sales manager of the Echophone division of Hallicrafters company, said yesterday Robert H. Campbell had been appointed midwest sales manager of the division. Campbell in the war years was chief expediter in charge of materials procurement for the company. Before becoming associated with Hallicrafters he was with Lyon & Healy, Silver-Marshall, Inc., and Howard Radio company. In his new position he will concentrate on home radio equipment sales.

Robert H. Campbell

Formation of the Chicago Area Council on Public Relations was announced by Rex F. Harlow of San Francisco, president of the American council. E. M. Claypool of the Illinois Central railroad was elected president, Mrs. Hazel Ferguson of Butler Brothers, vice president, and George L. Treadwell of the Rotary Club of Chicago, secretary and treasurer.

Louis S. Hungerford, 85, Pullman company vice president, has retired after 67 years in the railroad business. He was credited with an important part in the development of sleeping car designs and service. He will continue as consultant for Pullman, Inc.

John D. Weaver, manager of Douglas Aircraft company's Park Ridge plant in the war, has resigned to enter private business in the manufacture of food machinery, Douglas announced. He had been with the company for 20 years and had been a technical assistant to Donald W. Douglas, president, since 1944.

STOCKS RALLY, LED BY RAILS, AIRS, LIQUORS

Trading Is Slowest Since September

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Rails, liquors, and aviations lifted the stock market in a selective recovery today altho trading was the slowest since Sept. 27 and many leaders continued to sag.

Light buying was attributed to the persistence of idle cash and reinstatement of sold-out commitments at the lower price levels brought by the reaction. Business and inflation prospects remained as buying arguments, but the continued labor turmoil was a brake.

Mounting profits aided the liquors and aircrafts. Carriers, buoyed by the improving traffic outlook, came to the fore after opening easy.

Eastern Air Holds Gain of 4

The Associated Press 60 stock composite rose 0.1 to 76. Of 918 issues dealt in, 447 advanced and 284 fell. Transfers totaled 1,130,000 shares against 1,220,000 yesterday.

Aided by dividends, actual or prospective, new highs were registered by South American Gold and Platinum, Milwaukee railway [when issued] common, Illinois Central, Hiram Walker, and Consolidated-Vultee.

Eastern Air Lines, up 8 at one time, ended with a gain of 4, and Schenley bounded 4¾.

United States Steel was up ¼ and Bethlehem off as much. Chrysler added ¾ and General Motors conceded ⅜.

On the Curb, Mercantile Stores spurted 17½ points on a 10 for 1 stock split proposal and held a 10 point gain on sales of 300 shares.

SECONDARY RAILS RISE

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Heavy dealings in secondary rails sent selected issues higher today, but the bond market otherwise was quiet and price changes narrow.

Milwaukee road adjustment 5s, strong in turnover of $898,000 par value, rose ⅞ to a new high of 37⅝. Gains of 1 to more than 2 points were made by Lackawanna 4s, Seaboard Airline income 4½s, Wisconsin Central 4s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, Alton 3s, and Chicago and Eastern Illinois incomes of 1937.

CHICAGO LIST IRREGULAR

Prices were irregular and turnover shrank to 35,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Trading, the narrowest in four and a half months, involved 74 issues, of which 27 advanced and 27 declined. More active were Automatic Washer, up ⅝; Chicago corporation, up ⅝; Central and South West Utilities, up ⅝ at a 1945 peak of 11; Oak Manufacturing, unchanged, and Admiral corporation, down ⅝.

FIGHT TO KEEP GREAT LAKES A STRONG BASE

Hints of Stripping It Bring Protests

BY THOMAS MORROW

Midwest governors, representatives of service organizations, and north shore civic leaders yesterday protested any hint that Great Lakes Naval Training center be stripped to the bone. The protest followed reports from Washington that the navy general board is to vote on a proposal to slash the largest inland training station to approximately 1,000 officers and men and a small radar installation.

"As far as the state of Indiana is concerned," said Gov. Gates, "we will insist that Great Lakes be retained as one of the major training bases. The contribution of the middle west in naval personnel thru the Great Lakes station justifies making it one of the larger peace time bases."

Points to Its Facilities

Gov. Goodland of Wisconsin asserted the central west should be entitled to a training base as large as any other naval district.

"Our young men have been going into the navy thru two wars," he said. "Why should there be talk of starting a reduction at Great Lakes? It has water and all other necessary training facilities. Its location is one of the safest and one of the best."

"Here in the middle west," said Gov. Kelly of Michigan, "we are conscious of the fact that Great Lakes is a preëminent naval base. We hope it continues to occupy that position in the future. Of course, I haven't any facts on which to base a conclusive judgment on this matter of what the size of the installation should be."

Milt Campbell, American Legion director of defense, said that any effort to reduce Great Lakes abnormally would be resisted by the Legion thru action taken at several conventions.

Plan Trip to Washington

"I do not understand the reports, however," Campbell said. "The day before yesterday I was told by training officers of the navy that Great Lakes and San Diego were to be two of the largest training centers. If we do not have universal military training, we can expect quite a whittle in Washington."

Campbell said that a group of Legion leaders was preparing to leave for Washington for a conference. He said he would inquire into reported plans for reduction at the Great Lakes center.

William J. Grace, former state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said the fact that the midwest furnished a high percentage of sailors should entitle the area to the consideration of a major training center. He pointed out that the location is one of the most secure in the country.

L. J. Wilmot, president of the Waukegan unit of the Navy league, said that organization, with 100 chapters in the 9th naval district, will be strongly behind demands to keep Great Lakes at sufficient peace time strength.

Cut Called Ridiculous

He termed ridiculous talk of reducing the personnel to 1,000 officers and men and said that the Waukegan-North Chicago Chamber of Commerce, which he served as a director, would actively oppose any unreasonable reduction.

"I cannot conceive of any such reduction," said Mayor Frank G. Wallin of Waukegan, "for security reasons alone. Millions were spent to build up the station and we should not slip back into the unpreparedness which followed the first World war. While I do not know at what strength the station should be kept, I will urge everything possible be done to halt any senseless reduction."

Mayor Plans Appeal

Mayor Joseph B. Garnett of Highland Park asserted the middle west is the ideal location for a naval training station for security reasons. He said the station has done a great job in both wars and added that he would ask senators and congressmen to see that it is kept at reasonable strength.

Edward M. Knox, president of the Highland Park Chamber of Commerce, pointed out that the middle west furnished a high percentage of sailors, and urged that the center's strength be substantial and proportionate with other training stations. He said that representatives in the congress should be urged to see that no unreasonable reduction be made.

SCHOOL DRIVE NETS 215,000 CANS OF FOOD

About 215,000 cans of food for overseas relief were collected in a one day drive in about 340 public schools last Wednesday, John Howatt, business manager for the board of education, reported yesterday.

The canned foods will be collected today by city trucks provided by Lloyd M. Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, and volunteer trucks and operators for whose services Johnson has arranged. A triplicate receipt system will be used to insure the safe delivery of goods to the warehouse at 1000 S. Clark st., a storage point for the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

A week long drive in about 400 Catholic schools in the city ended yesterday and results will be tabulated today, a spokesman for the Catholic school board said.

PARK BOARD'S BUDGET TO GET HEARING SOON

The park board yesterday set Dec. 26 for a public hearing on its tentative budget for 1946 of $21,036,121. The total shows a decrease of $192,895 from 1945's budget. The corporate fund is $12,907,423, which is an increase of $1,118,979 over last year's corporate fund. The sum of $8,128,698 is set up for bond redemption and interest, a decrease of $1,311,875 from 1945. Robert J. Dunham, president of the board, said the higher corporate fund reflects to a limited extent the present tendency to increase salaries and wages.
